Finnish Flyers Bomb Shivering Russians

NIGHT RAIDERS SPOT TROOPS BY GLARE OF FIRES

Repel New Drive on Mannerheim Line.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 6 (AP).—Guided by the snow-reflected glare of hundreds of campfires, Finnish warplanes tonight bombed massive Red army infantry concentrations before the Mannerheim line after repelling soviet tanks and manpower which broke five times in futile assault against one Finnish base.

This new technique of "blitz" attack—swift, brief, and deadly—by the Finnish air force was begun last night, and was resumed after the early twilight fell today.

Couriers from the front lines said the campfires of the soviet attackers were the key to success of the raids. They explained that the Russians had massed great numbers of infantrymen in the Summa sector, 20 miles south of the Finnish city of Viipuri [Viborg], without adequate provision for shelter against the cold and that the troops had to gather about open fires to keep from freezing.

Step Up Bombing Raids.

These fires made splendid targets for the Finnish bombers. Other farther ranging planes meantime bombed soviet troop columns with increasing frequency.

A Finnish officer returning from the Mannerheim line area of the Karelian isthmus said the Summa front, about 11 miles long between Muolaajarvi and Hatjanlahti, had suffered the most violent artillery bombardment of the war.

"The area is as full of shell craters as any part of the western front during the world war," he declared.

Asked when he thought the Summa attack would end, he replied:

"When the Russians have lost enough men and tanks to realize they cannot get thru anyway."

Reds Use 150 Tanks.

Then the infantry attacked in waves for two days with soviet flyers machine gunning Finnish lines in the rear. The officers reported the Russians used 150 tanks in the attack.

North of Lake Ladoga, on the left flank of the Mannerheim line, the Finns played a waiting game with the trapped 18th Russian division. There was no confirmation of reports that this division had been destroyed, but the Finnish communique tonight said, "Our troops repulsed continuous enemy attacks on the Pitkaranta Islands, south of Kitela, and on the coast."

The 18th division, however, now is believed surrounded in the Kitela sector, in danger of destruction, with the Finns cannily avoiding wasting manpower to complete the job, content instead to let cold and hunger do the work for them.

Several Hundred Killed.

Farther north of the Kitela sector, the communique said, "the enemy again was driven off with several hundred killed in the Lieksa and Kuhmo sectors. Small enemy attacks were repulsed also near Markajarvi [in the Salla sector north of the Arctic circle]."

West of Markajarvi, Rovaniemi, the capital of Finnish Lapland, was bombed by Russian planes tonight and the town's power lines were put out of commission. One woman died of heart failure when bombs fell nearby. Exact casualties were not disclosed.

That the Red army is able to continue its powerful frontal attacks on the Mannerheim line is proof of the extent to which it has reinforced its infantry and tank forces near Summa in an effort to break thru the tight Finnish positions.

Attacks Proving Costly.

Foreign observers consider that these attacks are proving enormously costly to the soviet armies both in men and munitions, yet the soviet reserve forces still seem strong.

The Finns said several powerful Russian attacks, supported by artillery preparation and many tanks, were repulsed yesterday between Summa and Hatjanlahti Lake, with 22 tanks destroyed and "heavy" Russian losses.

There were continued reports of

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7, Wednesday.—Peter Barnes and James Richards, members of the outlawed Irish Republican army, were hanged in Birmingham today. They were sentenced to death on Dec. 14, after being convicted of murder by a British court for having participated in a bombing at Coventry last August in which five persons were killed.

Efforts to obtain a reprieve for the pair failed last night. Several thousand police officers were on duty in London and Birmingham throughout the night to prevent members of the Irish Republican army from following up a series of terroristic bomb explosions that began yesterday morning in London's Euston station.

Two bombs exploded in mail trucks, injuring five persons in the station, which is the terminus for Irish mail trains. Explosions also occurred in Birmingham and Manchester. Two persons were hurt in Birmingham, none in Manchester.

Guard Members of Cabinet.

British newspapers disclosed that most members of the British cabinet were being escorted in public by three detectives each. Other special police precautions were taken against possible reprisals.

Barnes, 32 years old, and Richards, 29, the condemned Irishmen, went to their deaths on the gallows in Winton Green prison in Birmingham.

Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Ireland had made a strong plea for clemency on behalf of the doomed men. Acting on orders from Dublin, John W. Dulanty, Ireland's high commissioner in London, called on Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain last evening and in a 20 minute conference pleaded that the lives of the two be spared.

"I received Mr. Chamberlain's considerate attention," Dulanty said after leaving the prime minister's official residence at No. 10 Downing street.

Telephones De Valera.

As soon as the high commissioner returned to his office he had a telephone conversation with De Valera in Dublin.

Earlier in the day Dulanty conferred with Anthony Eden, dominions secretary.

It was presumed that the pleas for leniency were rejected because the bombing in which Barnes and Richards participated was the most serious in 291 explosions attributed to the Irish Republican army last year.

The Winton Green prison at Birmingham was in a state of siege at the hour of the executions to prevent any attempt to kidnap the prisoners or interfere in any way with the executions. Surrounding streets resembled an armed camp.

Close Streets to Prison.

Officers from Scotland Yard were sent to Birmingham to patrol the streets to avert any disorders. Pedestrians were forbidden to congregate near the prison. Streets leading to the prison were closed.

In London the most extensive police precautions in several years were put into force to prevent demonstrations by I. R. A. members. Ten thousand policemen were on duty and every known sympathizer of the I. R. A. was under observation.

CORN REFINERS HURT BY CHEAP JAVA IMPORTS

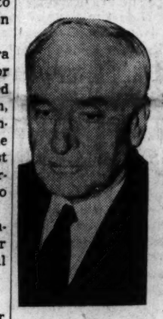
Assail Trade Treaty with Holland.

Issue Before Congress

Congress soon will decide whether the Hull reciprocal trade treaties shall be renewed on June 12, the date fixed by the trade agreements act for their expiration. With hearings in progress before the house ways and means committee, a TRIBUNE reporter has traveled thruout the south and middle west to determine first hand how the treaties have affected the sugar, corn, textile, rice, dairying, and other divisions of the national economy. The first article deals with the central west's corn refining industry. Other articles will appear in the business section of THE TRIBUNE.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Out in sunbaked Java, in the Dutch East Indies, coolies toil 12 hours a day in the sweltering heat, processing tapioca root and sago starch for the American market. Their pay is 25 cents a day.



Cordell Hull.

They use little coal in the process. The blazing sun, beating down against the iron sheets on which the white starch masses are spread, does the work just as thoroly as does Illinois coal in the 13 corn processing plants that center in and cluster about this state; plants in which the corn starch workers are paid a minimum of $5 for an eight hour working day.

Needs of American Worker.

The American worker, who must compete with the coolie under the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties, finds that his $5 is no more than he must have for a weatherproof house or flat and for food that must include meat, bread, potatoes, beans, milk, butter, eggs, fruits, and vegetables. And his employer spends millions for corn processing machinery, buildings, ground upon which to erect his factory, and for taxes.

Furthermore, there is just as wide a difference between the living standards of the Javanese who raises tapioca and gathers sago and the American corn farmer or farm hand with whom he competes. This has been shown thru studies by the Corn Industries Research Foundation, which also have revealed that tapioca and sago starches are produced often at a fraction of the cost of processing corn starch.

Yet the tropical and the American starches are largely interchangeable in diet and industry and the Javanese starch under the reciprocal trade treaties has been bound to the free list. It comes in without payment of tariff, displacing American corn starch, and, hence, corn.

Act Passed in 1934.

The trade agreements act, conceived by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, long committed to the principles of free trade, was passed by congress in June, 1934. It affects hundreds of American commodities upon which the tariff has been lowered thru the President's new power to negotiate trade agreements with other nations.

The chief executive arbitrarily can reduce the impost on a wide variety of foreign articles on the condition that corresponding duty cuts on American exported goods are made. Opponents of the treaties, in congress and out, charge there are many flaws in the system and specify two major ones.

1. The treaties delegate legislative powers to the President. [The senate does not have to ratify the deals he makes.]

2. A concession granted to one

4 Schoolboys Held in $10,000 Burglar Gang

BY HERMAN KOGAN.

Until yesterday, Harold Fransen and his three pals had never been inside a police station. More familiar to them were the halls and classrooms of various high schools.

Fransen, 17 years old, was and Earl Ehler, only 15, is a student at Roosevelt High school. Alex Port, 17, is a sophomore at Von Steuben High school, and Robert Jandt, also 17, attends the Washburne Continuation High school.

They were—until three months ago—content with the periodic allowances their hard working parents were able to give them. Then, last November, while still attending daily school sessions, they decided to get "easy money" by burglaries.

15 Victims Sign Complaints.

Last night, Fransen and his pals were locked up in the Albany Park station. Fifteen complaints charging them with burglary already have been signed and police believe that the number will be doubled in the next few days. Their estimated loot was $10,000, mostly in jewelry. But all the boys actually got from their thefts was about $200.

As victim after victim trooped into the station last night to identify some of the articles recovered, the schoolboys talked boastfully.

"They'd never have caught us if it hadn't been for this old screwball, Earl, here," mumbled Fransen, acknowledged leader of the gang. "He had to go and get caught and tell on us, the little squealer. I wouldn't squeal, I bet."

Seized Attempting Burglary.

Earl was seized late Monday night by Detectives Thomas Smith, Edward Lowing, and Edward Schumacher as he was attempting to break into a house in the 4400 block of Ainslie street. He named the others.

"I ain't a squealer," he insisted. The others said "Yah," and stared at the ceiling.

Fransen, continually combing his shock of red hair as he spoke, was the most voluble member of the gang.

"They'll never get me into no pen," he said. "Me, I'm going to plead insanity. I got dropped on my head when I was a baby. I'm nuts, see. Did I know what I was doing?"

"I like movies and I like to eat," he continued. "So do the other guys. When we got some dough we would go in and out of movies on State street. Then we did the same in restaurants—eat a steak in one, chicken in another."

The boy' average share was $5 on each burglary. "We didn't trust each other," Port said. "After our jobs each night we used to search each other to see that nobody got gypped."

Some of the proceeds went for a room in a north side hotel in which Fransen and Ehler lived for a week. Other money went for candy and various delicacies. Girls? "We ain't sissies," Jandt sneered. "We don't have anything to do with girls. Why spend money on them?"

Sorry for His Father.

The boys showed their only remorse when they spoke of their parents. Even Fransen, who dotes on his hard boiled attitudes, said, "This'll make my old man sad. He works pretty hard, you know."

Fransen's address is 4725 North Kenneth avenue. Port lives at 4111 North Kedzie avenue, and Jandt at 4734 North Kildare avenue.

As for the parents, the comment of Mrs. William Ehler, Earl's mother, who lives with her husband, a WPA worker, and another child at 3485 Elston avenue, reflected the feelings of the others.

"My boy's a good boy," she said. "He got mixed up with bad companions."

A PRETTY CLERK WHO SAYS 'PHOOEY' TO HIM UNNERVES A GUNMAN

Miss Elizabeth Hubert, 19 years old, comely clerk in a dry cleaner's shop at 1463 East 51st street, was alone behind the counter last evening when a well dressed young man entered. He thrust his right hand into the pocket of his tan coat and said in a high voice:

"Give me that little white cash box under the counter."

"There's no money in the box," said Miss Hubert truthfully. "The money's in another box under the other counter. If you want it, get it yourself."

"Listen, lady," said the bandit plaintively. "Give me that box or I'll shoot!"

"Phooey!" said Miss Hubert. With a shrug, she turned her back on him.

Stamping his foot in vexation, the bandit wheeled and walked out of the shop. He slammed the door, which proved, Miss Hubert told police, that he was no gentleman. She looked under the second counter and her employer's $25 was there, safe and sound.

U. S. Seizes 12 as Recruiting Aids for Reds

Red Hookup Exposed

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 [Special].—Commenting upon the arrest today in Detroit and Milwaukee of 12 persons charged with illegally recruiting American citizens for service with the communist forces in the recent Spanish civil war, Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] tonight remarked that it was significant that the Roosevelt administration has only recently been pressing prosecution against communists.

"The Detroit prosecutions were not started until after the severance of friendly relations between the communist party and the New Deal," he said. "The New Deal broke with the communists after the Nazi-soviet pact. The hookup between the two, and the break, were exposed by Earl Browder recently in a New York speech delivered after his conviction on a passport violation charge."

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 6 [Special].—Twelve persons, including several communists or communist sympathizers, were arrested today by agents of the federal bureau of investigation on charges of recruiting soldiers in the United States for the communist supported side in the recent Spanish civil war. Eleven were seized here and one in Milwaukee.

Mary Paige after arrest. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The prosecution came as a surprise. While the war was in progress government agencies failed to take action on protests against recruiting Americans and soliciting large sums of money here to augment communist help being given the losing Spanish Loyalist army.

Sixteen persons were indicted secretly last Saturday by a federal grand jury serving before Judge Edward J. Moinet in the United States District court here. Announcement of the 12 arrests was made by John C. Lehr, United States attorney at Detroit.

Acts Committed in 1937-'38.

Lehr said the recruiting charged in the true bills was done in Detroit in 1937 and 1938. He said 400 men, mostly unemployed auto plant workers, were recruited here, but that less than a third of them returned from Spain. The others, he said, were killed in action or are being held in concentration camps.

The defendants are accused of violating a section of the United States code which forbids recruiting for war service for foreign nations. The penalty is two years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Among those arrested are Philip Raymond of Detroit, candidate for governor of Michigan on the communist ticket in 1936; Robert Taylor, said to be executive secretary of the Abraham Lincoln brigade of American volunteers to Spain, who was wounded in November, 1937, while fighting in Spain; Rudolph Schweir, secretary of the Workers Alliance of Wayne [Detroit] county, and Joe Clark, identified as executive secretary of the Young Communist league.

Woman and 3 Doctors Held.

Others are Mary Paige, formerly of Port Huron; Dr. Eugene Shafarman, who as a member of the staff of the Detroit board of health was charged with giving physical examinations to recruits and charging the expense to

LETTERS IN PLOT FORGED, HOOK ADMITS IN HOUSE

Pelley Appears to Deny Charges.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—The forged documents which were made the basis of a communist plot to smear Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the committee on un-American activities were expunged from the Congressional Record by house action today.

Thus was climaxed a day of sensational developments in the investigation of the conspiracy which was earlier featured by the sudden appearance of William Dudley Pelley, the long-sought leader of the Silver Shirts, an anti-Semitic organization, whose name was signed to the forged letters.

Pelley, a fugitive for many months from the department of justice, investigators for the Dies committee and North Carolina state authorities, calmly walked into the headquarters of the Dies committee this morning and announced his identity.

Denies Writing Letters.

He was quickly hustled before the committee and later before the house rules committee, which was considering a resolution to expunge the forged letters from the Congressional Record where they were placed Jan. 22 by Representative Frank E. Hook [D., Mich.].

Pelley studied the letters supposedly written by him and testified that he had never seen them before, that the signatures were obvious forgeries. The self-admitted forger of the missives, David Mayne, then repeated his admission that he had concocted the documents for money, for the promise of a government job, and in his desire to expose what he termed a seditious conspiracy.

Representative Hook, who had used the letters to support charges that Dies was not as active in prosecuting Fascist and anti-Semitic groups as he was in his drive against communists, appeared crushed by this testimony.

Appears Before House.

He appeared before the house late this afternoon. He said he was now convinced that the letters, which he had "innocently" placed in the Record, were forgeries.

"I deeply regret that, believing them to be genuine and not knowing them to be forged, that I ever placed them in my remarks and beg the indulgence of this body that I be allowed to withdraw them from the Record," he declared. "I therefore ask unanimous consent that my entire speech of Jan. 22 be expunged."

"Are they being withdrawn because you concede they were a violation of the rules of the house?" asked Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.].

Apology Is Presented.

When Hook hesitated, Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] hastily interposed that the letters were concededly in violation of house rules.

"I want to know if the gentleman's remarks are to be interpreted as an apology to Mr. Dies and the Dies committee?" inquired Representative Frank B. Keefe [R., Wis.].

Cox again acted as spokesman for Hook, stating that such an apology was intended. Hook gulped and conceded that if any person's integrity had been impugned, he was sorry. There were no more interruptions or objections. The bang of the gavel wiped the forged letters and Hook's charges from the Record.

The permission given Hook saved him from the humiliation of action on the resolution expunging his speech and the letters. The investigation of the conspiracy to discredit Dies now rests in the hands of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, who has been given all the evidence in the case to study. Grand jury action has been requested by the Dies committee.

Tells Details of Plot.

The letters, indicating an understanding between Dies and Pelley, were forged by Mayne, he testified, for the benefit of Gardner Jackson, lobbyist for Labor's Non-Partisan league, and Harold Weisberg, former employé of the La Follette Civil Liberties committee. Weisberg paid $105 for the letters and promised Mayne a government job to be obtained thru Jackson.

Jackson and Weisberg were desirous of causing a scandal which would prevent the extension of the Dies committee investigation for another year. The house, however, approved the extension by an overwhelming vote and approved an additional appropriation of $75,000 for the inquiry.

Plans for blocking the Dies committee were discussed at a dinner party given by Gardner Jackson in his home last Jan. 9. Present were Representatives Hook, Abe Murdock [D., Utah], Joseph Casey [D., Mass.], a member of the Dies committee; John M. Coffee [D., Wash.], Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.], William H. Larrabee [D., Ind.], Donald Montgomery, AAA consumers counsel, and Prof. Steuart H. Britt of George Washington university. All present, however, denied knowledge of any plot to discredit Dies.

Proves Placid Witness.

At the hectic rules committee hearing, Pelley was a placid witness. As the publisher of violent and sometimes unprintable sentiments of an anti-Semitic nature, the legislators had prepared themselves for the appearance of an exciteable and voluble individual—the fanatic type. At this, his first congressional appearance, Pelley spoke quietly, to the point, and smoked his pipe while committee members wrangled and the photographers and motion picture camera men scrambled about the crowded, small committee room.

The curious saw a smartly dressed man of middle stature. His features were sallow, but regular, his blue eyes set under heavy black eyebrows, his dark gray hair smoothly brushed back. His gray mustache was closely trimmed and he sometimes caressed with a finger the merest wisp of a goatee. He displayed a habit of turning his profile for the benefit of the picture makers.

No Communication with Dies.

Handed the letters purportedly written by himself to Mayne, he examined them carefully and then remarked:

"Gentlemen, none of these letters was written by me, composed by me, or signed by me."

"Have you ever written Martin Dies, talked on the telephone with him, or communicated in any way with him in regard to the continuance of the Dies investigation or on any other matter?" he was asked by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.].

"Never," said Pelley, emphatically. He added that the only communication he had ever had with the committee was when he wrote the former counsel, Rhea Whitley, and Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.], asserting that a misunderstanding had prevented his appearance before the committee and that he was willing in the future to testify.

Hook Questions Witness.

Pelley testified that he had never met Gardner Jackson or Weisberg. He identified Mayne as a volunteer Washington reporter for the Silver Shirt publication, who sent occasional dispatches to Pelley concerning capital developments.

Representative Hook embarked on a lengthy examination of Pelley.

"Have you at any time ever received from your agents any information corresponding to the information in these documents [the forged letters] ?" Hook asked.

"You mean in regard to collusion between Dies and myself?" responded Pelley. "The first I knew about all this was when I read the newspapers. Neither Mayne nor any one else ever furnished me such information."

Hook then inquired about Pelley's activities in the last few months when he was being sought by both the justice department and the Dies committee. Pelley said he had been in Washington on occasion during this interval.

Evading North Carolina Authorities.

"Were there ever any negotiations to arrange a meeting of the Dies committee with yourself in a state where you would be immune to detention and with a pledge from the governor that you would not be extradited?"

"I had a report from one of my attorneys concerning that but I wasn't interested," Pelley replied.

"Why didn't you appear before today?"

"Because of certain complications down in North Carolina," Pelley said. [Pelley has been a fugitive from North Carolina for violation of a suspended sentence in connection with a blue sky law conviction five years ago.]

[Asheville, N. C., dispatches reported that Sheriff Laurence E. Brown had dispatched telegrams to the Washington police, the department of justice, and the Dies committee asking that Pelley be held for him. Pelley, however, still is under subpena by the Dies committee and as long as he is under this subpena he is immune from arrest.]

Mayne Repeats Confession.

Mayne, the confessed forger of the letters, was then placed on the witness stand. His attitude was defiant.

"I manufactured these documents myself," he told the committee. "I traced all the Pelley signatures, each and every one of them. They are not genuine documents."

Asked to explain why he committed the forgeries, Mayne declared he had done so in order to gain evidence of a seditious plot, a conspiracy.

"I first met Weisberg last October," he testified. "He was brought to me by John M. Henshaw. Weisberg was interested in getting data about the Silver Shirts, and I had been advertised to him as having a gripe against the Silver Shirts. I gave him several memorandums."

Acts for Dies Committee.

In December, Mayne continued, he obtained temporary employment with the Dies committee by representing that he could find Pelley. He was not paid a salary, but was given his transportation and expenses while he spent several days in Asheville in a futile search for Pelley, he said.

The promise of money and a government job by Weisberg caused Mayne to forge the letters, as well as his desire to expose a conspiracy, Mayne testified. He exacted a promise from Weisberg, he said, that he would be given 24 hours' notice of when the letters were to be used against Dies. He was given such notice on Jan. 22 and immediately informed Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.], a member of the Dies committee. It was on this date that Hook inserted the forged letters in the Congressional Record.

"That's a very convenient explanation," said Hook, commenting on Mayne's statement.

"I don't take that from any one!" Mayne shot at Hook. "I wanted to bring out a conspiracy. I wanted to save you the humiliation—if you were not implicated—of appearing for a bunch of rascals."

Clashes with Witness.

"Neither is yours!" yelled Mayne.

Hook then pleaded with the committee to permit him to go before the house and withdraw the forged documents.

"I don't want to be party to putting forged documents into the Record," Hook said. "I would never have put them in if I knew they were not genuine. I feel they should be taken out and I am going to ask the house for unanimous consent to do so. At the same time, I think the employment of this man by the Dies committee led up to this whole thing!"

Representative J. Bayard Clarke [D., N. C.] sternly ordered the last statement by Hook to be stricken from the record. He ordered a temporary adjournment and trouble then threatened.

Gardner Jackson approached Starnes and began belaboring him for implying that the dinner party at Jackson's house partook of a conspiracy. Starnes clenched his fists and then broke away thru the crowd.

URGES DIES QUIZ ON ACTIVITIES OF WAR AID GROUPS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—Charging that the name of former President Herbert Hoover was being exploited in connection with Finnish relief, Representative William B. Barry [D., N. Y.] called on the Dies committee today to investigate the operations of Finnish relief organizations and other groups created to assist foreign countries.

Barry, in a letter to Acting Chairman Joe Starnes [D., Ala.] of the committee, recalled that sympathetic appeals for aid to Belgium preceded America's entry into the last war and said he was "convinced that the propagandists have found a 'new Belgium' in brave little Finland and that every effort is being made to exploit the unfortunate situation of that country so as to inflame American public opinion."

MARTIN SHOWS HOW DEMOCRATS LOSE CONFIDENCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7 (AP).—House Minority Leader Martin said tonight Democratic leaders had lost confidence and "they showed it when they refused to set a date for their national convention."

"The reason they did not set a date was because they are sorely afraid," the Massachusetts Republican told a dinner meeting of more than 350 congressional secretaries from 164 Republican offices of Capitol hill.

"We Republicans want to set the date of our convention when our national committee meets here Feb. 16," he said. "And we want to put the date some time in June. We are about to win the greatest victory in American political history."

BROWDER THIRD IN N. Y. CONGRESS VACANCY BALLOT

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Earl Browder, the American communist leader under a four year federal prison sentence, was overwhelmingly defeated for congress today in a special election in the 14th congressional district in New York's east side and Greenwich village section.

The winner was M. Michael Edelstein, a Tammany Democrat who is pledged to support the New Deal. In second place was Louis Lefkowitz, a Republican. The district has been Democratic for many years.

Returns from all 61 election districts involved gave Edelstein, 12,962; Lefkowitz, 6,665, and Browder, 3,080. The election was to fill a house vacancy occasioned by the death of Representative William I. Sirovich, a Democrat.

EACH NEW DEAL ROLL CALL GETS MITCHELL'S 'AYE!'

Fight on Dies Consistent with His Record.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[This is the third in a series of articles reviewing the records of the five Illinois congressmen who were among the 21 who recently opposed continuation of the Dies investigation. All are candidates for reëlection this year.]

Rep. A. W. Mitchell.

Arthur W. Mitchell, only Negro member of congress and the first colored Democrat to be elected to that deliberative body, has been a consistent supporter of the New Deal ever since he was first elected in 1934.

Several of Mitchell's constituents have said this devotion to the national administration and its policies explains his vote against continuing the Dies investigation into un-American activities.

Mitchell was one of 21 Democratic representatives who sought to dissolve the Dies committee, which was given another year of life because 345 other congressmen voted for the extension. The lower house unanimously appropriated $75,000 to finance the renewed inquiry.

Opposition to Disclosures Told.

Congressman Mitchell is reported to have expressed privately opposition to the Dies group because of its disclosures of subversive activities within Democratic ranks. Ranking members of the party from the President down have at one time or another evidenced their displeasure over some of the Dies revelations.

William E. King, former state senator who is the principal Republican candidate for the 1st district congressional nomination, charged yesterday that Mitchell does not adequately represent in congress either his race or the predominantly colored 1st district.

"Why is it," King asked, "that the near south side's only federal housing development, the Ida Wells project, is still in its early construction stages while those in other parts of the city have been in use for many months? Why does not our congressman use his influence to end the delay that has made this housing project not a boon but a detriment to our people?

"Houses torn down three years ago for this project have not been replaced by other living quarters, and congestion has increased. The damage done our people by this delay can never be repaired."

Charges Politics in Relief.

King charged too that Mitchell and the Democratic organization that supports him are making a political football of relief. He recalled that last November the Better Government association made public a letter bearing Mitchell's signature telling an applicant for a WPA job that he must get political sponsorship before he would be considered.

"It is an unbroken rule of the Democratic organization in Chicago," the letter said in part, "that each person seeking help from his congressman must first get a letter from his ward committeeman requesting the congressman to take care of the matter. I must therefore insist that you get a letter from your committeeman first and then I shall be very glad to do everything in my power to help you."

In Washington Mitchell is known as a self-effacing individual who is well liked even by southern Democrats. He rarely appears on the house floor, and keeps in the background when he does so.

Assails Republican Side.

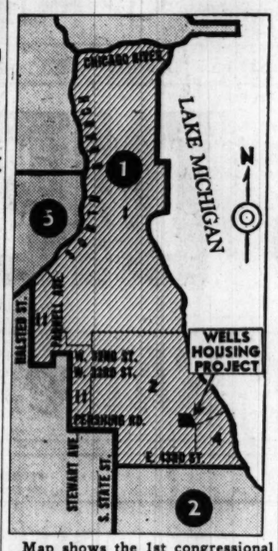
During the present session of congress he made a speech on the anti-lynching bill that was largely a political tirade against its Republican supporters. This talk is credited with having lost a number of votes for the measure, and as a result he has been accused of injuring legislation intended to benefit his race.

Like Congressman A. J. Sabath, another Chicagoan who voted against continuing the Dies committee, Mitchell benefits from the "rotten borough" system in Illinois created by the failure of the legislature to set up new congressional districts with equal populations. There were only 142,916 residents in this district in 1930, in contrast to the population of 577,998 in the neighboring 2d district.

The Illinois congressmen who opposed extending the Dies inquiry, besides Mitchell and Sabath, are Congressmen Raymond S. McKeough [2d], Frank W. Fries of Carlinville [21st], and Kent E. Keller of Ava [25th].

'Rotten Borough'

(Story in adjoining column.)



Map shows the 1st congressional district of Illinois which is represented by Arthur W. Mitchell, only Negro member of congress. The district, on the south side, includes the 1st ward, most of the 2d, and parts of the 4th and 11th wards. In 1930 it had 142,916 residents whence comes the appellation "rotten borough." The neighboring 2d district had a population of 577,998. Another "rotten borough" is the 5th district, represented by A. J. Sabath. It had 140,481 residents in 1930.

the city; Dr. John L. Rosefield, accused on a similar charge, and Dr. Frederick C. Lendrum, formerly of Detroit, who was arrested in Milwaukee.

All those arrested here stood mute on arraignment before Judge Moinet. Raymond's bond was set at $20,000; that of the others at $10,000 each except the two physicians, who provided bond of $2,500 each.

At Milwaukee, Dr. Lendrum appeared before United States Court Commissioner Floyd E. Jenkins, who set bond at $5,000 and continued to Feb. 14 the hearing on Dr. Lendrum's removal to Detroit.

Move Arouses Speculation.

Considerable interest was aroused by the government's apparent decision to press prosecution of violators of its laws. Altho action was not taken until after all possible help was given communist Spain, it indicated there may be more stringent enforcement in the future.

In this connection it was pointed out that it is not a violation of the federal statute for foreign born Americans to return of their own volition to their native land and enlist, as in the case of Finns going back to their fatherland, provided enlistments take place in the foreign country without any procurement activity in this country.

10,000 Enlistments Over Nation.

Despite laws prohibiting recruiting soldiers in this country to serve a foreign nation, it was reported that upwards of 10,000 Americans served in the Spanish war, many of whom were recruited.

Those who enlisted, it is charged, also violated an oath binding them not to serve in Spain, an oath they were required to take at the time they secured passports. For this they were liable to not more than two years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

Altho the department of justice and the state department questioned recruits who returned from the Spanish war, no action previously had been taken against them because, the department of justice argued, it was unable to find that the contracts to serve in Spain actually were made within the jurisdiction of this country.

In Chicago three labor organizations donated $35,000 to the Spanish government in 1936 and a big mass-meeting was held there to raise more money. The meeting was sponsored by the Socialist and communist parties of Cook county.

PRESIDENT HEARS 3D TERM VIEWS OF PARTY CHIEFS

Kelly Leaves for Home to Raise $150,000 Pledge.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—President Roosevelt spent several hours today foregathering with Democratic leaders from all parts of the country and hearing many of them tell him that his party wants him to run for a third term.

At 11 a. m. the President received and shook hands with more than 100 national committeemen and committeewomen and members of the Democratic state committees. At 5 p. m. the Democratic leaders returned to the White House to drink tea with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, but Mr. Roosevelt did not appear, nor was any explanation forthcoming from the White House.

These leaders were in Washington for the meeting yesterday of the Democratic national committee, which selected Chicago as the site of the 1940 Democratic national convention.

Kelly Departs for Chicago.

Neither Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago nor Patrick A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois, remained for the social events at the White House. They departed early in the day for Chicago to begin raising the fund the mayor promised as a consideration for choosing Chicago for the convention.

Chicago won the ballot in the committee upon Mayor Kelly's announcement that he would match the bid of Philadelphia, Pa., which was $130,000 in cash as an outright gift to the national committee and in addition the convention hall and appurtenances gratis. The total Philadelphia bid, it was calculated, represented $150,000.

So it is up to Mayor Kelly to raise $130,000 in cash for the committee and to provide the convention hall, decorations, etc., free of expense to the national committee.

3d Termers Boost Chicago.

The Chicago mayor, it transpires, came to Washington with the notion in the back of his head that it might be possible to get the convention for Chicago if the bids did not go too high, despite the fact that Chicago was making no initial money offer. The mere fact that Chicago made no formal bid tended to hold the competition in check, and when Philadelphia offered no more than $130,000 Mayor Kelly seized the opportunity.

Working to the advantage of Chicago was the third term boom for the President. It was understood that he favored Chicago, where he was nominated in 1932 and where he may be renominated in 1940. Third term boomers, eager to acquire merit with the President, supported Chicago.

Basking most conspicuously in White House favor is Mayor Kelly who not only launched the President's third term candidacy in Illinois but succeeded in putting the convention where Mr. Roosevelt wants it.

Hears Third Term Views.

The Presidential ears heard much sweet music from the national committeemen and committeewomen at the White House, but so far as could be learned Mr. Roosevelt vouchsafed to none of them any inkling of his intention to run or not to run.

Ordinarily a President, with the vast patronage at his disposal, can renominate himself, and many Democratic leaders who are unsympathetic to a third term are not disposed to dispute that Mr. Roosevelt can do it again even tho it involves a violation of the unwritten law limiting the presidential tenure to eight years.

Former Gov. O. D. Johnston of South Carolina voiced the sentiments of many members when he said: "There is nothing for the Democratic party to do but renominate the President—the people are for his policies and want him for another term."

Tells of Beating

MRS. LOIS WAGNER.

Mrs. Lois Wagner, 22 years old, 1135 Ardmore avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Oscar F. Nelson in Superior court. Mrs. Wagner, who once played a child rôle in the Buster Brown comedies in silent films, charged her husband, Roy, with beating her to make her less attractive to others. She said he also locked her up at home because of his jealousy. Wagner, a baker, was ordered to pay $7 a week for the support of a son, Bruce, 1 year old.

WEST SUCCEEDS DENEEN AS PARTY FACTION'S CHIEF

Roy O. West, secretary of the interior in the Coolidge cabinet and longtime associate of the late Charles S. Deneen, yesterday was chosen to succeed Deneen as chairman of the National Republican Party of Cook County, the Deneen faction.

Roy O. West.

West's selection was by acclamation at a luncheon meeting in the Morrison hotel, where Harry Hoff was designated to continue as secretary of the organization. Resolutions were adopted expressing sorrow at the death of former Senator Deneen, who died suddenly on Monday.

Late yesterday the Cook county central committee met and passed another resolution of condolence. It was introduced by eight committeemen who have been aligned with the Deneen wing of the party.

Charles W. Bryan to Back Roosevelt for Third Term

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 6 (AP).—Charles W. Bryan, Democratic nominee for Vice President in 1924, said today: "I will take whatever steps are necessary to have the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt appear on the Democratic ballot for President at the April 9 Nebraska primary election. I think this should be done in all other states of the midwest."

Shows How President and U. S. Reports Disagree.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, asserted today that if President Roosevelt's remarks concerning the financial status of the nation were reported correctly yesterday, the President had made "an extraordinary error" and was "9 billion dollars wrong."

Dewey issued a statement recalling that Mr. Roosevelt had been reported as saying that local debt, state debt, county debt, city debt, had gone down the full extent that federal debt had gone up, and that since private debt had decreased, the total debt was smaller.

Figures in Government Report.

"From 1932 to 1939," Dewey said, "state and local debt fell from $19,330,000,000 to $19,200,000,000. The total decline was $130,000,000. Meanwhile, the direct debt of the federal government alone increased about $21,000,000,000.

"Even if all state and local government debts in this country had been wiped out, they would not have declined as much as the federal debt has increased, because they never have amounted to as large a figure as the rise in the national debt under the New Deal.

"The President can find the facts in handy form compiled from official government sources in a study made by the division of program planning, agricultural industrial relations sections of his own Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Grand Total 157 Billions.

"This study shows that while state and local debts have gone down $130,000,000 since 1932, and private debt has fallen $17,500,000,000, the total of all government debt, including federal agencies, has increased nearly $26,500,000,000, and the grand total of government and private debt advanced from $148,903,000,000 in 1932 to $157,810,000,000 in 1939. Thus the total increase in all debt was $9,000,000,000.

"The President keeps referring to his 'hope' to see the national income rise to $80,000,000,000 and eventually to $90,000,000,000. So long as the New Deal administration remains in power, such a national income will remain in the realm of wishful thinking."

John Mustis, 6102 Ingleside avenue, an insurance collector, was robbed of $65 and his wrist watch last night by two colored men on a stairway at 4635 Langley avenue.

GARNER BREAKS SENATE TIE; AIDS BUDGET PRUNERS

First Vote Since 1934, 3d Since Elected.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—Vice President John N. Garner today cast his first vote in the senate in almost six years and thereby helped economy advocates win a hairline victory.

Garner struck his blow for lower expenditures by breaking a 34-34 tie on the first of a series of proposed amendments stripping $1,178,739 from the amount the house had voted for the Civil Aeronautics authority.

The Vice President is permitted to vote only when a tie occurs. Altho Garner has had numerous opportunities to break ties in the seven years he has presided in the senate, he previously had availed himself of the privilege only twice.

His Previous Votes.

The last time was on April 17, 1934, when he voted "'aye" to break a tie on a motion to take up a bill by the late Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] to prevent members of congress from acting as attorneys before government departments. His only other deciding vote was cast on June 2, 1933, when he supported an amendment to limit reductions in veterans' pensions to 25 per cent.

The amendment on which Garner voted cut $115,259 from the CAA funds contained in the $1,138,693,528 independent offices bill. The reduction had been recommended by the senate appropriations committee. A moment later the chamber again upheld the committee, 39 to 30, in cutting an additional $50,000 from the measure.

Pruning Continues.

Late in the day the senate completed legislative action on the first appropriation bill of the session—a $57,541,300 deficiency measure—and sent it to the White House. Including $29,000,000 for naval armaments and about the same amount for internal revenue bureau tax refunds, the measure was $2,783,700 below President Roosevelt's recommendations.

The house appropriations committee continued its economy drive today when it recommended a $2,285,010 slash in the amount asked by President Roosevelt for the state, commerce, and justice departments and the federal courts.

This further pruning brought the net congressional reduction in presidential budget estimates, after adding some restorations made by the senate, to $158,000,000.

President Takes Charge.

President Roosevelt returned to the White House today from a week-end visit at Hyde Park to assume personal command of the administration effort to head off drastic cuts in his budget estimates.

An hour after reaching the executive mansion the President was closeted with the legislative "big four"—Vice President Garner, Speaker William B. Bankhead, and the majority leaders, Senator Alben W. Barkley and Representative Sam Rayburn.

House slashes which reduced the administration's farm bill to $722,000,000 furnished the chief topic, according to the President's conferees. Pending a survey of senate sentiment, Senator Barkley would make no prediction on plans to have the cuts restored.

PASTOR TELLS SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE ABOUT TWO TEXAS LYNCHINGS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—An account of the lynching of two Negro boys by a Texas mob was given to a senate judiciary subcommittee today by the Rev. Gresham Marmion of Washington, an Episcopal clergyman. He made a dramatic plea for senate approval of federal antilynching legislation.

The young clergyman told how he pleaded in vain with a mob of from 300 to 500 persons in Colorado county, Texas, the night of Nov. 12, 1935, not to hang the boys, who were accused of killing a white girl.

The mob listened for a minute or two, the clergyman said, and then began booing. He said he was pulled from the fender of an old car that furnished light for the scene and the two Negro boys, 15 and 16 years old, were hanged.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], a leader in the group of senators who defeated similar legislation at the last session of congress, told the young minister: "I condemn lynching as heartily as you do." He asked the pastor, however, how members of the mob could be punished under the antilynching bill approved by the house. It seeks to curb lynching both by imposing penalties on peace officers found negligent in protecting prisoners from mobs, and by assessing damages against counties and municipalities.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Conferences today and tomorrow between the Democratic leaders of Illinois will set the stage for the state central committee meeting Friday in Springfield. The aim at that session will be the selection of a state slate.

Mayor Kelly and P. A. Nash, national committeeman, came home from Washington, D. C., having landed their party's national convention for Chicago, and are expected to join in today's discussions. Gov. Horner and the mayor have had one long personal conference on the slate and several telephone conversations. With the deadline upon them and the other leaders, action must now be taken.

Two ticklish problems confront the Democratic chieftains. One is Gov. Horner's physical frailty. The other is the governor's antipathy toward Lieut. Gov. John Stelle. Both men seek renomination—the governor for a third term, and Stelle another four years as second in command or, in the event Horner does not run after all, the governorship.

Fall Campaign Worries Chiefs.

If the governor ran without opposition, his renomination, with the full state-wide organization support, would be virtually assured. But it is the fall campaign that is worrying the leaders.

Altho Horner has made two short appearances before gatherings in Springfield recently, he frequently becomes so exhausted that he must remain in his bed or be confined to an easy schedule in the executive mansion. Over the week-end he had influenza, his physician said, but yesterday he was described as moving about the mansion again. He never has regained the robust health he enjoyed prior to suffering a heart attack in November, 1938.

Mayor Kelly has said for months that he will support the governor for a third term. National Committeeman Nash is believed to have reached the same decision. But neither has committed himself publicly on any other place on the state ticket.

Doubt Ability to Make Fight.

Nor have they commented upon Horner's frailty, altho it is an open secret in Springfield that the governor is in no shape to take the stump in the fall and make the sort of slashing campaign which the Republican nominee is bound to bring to him.

Lieut. Gov. Stelle is expected here this morning. During the day there are likely to be telephone calls to the mansion in Springfield, or it is possible one of the governor's Chicago aids will go to the capitol to talk with him. Mayor Kelly may decide to go to Springfield himself, returning the visit the governor made to his home here a few weeks ago.

Postmaster General James A. Farley has been invited to stay with the governor next week-end, when he goes to Springfield to speak jointly on a Lincoln's birthday program with former Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee.

Washington Leaders Concerned.

Week-end reports from Washington pictured national Democratic leaders as worried over the Illinois situation, both from the standpoint of the governor's health and his feud with Stelle. It is possible slate-making may be delayed until after the visit of the postmaster general-national chairman, but leaders say this is only speculation.

Before he turned to politics, Mayor Kelly said he would make personal appeals to "a few of Chicago's business leaders" to raise the funds he pledged for expenses of the national convention.

The mayor said the cash contribution is to be $125,000 and that in addition the city will supply the convention hall—the Chicago stadium.

"We were competing against Philadelphia, which has a municipal stadium," the mayor said. "That is why we must supply one to the convention. I'm not going to have any large meetings of business men to raise the money. I'm just going to call a few of the leaders with whom I am personally acquainted. There is no question that the convention will benefit the city, and there should be no difficulty in raising the amount."

Acting Mayor of Urbana Wins in Special Election

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP).—George F. Hurd, a Republican who has been acting mayor of Urbana since last fall, today was elected mayor in a special election, defeating Charles F. Medrow, Democrat, a former alderman, by a vote of 1,636 to 493. The election was to fill out the unexpired term of the late Mayor John Gray which ends in May, 1941. Gray died last September.

Tragedy

FRANCES PARUCH.

Frances Paruch, 23 years old, 924 North Hoyne avenue, and Edward Hedberg, 26, of 4334 Crystal street, were sweethearts for more than four years. They danced and swam and attended parties and picnics together. Their families, last evening, said they were good friends hu were not engaged.

One week ago they quarreled. And last Sunday morning Edward was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding skidded into a light pole on Joliet highway at Amelia avenue in Lyons, Ill. Last evening friends of the Hedberg family viewed his body at the Halleman mortuary, 4138 North avenue.

Among them was Frances. After quietly standing by she walked into another room and drank poison. Shakespeare avenue police took her to County hospital where physicians said her condition is critical.

JOBS VS. TAXES IS VITAL ISSUE, LYONS ASSERTS

Murphysboro, Ill., Feb. 6 [Special].—"Every Republican worker and citizen who believes in the Republican philosophy of government should impress on the mind of the man who is unemployed or on relief that the best friend he has is the employer who meets a pay roll on Saturday, because that man represents his hope and chance for selfrespecting employment." So declared Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, Republican candidate for governor, here tonight before a Republican massmeeting in the Jackson county courthouse.

"The issue is clear cut," said Lyons, who served ten years in the Illinois general assembly. "It is a case of jobs versus taxes. If the balance or happy medium between them is not found, we will continue our present program of 'economic error,' and crash headlong into the stone wall of economic catastrophe.

"To bring a return to prosperity we must create more jobs in private industry for the millions of unemployed."

Ballet Dancer's Big Chance in Movies Ends in Tragedy

GOVERNOR URGED TO CITE THE LAW ON SLUSH LEVIES

Club Suggests He Notify State Employes.

Officers of the Union League club yesterday proposed that Gov. Horner issue an open letter to state civil service employés, advising them that it is their right to resist forced levies upon them, such as were made by The Illinoisans, the group soliciting funds for Horner's third term campaign.

John L. Clarkson, president of the club; John A. Dienner, chairman of the public affairs committee, and Joseph D. Lawyer, for the subcommittee on civil service, made this proposal in a letter to Attorney General John E. Cassidy, a copy of which was sent to the executive mansion in Springfield.

The communication went to Cassidy, rather than to Horner, because it continued a correspondence which the club has been conducting with the attorney general on the subject.

Way to Stop Evil.

"It appears to us," the newest letter read, "that an effective way to stop or prevent recurrence of the evil [of soliciting classified employés] would be for Gov. Horner to issue, either directly or thru your office, as is deemed advisable, an open letter to civil service employés, advising them that the practice complained of is contrary to the law, and advising them further that they are within their rights to resist forced contributions or levies, and further, that they will not be subjected to reprisals.

"Such a letter, we believe, would be a most effective way of educating not only the employés concerned but potential violators, as well as the public, with regard to the rights of civil service employés."

In Springfield last night, Attorney General Cassidy said he would have no comment until after he has received the letter. "Then I shall study it and reflect," he added.

Letter Sent to Commission.

In another letter to W. Emery Lancaster, chairman of the civil service commission, and which was signed by Clarkson, the chairman was informed of the proposal transmitted to the governor thru Cassidy.

While Clarkson wrote that he thought the steps taken by the commission to prevent political assessment of civil service employés were laudable, he added that the Union League club believes "that some other more effective medium for advising these employés of their rights and for warning potential offenders against unlawful activity is not only desirable but necessary."

SUIT TO DESTROY BALLOTS FOUGHT BY VOTE BOARD

Carl Stockholm's suit to compel Cook county election officials to destroy all ballots six months after election was attacked yesterday in the Illinois Supreme court in Springfield. Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the County court and the election commissioners charged that destruction of the ballots would abort and terminate election fraud prosecutions.

The charges of the county judge and the election commissioners were contained in a reply to Stockholm's suit.

CHARGES HORNER TOPS GOVERNORS IN HIS SPENDING

Lund Assails Cost of Office, Mansion.

The appropriations requested and received by Gov. Henry Horner for his own office and the executive mansion are the greatest in the country, State Representative Arnold L. Lund declared yesterday. Lund is making a nationwide survey of the cost of state government. He is a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor.

"Perhaps the governor believes that because Illinois is nicknamed the 'sucker state' the taxpayers should be given a similar appelation," Lund said. "My survey of state expenditures convinces me that this is his idea.

"Gov. Horner has a larger allotment for travel expenses, the most domestic employés, and a bigger sum for personal printing and postage than any other governor.

$8,000 for Travel Expenses.

"For travel he is given $8,000 each biennium, which would mean 160,000 miles of travel at 5 cents a mile. Iowa allows $1,000 for travel and last year the governor turned back half of this amount. In Texas the governor is given $2,000 but doesn't use it all—in a state several times the size of Illinois. Many states, including West Virginia and Arkansas, make no provision for a governor to travel."

Lund charged that the money given to Gov. Horner for maintenance of the executive mansion is enormous when compared with parallel allotments in other states. Here it is $58,000 a biennium. California allows $22,000 but many states make no provision, he said.

Figures for 12 States.

Illinois	$188,200
Texas	137,240
California	126,556
Massachusetts	111,100
Michigan	109,434
Indiana	73,030
Kansas	72,700
Oregon	67,789
Maine	59,542
Florida	47,248
Arkansas	41,295
Iowa	37,965

"The contingency fund of $15,000 that was given to the governor for 1939-'41 is a gross abuse of the Illinois system," Lund asserted. "If the governor did not favor this sort of thing it would never take place. No one knows how this money is to be spent, and after it is spent it is too late to do anything about it."

DWIGHT GREEN ASKS CROOKED POLITICIANS BE SHORN OF POWER

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP).—Dwight H. Green, Chicago candidate for the Republican governorship nomination, said in a campaign address tonight "we must oust crooked politicians from control" and start "a constructive program to create jobs once again."

Speaking in the high school auditorium, Green attacked bipartisanship as a scheme "to muffle the voice of the people by stealing elections."

"It is up to us to put people back to work, to stabilize business and industry so America will have economic security and farmers will prosper again," Green said in a prepared address.

"We cannot do it by admitting defeat, or by permitting a bipartisan alliance in Cook county to muffle the voice of the people by stealing elections. Together we are fighting a battle for representative government.

"We must oust crooked politicians from control, then put into effect a constructive program that will cut the huge pay roll waste, graft and maladministration from state government so we can reduce taxes and stimulate business in order to create jobs again."

Mrs. Taft confided her campaign plans to Goucher college girls at a tea given by Mrs. David A. Robertson, wife of the school's president. She said her first appearance as a stump speaker will be in Minnesota late this month.

TWO FORMER U. S. PROSECUTORS ON TRIAL AS FIXERS

3 Others Are Accused in Federal Court Racket.

An assistant district attorney stood before a jury in the federal District court of Judge Patrick Stone yesterday and told why the governmet charges that two former assistant United States attorneys collected thousands of dollars in bribes to fix bootlegging cases.

The former prosecutors and three co-defendants were placed on trial before a jury of six men and six women on charges of conspiracy as set forth in indictments returned last Sept. 29. The case marks the first time in the history of the court in Chicago that evidence has been offered of a conspiracy to tamper with federal court justice by assistant district attorneys.

Prosecutor Speaks 3 Hours.

Martin Ward, chief of the criminal division of the United States attorney's staff, spoke for three hours in his opening statement yesterday.

Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske are the accused former prosecutors. Glasser was on the federal payroll for four years and Kretske for three. The government charges that they were entrusted with the prosecution of all the fixed cases, which occurred over four years.

Defendants with them are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, described as an illicit alcohol peddler. Roth is said to have acted as defense lawyer in the fixed cases. Horton and Kaplan are charged with having been the contact men.

Ward enumerated the various cases which, he said, the government will prove were fixed thru the connivance of the defendants.

Two Techniques Used.

The fixing, he asserted, was achieved thru dismissal of the charges in court on recommendation of the former prosecutors or thru failure of the grand jury to act on evidence they presented.

One case described by Ward concerned the arrest on Jan. 18, 1937, of two men operating a still in Spring Grove, Ill. After the two were released on bonds supplied by the defendant, Horton, Ward charged they went to a tavern near 16th street and Kedzie avenue and met the defendant, Kaplan.

"You see, we took care of you," Ward quoted Kaplan as saying at this meeting. "And you don't need to worry about this case. It will be put on the shelf until it gets dusty."

Bombings in Britain

Bombs exploded in London, Birmingham, and Manchester yesterday. The bombings were attributed to members of the outlawed Irish Republican army, two of whose members were hanged for previous bombings.

Restrictions Ordered for March 11.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Food Minister W. S. Morrison tonight announced in the house of commons that rationing of fresh meat would be introduced on a value basis on March 11.

At the outset, every one more than 6 years old will be allowed one shilling ten pence [about 37 cents] worth of meat a week. Children less than 6 will receive half as much.

[Other dispatches state that 37 cents now buys from a pound to a pound and a half of meat, including bone and fat, in Britain. The normal meat consumption of an average Briton is given as one and three-fourths pounds a week. The meat ration for each person in Germany is about 1 pound 1.6 ounces a week.]

Retail Supplies Cut.

From now until March 11, which is called the initial period, retail butchers will receive approximately the quantity of meat that they will handle under the rationing system. Supplies to catering establishments, including restaurants, will be restricted but meat meals will be served without regard to ration coupons.

Morrison told commons:

"A large proportion of the meat supplies available for civil consumption are home produced, of which the amount varies considerably from week to week.

"I intend, therefore, to keep the supply situation under constant review and modify the rations from time to time in light of existing circumstances. Only butchers' meat will be rationed. Edible offal, such as liver, kidneys, tongue, and oxtail, and manufactured meats, such as sausages and meat pies, will be free of rationing.

Supplies to Fix Quantities.

"For the initial period, restaurants, industrial, school, and other canteens; feeding centers, and all other forms of catering establishments will be permitted to serve meat meals free of coupons. But I shall be obliged to restrict the supply to them of all kinds of butchers' meat in proportion to their normal requirements.

"Pending introduction of rationing I am arranging that the quantity of meat allocated to retail butchers shall be approximately the same as they will be entitled to receive after the rationing begins. The same applies to catering establishments."

National food kitchens at which all may eat cheaply are under consideration by the government, it was announced. They would be run on cafeterial lines, the customers waiting on themselves.

INDIA MUST GET OWN RULE IN ANY PEACE—GANDHI

Settlement Without It Doomed by Leader.

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 6 (AP).—Swathed in a white cotton blanket, Mohandas K. Gandhi today declared he saw "no prospect whatsoever of a peaceful and honorable settlement" with Britain unless the British accept Indian self-government demands.

Fresh from a parley yesterday with the British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, the wizened Indian Nationalist leader said in a "sunrise soliloquy" he wanted an honorable settlement "without even a nonviolent fight," referring to his previously potent weapon of civil disobedience.

"A wide gulf," however, separates India and Britain over Indian independence, Gandhi said. He called his talks with the viceroy a failure.

Moslem Leader Gets Audience.

Lord Linlithgow conferred today with India's Moslem leader, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, in a further effort to find a workable solution of India's problems. A communique said Jinnah emphasized the importance attached by the Moslems and other minorities to safeguarding their position in any settlement and was assured the British government would watch over their legitimate interests.

Meanwhile, 40 trade associations, the Bombay stock exchange and the city's markets closed in protest against an excess profits tax bill introduced in the central legislative assembly. The bill would impose a 50 per cent tax on all profits above the normal peacetime level.

Pleads for "Dumb Millions."

Gandhi received newspapermen in the chill dawn to plead the cause of "the dumb, unrepresented millions" of India. Seated on a sheet-covered mat, he spoke in a detached manner as tho he had no listeners.

India wants a statement of British war aims paving the way for self-determination in India, he said, but the viceroy offered only "the final determination of India's destiny by the British government."

"If Britain cannot recognize India's legitimate claims, what will it be but Britain's moral bankruptcy?" he asked. "I am going to use the failure of negotiations as a stepping stone toward success, as I am sure the viceroy is going to use it."

GERMANY FORCES COAT BUYERS TO TURN IN OLD ONES

Nazis Call for Proof Garments Are in Rags.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—A German who wants to buy a new overcoat is told that he must turn in his old one in order to obtain a permit to buy another.

Altho clothing ration cards have been issued, the purchase of an overcoat requires a special permit. The prospective buyer is required to present himself to Nazi authorities who ask how long he has had the present coat and whether it is worn out.

Seeks Coat for Son.

One German known to THE TRIBUNE correspondent sought permission to buy a coat for his son. He was asked the boy's age and the reason another coat was needed. He informed the officials that his son had outgrown his coat. They told him he would have to deliver the garment to the authorities when a new one was purchased.

When the father said he intended to give the overcoat to a younger son he was instructed to enter that fact on a form he was ordered to fill out. He was then told he would hear from the officials within three days.

An application for permission to buy a pair of shoes brought a reply that this would take a long time. It was necessary to tell the officials how many pairs of shoes the applicant possessed and to give assurance that one pair was worn out.

Victory No Cinch: Goebbels.

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP).—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels in an address to subordinates tonight warned that settling accounts with the western powers "will be no child's play."

"Germany has taken note of the will of its enemies, which is to crush Germany once and for all," he said. "Calmly, with sober determination, the reich faces the decision on this issue. Confidence in our absolute superiority in all fields does not admit the slightest doubt as to the outcome.

"Certainly we know that settling accounts with the western plutocracies will be no child's play. But Germany hears from the lips of the Fuehrer [Adolf Hitler] that the reich hasn't been sleeping the last five months. Really, everything has been thought of . . ."

For every German, Goebbels continued, there is only one pertinent question: "How shall we win this war? Everything else is subordinate, nothing else means anything, all that we do, say, think, undertake or prepare must be of service to the end of answering this all-important question."

DOCTOR CHARGES POISON ATTEMPT IN DIVORCE SUIT

Dr. Charles Ford, an X-ray specialist, filed suit for divorce in Superior court yesterday against Mrs. Ollie Maude Ford, 8349 Oglesby avenue, charging that she attempted to poison him, tried to defraud him of property, and ruined his business. Dr. Ford is 70 years old and his wife 65. His suit charged that Mrs. Ford frequently told friends that her husband was insane and once caused him to be placed in the psychopathic ward at Edward Hines Jr. hospital, in order to get control of the pension paid him for wounds suffered while serving in the medical corps during the war. Dr. Ford asked for an injunction to restrain his wife from molesting him.

DANES FLOCK TO FILL JOBS OF FINN SOLDIERS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 6 (AP).—Between 1,500 and 2,000 Danish workers registered today at a new office for voluntary civil work in Finland. The workers, most of them unemployed, will take jobs in agriculture and industry left vacant by men at the front.

Col. Tretow-Loof was reported by a reliable source today to have asked for release from the Danish army in order to go to Finland as chief of a Danish volunteer corps of approximately 500 members.

FRENCH PUSH DRIVE FOR WIDE AID TO FINLAND

Daladier's Party Urges Winning Effort.

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP).—A campaign for widespread British-French military aid for Finland gained momentum in the French parliament today as it was disclosed that 50 carloads of Italian-made airplanes for the Finnish army had been shipped thru France.

Premier Edouard Daladier's own Radical-Socialist party called upon the government to give Finland all the help needed to fight and win her war against Russia. The French defeat of soviet aggression against Finland would hurt "our enemies in their military power as well as in prestige," a Radical-Socialist resolution declared.

"If aid is going to be given to Finland in the spirit of saving her," the newspaper L'Ordre said, "it will be necessary to act with great speed."

The planes shipped thru France were the ones that had been halted by German authorities while en route thru Germany.

Britain and France have a surplus of man power, such as the Polish army-in-exile, which might be used to aid Finland. The Polish army has been in training in France. Several hundred Polish flyers have volunteered for service with the Finns.

Finns Recruit in England.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP).—Finland's legation in London is supervising an organization to enable volunteers to offer to serve in Finland, Sir Victor Warrender, financial secretary to the war office, told the house of commons today.

Vatican Organ Urges Aid.

ROME, Feb. 6.—The Osservatore Romano, organ of the Vatican, prints tonight a strong appeal to Great Britain and France for aid to Finland. The two nations, it says, should realize that Russia's defeat in Finland would help their war against Germany because it would ease the fears of the Baltic and Balkan states as well as the near eastern countries, which are living in dread of a Russian invasion.

"A new factor," the writer adds, "which may perhaps contribute to make effective the aid for Finland must be sought in the increasingly widespread conviction that it is possible to play a decisive card against Russia in Finland. He who accepts this point of view considers assistance to Finland not only a duty of moral solidarity with a nation that has been the victim of the most cynical agression of our times, but also an aim of war strategy of the countries that are theoretically or de facto on the antisoviet front."

Berlin Shuns Mediation.

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP).—The German government can see no basis for mediation in the Russian-Finnish conflict, it was authoritatively indicated today after Germany's envoys to Moscow and Helsingfors, Finland, had come to Berlin to report.

Authorized sources said that even Finnish President Kyosti Kallio's declaration last Thursday that Finland was ready to make an honorable peace offered no concrete basis for action by Germany.

The envoys who reported are Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenberg, ambassador to Russia, and Dr. Wipert von Blucher, minister to Finland. Von Schulenberg conferred with Berlin ministries and it was indicated difficulties in transportation between Russia and Germany were discussed.

Report Nazis Shape Peace Bid.

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 6 (AP).—The Stockholm, Sweden, correspondent of the newspaper Tidens Tegn said today that rumors of a German peace bid were taking shape.

He said reports from The Hague, Brussels, and Berlin indicated a neutral state would offer a peace plan reported drawn by a committee established by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and approved by Adolf Hitler in January.

The correspondent asserted the peace plan was connected with a league of nations committee meeting on economic and social questions opening at The Hague tomorrow.

Six Points in Program.

The plan was reported to have six points:

1. No country would claim war damage.
2. Economic problems must be solved immediately.
3. The Sudeten regions of the former Czecho-Slovak republic would remain German.
4. Poland would cede to Germany all territory which was German before the Versailles treaty.
5. A plebiscite would be held in Austria under Austrian-German-British-French control.
6. A British-French-German commission would decide upon the Czech, Polish and Slovak states of the future in order to guarantee a peaceful attitude toward Germany.

Beds for 25,000 Wounded Called For in Helsingfors

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—Dr. H. A. Spencer cabled Red Cross superiors from Helsingfors today that Finnish hospitals were crowded with wounded Finnish and Russian soldiers, and that a "minimum of 25,000 beds is immediately needed for civilian relief."

FINNISH PATROLS CARRY BRUNT OF FIGHTING IN NORTH

Attack by Night to Rid Land of Russians.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SORTAVALA, Finland, Feb. 4 [By courier to Helsingfors].—Fighting on the sector of the front which the official communiques describe as "northeast of Lake Ladoga" has a character somewhat different from the conflict proceeding on the Karelian isthmus section of the Mannerheim line. Other defenses, which also are considered part of the Mannerheim line, run north from Lake Ladoga to northern Finland.

On the isthmus the Red army has been attacking since Dec. 4 seeking the weak points of the Finnish defenses, but so far has been unable to find any. North of Lake Ladoga the Russians have used a number of roads to transport large armies into Finland.

In some sections of this northeastern front soviet divisions have been brought to a halt and destroyed by the Finns. The fighting here recently has been more violent and continuous than on the isthmus. North of Lake Ladoga the Finns are attacking the Russian army, instead of merely standing on defense.

Instill Fear of Torture.

Soviet prisoners, whom I have interviewed, say that the desperate resistance of the Russians when attacked by the Finns is due to the propaganda of the political commissars who have succeeded in convincing the Red soldiers that torture awaits them upon capture.

For some weeks on the front northeast of Lake Ladoga the Finns have been under a heavy handicap because of the Russian superiority in the air. The Finnish shortage of fighter planes was brought home by the unchallenged bombardment of Sortavala on Friday and Saturday. I saw only five Finnish fighters and no bombers during the two days, but counted more than 50 Russian planes in squadrons of 9 to 12 planes.

Drop Supplies to Soldiers.

On the front, which is at a comfortable distance from Sortavala, the lack of combat planes is even more costly. There the entrenched and fortified Russian positions, which resemble wooded islands in a sea of snow, are able to receive, when the weather permits, supplies dropped by squadrons of soviet bombers sometimes numbering 20 and more machines. This is enabling the trapped Russians there to prolong their resistance.

The jagged shore of Lake Ladoga, east of here, has many small nameless islands which are held by the Finns. One of these, directly off Pitkaranta, yesterday was bombarded for six hours by squadron after squadron of Russian planes.

On this front the Mannerheim line defenses extend from Lake Ladoga to Janisjarvi [which is about 15 miles north of the Ladoga shore and about 40 miles west of the Russian frontier]. At no point have the Russians succeeded in getting within 16 miles of the fortified area which I passed en route to the fighting zone. This section of the line appears to be equally as strong as the Mannerheim line defenses on the Karelian isthmus.

All a No Man's Land.

On this sector of the Lake Ladoga front, the entire area between the Mannerheim line and the Finnish-soviet frontier is a no man's land where Finnish patrols nightly attack the Russian positions. The Finnish patrols have been systematically exterminating the invaders during the last six weeks.

One of the most ferocious encounters between the Finns and the Russians took place a few nights ago near Kitela, five miles west of Koirinoja. The Finns succeeded in surrounding a battalion of Russians in a 100 years' old growth of fir trees. There on a moonless night when the frosty fog made the darkness even more intense the Finns attacked and destroyed the enemy.

I asked the corporal how the Finns managed to keep from knifing one another, and he replied:

"We all wore our rucksacks, and when we discerned a man we slapped him on the back. If he had no rucksack he got the knife."

16 Divisions on Line.

I also was told that on the front stretching from Lake Ladoga to Petsamo [in the Arctic region] the Russians have approximately 16 divisions. [Russian divisions are estimated to have about 10,000 to 12,000 men each.] The Finnish general staff officers declare that the Finnish army is able to cope with the forces now invading the country.

In Sortavala tonight I heard scanty details of the bombing of the Valamo monastery, which could be heard from here yesterday. [Valamo is a small island 25 miles off shore from Sortavala in Lake Ladoga. On the island is a Finnish fortress and the famed Greek orthodox monastery.]

The Russians used their largest type of bombs. Among the buildings partially destroyed was the monastery hotel where many American tourists have occupied the meagerly furnished and uncarpeted rooms which were frequently visited by Czar Nicholas and the czarina. Whether the magnificent church, the finest example of the undespoiled Greek Orthodox art, has been damaged could not be learned tonight.

Developments in Finnish-Russian War

Captions on the large map tell developments in yesterday's fighting between Firmish and Russian armies. Fighting along the Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus differs in type from the fighting north of Lake Ladoga, where there are only extensions of the defense line. The small map locates points mentioned in the latest dispatches from all of Finland. The inset in the smaller map shows in black border the area covered in detail in the larger map.

FINNS AIR BOMB REDS GATHERED AT CAMPFIRES

Attack Masses of Troops in Night Raids.

parachutes floating down behind Finnish lines, carrying spies and saboteurs. Troops dropped by this method, however, have been blocked steadily by the highly mobile Finnish patrols.

Mysterious scouting flights today by soviet planes over the vast and sparsely inhabited Saimaa lake region, behind the Mannerheim line region north of Viipuri, led some military observers to believe the Red army might attempt to land large detachments of parachute troops on the ice there.

They said that if sufficiently large forces were landed from the air in this wild countryside they would prove troublesome to the rear line defenses of the Karelian isthmus.

Tonight's communique admitted "a few parachuters" were dropped by the Russians in northern Finland, but "the places where they came down are known." The communique continued:

"In the war zone the enemy's air activity was unimportant. On the isthmus there were several fights between air patrols on the home front and the Russians bombarded Kajaani and Kaskinen, where two people were killed and a few civilians injured."

Reds Decorate Heroes.

MOSCOW, Feb. 6 (AP).—Tass, the official soviet Russian news agency, reported today that 248 officers and men of the Red army were decorated by the presidium of the supreme soviet for "carrying out in exemplary manner the battle tasks set by the command on the front in the struggle against Finnish White Guards and for valor and heroism displayed."

WRECK OF BRITISH MINESWEEPER IS FOUND ON BEACH

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP).—The wreck of the British minesweeper Sphinx was found upside down on a beach on the northeast coast today. Twelve miles to the north the bodies of two naval men were recovered.

The 875 ton Sphinx, after being crippled by German air raiders Saturday, sank as she was being towed to port yesterday. Fifty-four of the 100 men aboard were feared lost and 5 were known to have been killed by the bombers.

Seventy-six of the crew of 80 aboard the Canadian freighter Beaverburn were reported to have been rescued by another merchant ship after the Beaverburn was sunk by a torpedo off Ireland.

BRITISH HOLD U. S. MAIL TO ROME FOR THREE WEEKS

ROME, Feb. 6.—Mail from the Excambion of the American Export line, which left New York on Jan. 6, has just arrived in Rome. It was held by the British censors in Gibraltar for three weeks. The mail was brought here by the Manhattan for altho the Excambion was detained a week, the mail was not released. There is considerable indignation about it in the American colony. Letters mailed on the Rex, Jan. 17, arrived 10 days ago.

All mail received from the Excambion was sealed by two pieces of paper. One was marked "Censor number ——." The other which is placed on top was marked "Opened by examiner."

Foreign residents either writing home or receiving mail from the United States are discouraged about the Clipper service, which often takes three weeks or more since the British censor the mail at Bermuda. The quickest route is by the Italian boats.

VERSATILISTS

By CALEB

THAT would be the name I should coin for our Employes' Library staff—especially after looking over, as I have recently done, some of the functions its members are called on to perform for numerous other divisions of a great store organization. Towit—

A wire signed by a famous Hollywood star's secretary comes to our Personal Shopping Service: Please air mail express on approval hat page twenty-one Vogue. Advise color it can be had in, or can it be had in any color? Charge and express on account. Our Library quickly locates and identifies the hat in question, and we ship it promptly on its way.

Or our fourth floor wants, for display use, traditional illustrations of Alice in Wonderland. Or our window-display staff decide that the corner at State and Washington must feature an "Old-fashioned Christmas," and needs color plates for references. . . . Again—the Library fills each request.

A customer wishes to have a set of antique French "apothecary jars" made into lamps for a French provincial room. On them are Latin inscriptions. Aid is summoned from the Library, and translations are quickly provided.

Here is another customer who wants a group of imported ceramic birds—but "is not interested" unless they can be identified. The types are rare in this country—but thanks to our Library the missing clues are promptly supplied. Another service-seeker is the Advertising Bureau, looking for "romantic background material" for historic and legendary characters, to be used in a series of perfume advertisements. "Ask the Library" brings the answers.

The phone rings—and this time it is the Basement Merchandise Bureau, calling for technical data regarding certain methods employed by a group of representative large firms. Library compilers busy themselves, and soon the situation is met. A famous lecturer is presently due in Chicago on a tour—and the President's office needs detailed information regarding him. From foreign and domestic sources, indefatigable members of our Library group compile the needed facts.

Such are the typically assorted assignments absorbed in its stride by a division of a metropolitan store which the public never sees. Thereby it aids the smooth progress of each day's total activities; and by rendering these seldom-publicized services within the larger service given to patrons, adds its contribution to the unusual and specialized facilities which only a great organization can command.

IGNORE AMERICA, JUNK NINE POWER PACT, JAPS URGE

BULLETIN.

HONGKONG, Feb. 7, Wednesday (AP).—The Central News agency, the Chinese central government's press service, reported today 300 men were killed yesterday when Chinese artillery sank a Japanese transport in the Yangtze river 30 miles above Kiukiang.

TOKIO, Feb. 6 (AP).—A leader of nationalist elements in parliament tonight bitterly denounced as "obsequious diplomacy" the Japanese government's attempt to appease the United States by announcing a plan to reopen the lower Yangtze river in China to international trade.

Ichiro Kiyose, speaking in the house of representatives, advocated outright abandonment of the nine power treaty of 1922 which pledged its signatories to the "open door" policy in trade with China and urged the government to take a firm stand against any concessions to the United States.

Kiyose's attack followed criticism of government control of the press and secrecy in political affairs in both houses and an announcement that Great Britain had agreed to return nine of 21 German seamen seized on Jan. 20 from the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

"Can't Improve Relations."

In speaking of the government's announced decision to reopen the Yangtze as far as Nanking—a decision not yet put into effect—Kiyose said:

"It is really absurd to suppose that Japanese-American relations can be improved thru such obsequious diplomacy. . . . Is it not more appropriate to leave this matter in the hands of the new central government in China [the proposed Japanese puppet régime], so that it can open the Yangtze to those powers which will extend assistance?"

Shigeo Sugasawa, a member of the upper house, denounced excessive control of the press, saying:

Promises Relaxation.

Premier Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai agreed with the critics of press control and said relaxation of censorship would be attempted.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita announced Britain's agreement to return nine of the Asama Maru Germans and also said that Japanese ship lines had been instructed not to accept as passengers any belligerent nationals who are "enlisted in military services and those who may possibly be enlisted."

A foreign office spokesman said Japan will demand formally the return of all 21 seamen and expressed the opinion that the Japanese ban on belligerent passengers would prevent another such incident.

Britain Expresses Regret.

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP).—The British government disclosed tonight that it had sent Japan an expression of "regret" after protests from Tokio over seizure of 21 German seamen from the Japanese liner Asamu Maru within 50 miles of Tokio.

Britain agreed to return nine of the 21 Germans since they "are relatively unsuitable for military service," Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords, but reserved the right to make such seizures as a belligerent.

France Protests Again.

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP).—France has made a second protest to Japan against repeated bombings of the French operated Yunnan railway in southwestern China by the Japanese air force, it was learned today.

A Seaman Rescued

521 GERMAN TARS STRANDED BY JAP SHIPPING ORDER

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 6 (AP).—Diplomatic action in Tokio left 512 German seamen, former crewmen of the scuttled liner Columbus, in a quandary today. The Germans were puzzled over their future in the light of Japanese Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita's announcement that Japanese shipping firms had been instructed to refuse passage to belligerent nationals subject to military service.

A spokesman at the German consul general's office said Arita's announcement "changed the whole situation" for the Columbus' crew, which is confined at Angel Island immigration station.

The spokesman indicated that the German embassy at Washington, D. C., might ask the immigration department to reconsider restrictions placed on the sailors last week. The department said the Nazis' status had changed from "distressed seamen" to "excludable aliens," and ordered them deprived of shore leaves they had enjoyed in San Francisco.

DENMARK, CUT OFF BY ICE, FACES COAL SHORTAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 6.—Completely isolated by ice, Denmark is near the bottom of her coal supplies. The situation is serious in Copenhagen, where only five or six days' normal supply is available. The government has decided to expropriate 20 per cent of all available stocks. Industries are seriously threatened, and many schools, municipal libraries, and indoor swimming pools have been closed. Several coal freighters are due here but have been unable to break thru the ice.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Thomas Britt, 71 years old, was found dead last evening in his home at 4248 Wells street. A rubber hose had been attached to a gas jet and run into the bedroom where the body was found.

AFGHANISTAN AND IRAN ARM; FEAR NAZI-RED ATTACK

Expect Thrust Toward Persian Gulf.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Dispatches from Rome tonight told of nervousness in the middle east, with Iran [Persia] and Afghanistan taking military precautions in the expectation of a Russo-German drive toward the Persian gulf.

The Italians are much interested in the near and middle east and their observations are considered generally accurate. Significance, therefore, is seen in the conclusion reached in this Italian dispatch:

"In the near east the allies have important armed forces ready to face any situation and even, if need be, to take action in the direction of the Caucasus, Germany's principal source of petroleum supplies."

Two Forces Ready.

These armed forces form the army of the orient, of which little is said here. By piecing together fragmentary reports, one gets the following information:

France and Britain have two military organizations in the near east.

The first consists of French forces concentrated in the states of the Levant under French mandate. The supreme commander is Gen. Maxime Weygand. The forces comprise all troops in Syria and Lebanon, whether metropolitan, colonial, or North African, which includes the foreign legion.

In recent weeks this army has received reënforcements both in men and material. It is equipped with an adequate air force and has a number of mechanized formations. And since France and Britain have mastery of the Mediterranean, supplies and reenforcements are assured. The Frankfurter Zeitung recently put the strength of this army at a minimum of 150,000.

British Army Organized.

The second force is the British army of the middle east, of which Lieut. Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell is commander in chief. His command extends over wide areas in the middle east and Africa and he acts in liaison with officers in Iraq and Aden, a British possession in Arabia. A special British military mission acts as a link to the Egyptian army. Important units of the Indian army are training near Cairo, Egypt.

The two commanders in chief work in close coöperation and it is supposed that unity of command has been envisaged.

Turk Pact a Success.

The precision with which the army of the orient has been organized is significant. Gen. Weygand, who knows Syria well, soon after the war broke out was organizing the forces on the spot and at the same time negotiating with Turkey. The Anglo-French-Turkish treaty ranks as the empires' first major success of the war since it opens possibilities for action in the Mediterranean, the Balkans, the Caucasus or even farther east. True, there is a protocol dealing with the possibility of war between Russia and the French and British, but this is not considered here to be a bar to Turkish coöperation.

MEDICAL TEACHER TO SPEAK.

Dr. John Herr Musser, professor of medicine at Tulane university, New Orleans, La., will speak tonight at a dinner meeting of the Chicago Heart association and the Chicago Medical society in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

HUNGARY BRANDS 'BALKANS' PACT A 'PROVOCATION'

Seeks Explanation of Borders Watch.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 6 (AP).—A reliable source said tonight that Hungary regards as an outright provocation an announcement by the Balkan entente, which comprises Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Turkey, and Greece, that it would maintain a "common watch over national territory."

The phrase was regarded as a rebuff to Hungary's claim on Rumania for return of Transylvania, which was ceded to Rumania after the world war.

Bulgaria, which also has territorial claims on Rumania, took a similar view, press reports indicated.

"Paper Victory" for Rumania.

Official circles in Hungary expressed the view that Rumania won a paper victory at the conference of the entente last week-end, but that the other entente members were neither willing nor able to guarantee the security of Rumania's disputed frontiers.

[At Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, observers said the entente agreed to "watch" over national territory and that the word "guarantee" was conspicuously missing from an official communique on the entente's decisions.]

Hungarian governmental circles said each of the Balkan entente nations has been asked thru its foreign office to define exactly the "common watch over national territory."

Press Assails Pact.

The newspaper demanded to know whether Rumania's national territory included Transylvania with a "Hungarian minority of nearly 2,000,000." If the entente guaranteed Rumania's Transylvania border, Pester Lloyd declared, "it is useless to waste one word over starting discussions" with that power over Hungary's claims.

Hungarian circles took it for granted that Rumania had obtained assurances of German support for her status quo if she furnished Germany with oil, wheat, and other supplies.

Jugo-Slavs Seek Bulgarian Trade.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 6 (AP).—Premier Dragisha Cvetkovitch of Jugo-Slavia announced today that Commerce Minister Ivan Andress would go to Sofia in an attempt to stimulate Jugo-Slav-Bulgarian trade. This was understood to be the first step in the Balkan entente's plan to create economic neutrality in southeastern Europe.

British Disclose They Held American Liner 24 Hours

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP).—The ministry of economic warfare today disclosed that the United States liner Manhattan had spent 24 hours in the British contraband control station at Gibraltar Feb. 3-4, due to a delay in the delivery of guaranty papers.

[The United States recently complained to the British of undue delay in clearing American ships from contraband controls.]

JAPANESE CLAIM ARMY IN NO. CHINA PIERCES ANOTHER PROVINCE

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6 (AP).—Japanese military spokesmen today announced their northern forces had penetrated Ningsia province, in far northwest China, for the first time since the war started. The Japanese also said 10,000 Chinese had been killed in fighting in Suiyuan province, just east of Ningsia, since Dec. 25.

Locked in Fierce Battle.

HONGKONG, Feb. 6 (AP).—The Japanese invasion of China rounded out its 31st month today with the rival armies in the southern province of Kwangsi locked in a battle which both sides indicated was one of the greatest of the war.

The Japanese said that in the nine day old battle they had cut off the westward flight of 50,000 Chinese and killed 8,000 and captured 1,000 Chinese regulars in the vicinity of Wingshun. This town, 50 miles east of the provincial capital, Nanning, is one which the Chinese said yesterday they had retaken from the Japanese. The flight of the Chinese was cut off, the Japanese reported, by a flanking movement in which the Japanese right wing reached the key town of Shanglin, 55 miles north of Nanning and 20 miles northwest of Pinyang.

ANCIENT INDIANA WOODS SHELTER LINCOLN SCENES

Formative Years Spent in Spencer County.

[This is the second chapter in the life of Abraham Lincoln, describing the memorials and scenes worth visiting in the Indiana Lincoln country, where the formative years from 1816 to 1830 were spent in the wilderness of what now is Spencer county.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Lincoln City, Ind., Feb. 6 [Special]. —The ancient and beautiful woods of Lincoln's time are still here, chanting now the requiem of winter's snows over the grave of the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

Lincoln saw the deer padding swiftly over this spot when he was 9 years old. He had helped his father, Thomas Lincoln, make the wooden box in which his gentle mother was buried, and this was the last place he visited before he set out at the head of an ox team in 1830 on the old woods road northwest to the Illinois country.

"Be a good boy and trust your heavenly Father," was the injunction of the eternal mother that she laid upon his soul. She had had the marking of that soul for nine years. Her death and that of his sister, Sarah, who is buried in the Little Pigeon churchyard nearby, left an indelible impress upon his mind.

This grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, who died at the age of 36 of malarial sickness in the cabin which Tom Lincoln had built for her on Little Pigeon creek, is the high point in the Lincoln pilgrimage from the Kentucky birthplace. Hodgenville is only 50 miles away as the crows fly, but one hundred miles by the winding hill roads of Kentucky and Indiana over which the little Lincoln family caravan traveled in the winter of 1816.

The Route to the West.

They came, according to the official roadmarkers, from the Ohio river crossing near Cannelton, along the river to Tell City and Troy, crossing the Anderson river on highway 66 to a point where the old Santa Fe trail takes off to the north and northwest. They followed this thru what is now the town of Santa Claus, and a little way beyond they took the farm at Pigeon creek.

Fourteen years later, when the Lincolns moved on, they followed what is now highway 162 to Gentryville, Selvin, Petersburg, Monroe City, and into Vincennes, where they crossed the Wabash river into Illinois.

The whole route from the Ohio river crossing to the site of the Pigeon creek farm is traveled on good roads today. The towns named have all come into life since this pioneer group passed over old buffalo traces and Indian trails, taking a week to traverse what now may be covered in an hour or two.

Farm Made Into Park.

The nation has now taken over this farm and graveyard and made it into a park as a memorial to the mother. It is a park of 1,625 acres, approached only by trails thru the woods. The marks of birds and little animals are on the snow. In the spring it will be a place of song, and in the summer one of deep shade. There are no great monuments, no temples of marble here, only a simple grave in the woods, marked by a granite headstone and set apart by a low iron fence.

Half a mile on thru the woods one comes to the old farm clearing. Here the Indiana Lincoln union has built a unique memorial in the form of a bronze replica of the foundations and fireplace of the original cabin. The logs look like real logs, and the measurements and location of the cabin have been carefully kept. It was a little larger than the Kentucky cabin, with its main feature the fireplace, where Lincoln read his first book, and where his mother sang to him and read from the Bible which she had brought with her over the Wilderness road from Virginia. A mile away a frame church supplants the old church which Thomas Lincoln and his wife joined.

Where Youth Ranged Countryside.

This is truly a Lincoln country. From his seventh to his twenty-first year Abraham Lincoln ranged this countryside for 50 miles. Here he had his first meeting with the mystery of death. Here he had his first great adventure, an adventure which any boy would welcome even today, a trip down the Ohio river on a flat-boat to New Orleans. Here he learned something of the geography and politics of his country, read newspapers, saw a printing press and an oil lamp, read his first law book, developed his great physical strength and took the bent of character which was to make him a leader of men.

He became something of a carpenter, something of a farmer, but more than all he learned the ways of the frontier people, the common people whom he was ever afterward to understand, and his curiosity was aroused as to the meaning of words and what was hidden in books.

Grows Big and Thoughtful.

He became a big, strong, thoughtful boy in Indiana. A year after he left here, Mrs. Bess V. Ehrmann of Rockport, student of his Indiana life, remarks, he was a figure of mark in New Salem, Ill. He had found his way here, she says, had received here the training and the contacts that made of him a few years later the greatest stump speaker in Illinois.

"He was truly a stump speaker," she says. "He was developed as a politician right here. He went into the woods with other boys on Sunday afternoons and practiced speaking to them from a stump. The forest was his college. He stayed awake nights puzzling over words and things he could not understand and he did not rest until he had mastered them."

In Rockport the citizens, led by the historical society, have built what is called a Lincoln village that is well worth visiting. On the edge of town they have built a pioneer clearing village, with cabins, stores, shops, fields, gardens, and furniture just as they existed in Lincoln's time. The pioneer homes of the neighborhood have been ransacked for original items of furniture. Great care and study has been taken in the faithful reproduction of these times. The homes were smaller and more primitive than those found in the reconstructed New Salem, Ill., for this was a period 20 years earlier.

Other Lincoln Memorials.

Here is the office of John Pitcher, one of Indiana's noted lawyers of the earlier days, from whom Lincoln borrowed books, walking the 17 miles to Rockport to obtain and return them.

Rockport has other Lincoln memorials. It was here that the flatboat journey to New Orleans started, and the river scene remains much the same today. A little park marks this spot. In 1844, when Lincoln returned to Rockport as a Clay elector, he remained overnight in an old brick tavern which still stands. The courthouse, however, in which Lincoln made his address, has been replaced by a new structure.

Rockport was founded in 1807 and was something of a village in Lincoln's time. It was a crossroads of traffic and thru here flowed the stream of migration to New Harmony, Ind., where Robert Owen, Scotch philanthropist, was building his ideal commonwealth. Lincoln may even have visited there and no doubt absorbed some of the ideals of what was to become the perfect human society, but which collapsed because of the selfish individualism of human nature.

Monument in Courthouse.

Boonville, which was organized as a county seat in 1818, was another place that Lincoln was familiar with. A monument in the Boonville courthouse square states:

"While living with his father on a farm about 17 miles from here, Abraham Lincoln came often to Boonville to hear court trials and to borrow books from John A. Breckenridge. From this corner Lincoln traveled north by ox team on the old Boonville-Petersburg-Vincennes road when emigrating to Illinois in 1830."

The Boonville people claim the Lincoln route north should be over these roads because there was no other wagon road from the Lincoln farm, but the official trail makers have taken the way east of here. Cannelton was not founded as a town until 10 years after the Lincolns landed in that vicinity, but there were ferries in the early days that have since been abandoned. At Lafayette spring, however, 3 miles east of town, on highway 66, which has been dedicated as the Lincoln trail, there is a marker stating that the Lincoln family camped there in 1816. This is the spot in which the steamer Mechanic on which the Marquis Lafayette was traveling in 1825, was wrecked and where he took shelter in a riverside cabin.

Great Mill Still Stands.

Evansville was the site of a ferry in Lincoln's time and the town was platted in 1817. There is a Lincoln collection in the museum here including a cabinet which Abraham made. At Jasper the historic Enlow grist mill on the Patoka river is still standing. Lincoln is said to have visited this mill with grain as a boy. There is a crossing here which some historians claim the Lincolns used in their Illinois journey. Tell City was not established in Lincoln's boyhood days.

They came to Indiana thru a rough hill country much like that of the Kentucky side and their Knob creek farm. The countryside flattened in Spencer county, but it was not until they reached Illinois that they came to the real prairies. Bears and other wild animals were in the woods, and turkey and deer furnished much of the family table.

Site of Store Marked.

The store of Col. William Jones, the site of which only is marked today, at what was once called Jonesboro, was where Abraham got his first training as a clerk, and where he listened to the gossip and stories of the countryside around the wooden benches at the store. The country store is an institution to which Lincoln owed much. The stories he heard here and in the Illinois stores gave him the material which he used all his life as a lawyer and politician, pointing his arguments with some homely and pungent tale, touched with wit and humor. This was a true heritage of the Indiana pioneer life. William Jones and John Pitcher were to meet Lincoln again, years later, when he campaigned in national politics.

Lincoln's beloved stepmother, Sarah Bush Johnston, came into his life during the Indiana sojourn. A year after the death of Nancy Lincoln, the father journeyed back to Elizabethtown, leaving Abraham and Sarah alone, except for the neighbors. He brought back a new wife, a big, kindly woman, who had feather beds and furniture from her Kentucky home, and who made the children her friends at once. Sarah Lincoln, with whom Abraham had walked nine miles to school every day for a few months, died in 1828, after her marriage to Aaron Grigsby. This was the second tragedy of the boy's life. Two years later Tom Lincoln decided that he would move on to the new Illinois country.

Prizes Offered for Play.

Interest in Lincoln grows in Indiana. At Anderson creek, where Abraham had a job as a ferryman for James Taylor and where he earned his first dollar taking travelers out to the steamboats, there is a roadside park, a marker, and a shelter.

The Southwest Civic Association of Indiana, of which Ivor J. Robinson of Boonville is president, has offered a $1,000 prize as a Lincoln birthday award for the best play written around these Indiana years. One hundred seventy-seven plays have been submitted, from every state in the union, from England, Canada, the Philippines, Cuba, and Australia.

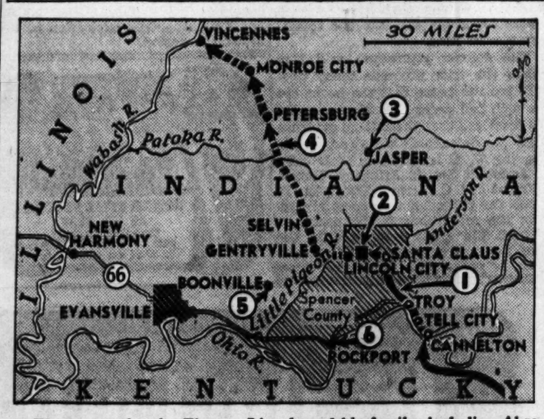
The Spencer County Historical society is circulating a petition to have a special Nancy Hanks Lincoln stamp ready for distribution in 1943, the 125th anniversary of her death.

"We, the undersigned petitioners," it is stated, "citizens of these United States of America, and realizing that a mother gave birth to America's most distinguished citizen, statesman, and President, and that proper recognition has never been given to that obscure mother, and recognizing that her distinguished son made a profound and immortal statement relative to that mother ['All that I am and all that I ever hope to be, I owe to that angel mother'], which statement will endure as long as motherhood endures, we respectfully ask that a measure of recognition be given that mother by the people of these United States and by so doing thus honor the entire motherhood of America."

CLOTHING STORE BURNS.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 6 (AP).—Fire in the Kaybee Clothing store early today caused damage estimated at $15,000. Tenants residing in apartments above the store were forced to flee, but none was injured.

Abraham Lincoln in Indiana



The route taken by Thomas Lincoln and his family, including Abraham, from Kentucky to Indiana (1) led them to the farm between Santa Claus and Lincoln City (2) in Spencer county. The Lincolns lived on that farm from 1816 to 1830. The farm and grave where Nancy Hanks Lincoln is buried have been made into a memorial park to the mother. At Jasper (3) stands a grist mill which Lincoln is said to have visited with grain as a boy. Abraham left Indiana in 1830 over a route (4) that took him to Vincennes. At Boonville (5) is another monument to him. In that town he heard court trials and borrowed books. In Rockport (6) is a Lincoln village, with cabins and stores as they existed in Lincoln's time. At Rockport there lived a noted lawyer from whom Lincoln borrowed books.

Since the day it was first distilled, Old Grand-Dad has always stood for supreme whiskey quality. So naturally this choice Kentucky bourbon costs a little more than ordinary whiskies. SECRETLY FREED SLAYER IS TAKEN BACK TO PRISON

Plea Made for State Cop in Jury 'Fix.'

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Sam Vinci, killer in 1926, went back to prison yesterday while John Howe, robber in 1930, was asking the state to forget and forgive him once more instead of prosecuting him. Vinci and Howe figured in State's Attorney Courtney's investigation of the jury "fix" in a vote fraud trial.

Sam Vinci.

Vinci, pardoned conditionally last July by Gov. Horner at the request of State Senator A. L. Marovitz, had been sought on a warden's warrant which charged him with violating the conditions of the pardon. Howe was again under indictment because of his arrest in connection with charges of jury bribing in the case of Joe Vinci, brother of Sam, and Sam Orlando, Democratic precinct workers in the 11th ward. Vinci and Orlando were acquitted Dec. 20 of vote fraud charges.

Paid to Vote Not Guilty.

When Mr. Courtney heard from two women on the jury that they had been paid to vote a not guilty verdict for Orlando and Vinci he began an investigation that, to date, has uncovered several men with criminal records working in state and city offices. The investigation also brought to light the pardon given to Sam Vinci last July.

Vinci killed a man who was testifying at a coroner's inquest in 1926. A plea of insanity, caused by epilepsy, was made in his behalf, but a jury found him guilty and fixed his punishment at 26 years in prison. With time off for good behavior he would have been eligible for release some time next year. His release last summer was not announced by the parole board in its monthly report.

Soon thereafter Sam was seen in loop barrooms, seemingly supplied with considerable money. He is said to have boasted that his release cost $10,000. When parole authorities discovered Sam was in Chicago, instead of in a sanitarium at Oconomowoc, Wis., his arrest was ordered.

Yesterday Sam Vinci was taken to the Stateville prison. It was announced that he had surrendered because of illness.

Plea for State Policeman.

John Howe, who was put on the state police force by Gov. Horner in 1936 on recommendation of F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, was represented by Attorney Cameron Latter in the filing of a plea yesterday with Judge John Bolton in the Criminal court. Arguments on the plea will be heard today.

Latter's petition sets forth that the state dropped four indictments for robbery against Howe in 1930 when he was found insane before the late Judge Joseph David. Marovitz, then an assistant state's attorney, was the prosecutor. The petition did not so state, but a few weeks after Howe's incarceration in the Kankakee state hospital, he escaped and the hospital records then declared him sane.

"The state abandoned its prosecution of Howe nearly 10 years ago," Attorney Latter's plea declared. "It would be unfair now to compel him to defend himself against those charges."

POLICE CONTINUE DRIVE TO CLOSE ALL HANDBOOKS

The police are conducting a campaign to close handbooks still operating. Members of the gambling detail reported yesterday to Capt. Martin McCormick that they had closed five places and destroyed gambling equipment, but that no arrests were made.

Two gamblers who appeared in Jury court, where the cases of 300 other alleged handbook operators are awaiting hearing, paid fines of $5 in a bench trial by Judge John V. McCormick. They told the court the bookie business is going to the dogs.

Those fined were Michael Radaha, 25 years old, 741 Belden avenue, and Frank Sherwood, 46, of 2302 Lincoln avenue. They were arrested last Nov. 20 in a handbook at 2358 Lincoln avenue.

Butcher Gets Fine of $25 for Giving Short Weight

Sam Mandell, a butcher in a grocery at 1742 East 55th street, was fined $25 on a charge of giving short weight by Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Municipal court yesterday. Inspectors from the city sealer's office said he overcharged on a leg of lamb.

BONDSMAN WINS $1 A MILE RACE AND SAVES $3,300

Mrs. Viola Kellogg, 30 years old, vanished Jan. 4 instead of appearing in Women's court on 14 charges of passing bad checks. Solly Friedman, a professional bondsman, had gone her bond for $3,300 and it was subject to forfeiture if she wasn't found.

So Friedman pursued Mrs. Kellogg 3,300 miles—a mile for every dollar—and caught her. He was two lengths behind in Columbus, O.; a length behind in Kentucky, a head behind in Memphis, Tenn., a nose behind in San Francisco, Cal., and in Los Angeles he ran her down. He returned her to Chicago at a cost of $500, but, as he said, that was better than losing $3,300.

Mrs. Kellogg appeared yesterday before Judge Francis Borrelli, who sentenced her to 180 days in the Bridewell. The judge rejected Mrs. Kellogg's offer to make good the checks, ranging from $15 to $84, which were passed on loop stores Dec. 7, 8, and 9.

APPEALS COURT TO RULE FRIDAY IN M'GARRY CASE

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday delayed its decision on a motion to dismiss State's Attorney Courtney's appeal of a Criminal court decision holding illegal an indictment voted against Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court. The indictment charged that McGarry conspired to defraud Cook county by executing fraudulent bail bonds. Walker Butler, attorney for Judge McGarry, asserted the matter was not subject to appeal by Courtney. Judge Joseph A. Graber had tossed out the indictment on the ground that acts of McGarry which came within his judicial discretion could not be questioned. The Appellate court justices indicated they would rule on Butler's petition Friday.

New Car Stolen a Minute After He Drives It Home

Morton Weiss drove his new 1940 sedan, fresh from the showroom, to his home at 5316 Greenwood avenue last evening. He went indoors to get his wife and take her for a surprise ride. When they got outside the car was gone. Weiss told police he had piled up a total of 9 miles in the car. Weiss is president of an automobile agency at 6522 Cottage Grove avenue.

BERWYN FUNDS SHORT $513,498, LAWYERS CHARGE

Defense Produces Audit at Theft Trial of Two.

The routine of the $3,726 Berwyn shortage trial was broken yesterday by the charge that Berwyn's special assessment fund is short $513,498.

It further was charged that Berwyn's municipal books are so badly muddled that it is impossible to determine where to place the blame.

The trial is that of Ernest W. Mau, treasurer and former controler of Berwyn, and Matthew Berg, a former treasurer. They have been on trial for three weeks before a jury in Judge William J. Lindsay's court on charges of embezzling the $3,726 from the special assessment fund.

Political Plot Charged.

Mayor Anton Janura testified yesterday for the state. Then John T. Harrington, attorney for Berg, began cross-examining him regarding the possibility that the charges against Berg might be the result of a political plot.

Suddenly Harrington produced an audit of Berwyn funds made by the accounting firm of Pearce & Granata. He sought to present it to the jury, but the state objected. James M. Burke, attorney for Mau, joined Harrington in the fight to get the document before the jury. They won after heated arguments.

The audit listed shortages aggregating $513,498 in the special assessment fund from 1921 to July 1, 1938.

The auditors had inserted a note saying that $37?,900 of the money had been paid out on bonds, vouchers, and coupons. But the note said the payments were preferential and were made before collections, and hence were made from funds of warrants having cash balances.

Use of Other Funds Intimated.

Defense attorneys interpreted this as meaning that bondholders friendly to city officials had been able to collect for their bonds from funds other than the special assessment fund. The defense attorneys intimated that the money thus disbursed in advance never found its way into the special assessment fund.

The defense attorneys said that when the trial proceeds today they will seek to prove that the books are in such bad order that blame cannot be fixed and that there is no evidence that the defendants were responsible for the $3,726 involved in their case.

Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Wright and C. Vernon Thompson issued the following statement regarding the revelations in the audit:

"All the items mentioned in the audit, except those on which prosecution is proceeding, are barred from prosecution by the statute of limitations. [The statute is three years.] None of the items ever came to the attention of the state's attorney's office until after the expiration of the limitation period."

But may we emphasize, in purely friendly interest, that a lot of other people probably have the same idea.

And that when they start buying in droves—as they do every year about the ides of March—even Buick's big factory has trouble keeping up with them.

Of course, we're doing all we can to be ready for everyone.

FORD TO BATTLE NLRB OVER CURB ON FREE SPEECH

Defends Right to Express Opinions; Balks Order.

New York, Feb. 6 [Special].—Henry Ford today challenged the authority of the National Labor Relations board to limit an employer's constitutional right of free speech by forbidding him to talk about labor unions.

The motor magnate's challenge followed a recommendation by A. Howard Myers, regional labor board director at Boston, that the board bring a court action to force the Ford company to comply with a board order in its plant at Somerville, Mass.

The NLRB order directed the company to cease disparaging and criticizing labor organizations and ordered that notice be posted on bulletin boards stating that the company would "cease and desist from interfering" with labor activities.

Determined to Fight.

In a statement issued thru Frederick H. Wood, a member of his New York counsel, the automobile manufacturer affirmed his determination to defend his right to express his opinions of labor unions. He said emphatically that he would not post the requested notices.

[An erroneous report was published Monday that the Ford company had agreed to comply with the labor board order.]

Ford has taken the same stand in other NLRB cases involving his company in Cincinnati, O., Detroit, Mich., Long Beach, Cal., and other cities. His repeated refusal to abide by the labor board's interpretation of free speech has been incorporated in appeals from board decisions taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and is expected to lead eventually to the United States Supreme court.

Denies NLRB Contention.

In denying flatly the NLRB contention that the Wagner labor law puts limitations on the rights of free speech by forbidding an employer to use them to discourage union membership, Ford declared that even communists and advocates of revolutionary doctrines are accorded the right to express opinions freely.

The order was based in part on a distribution of pamphlets in the Massachusetts plant reprinting an interview in which Ford expressed the opinion that "employés of the company are better off outside a union than in one." A similar NLRB order was issued affecting distribution of the pamphlets at the Ford plant in Dearborn, Mich.

Ford was careful to point out that the labor board order did not accuse the company of having interfered with unionization in the past. Wood also stated explicitly that the company will "comply with the law in the future as it has in the past," but that the right of free speech cannot be abridged.

Statement by Wood.

In his statement on behalf of Ford Wood said:

"The Ford Motor company challenged the validity of the board's order with respect to that portion of the NLRB order which directed the company to cease and desist from 'disparaging' or 'criticising' any labor organization.

"This paragraph of the order appears to be predicated on the views of Henry Ford as expressed in a newspaper interview, reprints of which were distributed by the company among its employés.

"It appears from these statements that Mr. Ford is of the opinion that the employés of the company are better off outside a union than in one, an opinion which would seem to be justified by the company's history as a pioneer in raising wages, shortening hours, and improving working conditions.

Union Position Cited.

"At the same time, Mr. Ford and the company have recognized and respected the rights of every employé to join a union or not, as he chooses, and the board expressly finds that the company did not, as charged by the union, discriminate against any employé by reason of his union membership, activities, or sympathies.

"It appears to be the purpose of the board to prevent Mr. Ford and the Ford Motor company from expressing any opinion which might 'disparage' or 'criticize' any labor organization.

"The right of free speech, which is guaranteed by the bill of rights and which is accorded to advocates of communism and other revolutionary doctrines, is held to be 'qualified' by the national labor relations act when sought to be exercised by Mr. Ford and by the Ford Motor company.

"It is held that even when outside organizations were threatening to bring about lawless sitdown strikes in the company's plants, it was a violation of law to 'criticize' or to 'disparage' them.

"The order is unjustified by the facts, not authorized by the statute, and an invasion of the constitutional right of free speech."

Committee to Ask $50,000 for Continuing NLRB Quiz

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—The house committee investigating the labor board decided late today to ask for an additional $50,000 to continue its inquiry. Chairman Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] intends to submit the request to the house tomorrow. The vote may provide an indication of the house's attitude toward changing the Wagner law. Criticism of the statute and of the board which administers it has been presented to the committee, and Smith expressed the opinion that it ought to prepare legislative recommendation in time for congress to act at this session.

Attorney and Wife

Mrs. Belle Eberle, who was cross-examined in court yesterday by her husband, whom she is suing for separate maintenance.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Attorney Appears as Own Counsel.

Attorney Robert H. Eberle yesterday had an opportunity seldom accorded any husband—the right to cross-examine his wife, Mrs. Belle Eberle, 52 years old, in a court of law. He appeared briefly as his own counsel in proceedings before Judge John C. Lewe in which Mrs. Eberle is seeking a separate maintenance decree.

Then, forsaking his rôle as attorney, Eberle stepped to the witness stand to testify in his own behalf. He admitted that his wife's charge he had slapped her twice was true. But, he said, the use of force was justified by what he described as 15 years of nagging in his home at 1143 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park.

Two Attorneys Clash.

This admission led to a heated exchange between Eberle and his wife's lawyer, Robert E. Cantwell. The latter, commencing the cross-examination of his colleague, brought out that Eberle's weight is 210 pounds while his wife weighs only 108 pounds.

"Just keep this up and I'll tell a few things about you," replied Eberle.

"Go ahead and tell," threatened Cantwell, "and I'll knock you thru the roof."

Quarrel Over Pipe Smoking.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Eberle by her husband centered around an incident that occurred on May 10, 1939, one of the times she was slapped.

"Isn't it true that you came storming into my room while I was peacefully lighting my pipe one morning and told me that unless I quit smoking it at home you'd disrupt my office?" demanded Eberle.

"It's true I don't like pipe smoking," replied Mrs. Eberle, "but I don't recall any threats to cause a disturbance in your office."

"Your bill says that my annual income is more than $25,000," said Eberle, "but isn't it true that you know it was a net of $2,400 last year?"

Tells of a Dinner of Mush.

"I don't know anything of the kind," Mrs. Eberle replied, "but I do know that I've had no water at home since Jan. 1 because you refused to pay a $44 bill, and I do know that I had mush and milk for last Sunday's dinner because you refused to give me any money."

The Eberles were married in 1913 and separated last July. Since then Eberle has lived at 838 Lake street, Oak Park. They are the parents of five children.

Judge Lewe continued the hearing until Thursday.

COMPANY FIGHTS NLRB ATTACK ON PLANT MAJORITY

Order Favors C.I.O.; Court Battle Planned.

Officials of the Valley Mould and Iron corporation, 108th street and the Calumet river, announced last evening that they will file immediately with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals a petition for a reversal of a National Labor Relations Board decision directing the company to recognize an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations as sole bargaining agent for its 220 employés.

The NLRB decision, announced in Washington yesterday, directed the company to bargain only with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers of North America, the C. I. O. offshoot. The same ruling directed the corporation to disestablish and withdraw recognition from the Valley Mould Independent Employés union, which was formed more than two years ago.

Calls Finding Invalid.

"This order is based on an invalid finding, namely that the company dominated the independent union," Charles E. Swab, vice president of the Valley corporation, said yesterday. "It is based on a one sided view of the evidence and is entirely unjust and unfair.

"We intend to resist this finding in the courts as provided in the national labor relations act."

The Valley corporation manufactures pig iron moulds that are used by the big steel companies in the forming of steel ingots.

The labor dispute developed in the spring of 1937 when the Amalgamated union was organized and negotiations were commenced.

"In the midst of the C. I. O.'s fight with Little Steel," said Swab, "we were negotiating with the Amalgamated. On May 30, 1937, a wildcat strike was pulled at our plant that lasted until July 9 that year.

"In the midst of that strike, as we understand it, some of our employés formed the independent union, and got a charter from the state. The Valley corporation had no part in this and never has had a part in this union's activities."

On Feb. 18, 1938, the NLRB supervised an election at the plant. The C. I. O. got 103 votes, the independent 97 votes, and 5 opposed both. The company began negotiating, Swab said, with the Amalgamated lodge. In July, 1938, the independent union announced it had 146 employés and was entitled to bargain.

Only One Challenged.

Both company and NLRB officials interviewed the men, Swab said, and found only one individual whose membership in the independent local could be challenged. So the company began negotiating with both groups. Immediately the C. I. O. union filed the protest upon which yesterday's ruling was based.

In its finding yesterday the NLRB declared: "We find that the respondent dominated and interfered with the formation and administration of the Independent. We find that the defections from the ranks of the lodge [Amalgamated] were the direct result of the respondent's unlawful refusal to bargain."

A. F. OF L. DRAFTS INTENSIVE DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 6.—The signal for one of the most intensive organizing drives in the history of the American Federation of Labor was given today by President William Green. He estimated that the campaign will bring 500,000 more workers into the A. F. of L. by October, swelling its paid up membership to 4,750,000.

Green said that he did not expect the unionization drive to bring further open conflict with John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations. But it is anticipated that any membership growth of the A. F. of L. naturally will weaken the C. I. O. and there is a likelihood of defections from the C. I. O. camp to the A. F. of L.

The executive council of the federation listed the fields in which the membership drive will be concentrated. These include textile trades, retail trades, marine workers, office and other white collar workers, government employés, and teachers.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

A FAMILY LIKENESS.

Marion led Bessie to within sight of the hillock behind which Stevens had crouched to watch her last night.

"I think you want to come to the manor," she began, "and I am willing that you should. But there is a condition. Before you see my mother you must tell me the whole and absolute truth about Clara Brown."

Bessie bent her head.

"I can agree to that, Miss Alloway. She said it might be wise."

"She did?" Marion's lips curled. But she could not utter her contempt here or now. Instead she added: "And there is one other thing that you and she should fully understand. It's this. Altho you may have helped her from sympathy or affection, I shall help her solely as and when I consider that the family honor demands it. I am not moved by her position. I am looking back to a long line of decent, law abiding people; and onwards to the new generation."

"I suppose you know your own heart, Miss Alloway, but——"

"I do. Now begin."

While Bessie was making her decorous entry into the manor on Monday Stevens was sitting in Rason's room at Scotland Yard. On the table between the two men lay the report Stevens had sent from Cloutleigh, and the result of the Yard's investigation into the past of Bessie Stockley.

"There's one thing we're always likely to forget on our job," announced Rason—and not for the first time in the course of the discussion—"and that's the fact that coincidence does exist. When you're a recruit you're taught that there isn't such a thing. That's right enough to start with. But in time you find out that there is."

After a respectful pause Stevens—also not for the first time—reiterated some of the more tantalizing facts.

"Until the fourth of this month Bessie Stockley was a prison wardress at Aylesbury, from which post she suddenly resigned, altho she had a perfectly clean sheet."

Rason nodded.

"She had been in Aylesbury for two weeks only; before that she had been at Honebyker," continued Stevens. "During the whole of the time that Clara Brown was in Honebyker she was in Stockley's charge—that is, up to the time Stockley was drafted to Aylesbury."

Rason took out a cigaret and lit up.

"There must be a linkup somewhere," he muttered.

"Before she entered the prison service——" Stevens turned over a typed sheet—"she was the daughter of Sir John Brentiford's head gardener. Sir John Brentiford was Mrs. Michael Alloway's father. Stockley is now engaged as nurse-companion to Mrs. Alloway senior."

Stevens turned another typewritten sheet and ran his eye automatically down the neat columns. Bessie Stockley's whole record was summarized there. Her term of service, salary, holidays and expenses.

"I see Stockley took her last holiday from Honebyker round about Aug. 23."

"Came to see Mrs. Michael married, no doubt. Natural enough. She wasn't one of the witnesses, tho—we had them all up here when Mrs. Michael was detained." At the recollection of that disastrous morning Rason smote the table with his fist. "I shall go stark staring mad over this case. . . . What is it now?"

"I was only thinking, sir, that Stockley must have had a pretty big shock when she first saw Clara Brown."

"Why? O, yes—because of the likeness to her friend and benefactress, Miss Brentiford, you mean." He pushed aside the police photos of "Clara Brown" and eyed them balefully. Stevens picked them up in his turn.

"Here, that's a funny thing!" he exclaimed.

"No more coincidences," Rason warned him.

"No, sir. But it is funny, all the same. Clara Brown and Bessie Stockley are quite a bit alike, too. Not the image of each other, by any means, but if they were sisters you'd say there was a general family likeness."

"Well, Stockley isn't Clara Brown, anyway," groaned Rason. "Never has been and never will be——"

He broke off and sat for a moment with his mouth wide open, like a man who has been hit on the head. Stevens gaped back at him.

"Was Stockley at that wedding on Aug. 23?" demanded Rason in a whisper. "Was she?"

"I dunno, sir," said Stevens foolishly.

"Then we'll find out," said Rason, abruptly restored to normality. "We'll find out."

Michael Alloway had taken a modern brick bungalow midway between the social center at the capital of Malta and the new aerodrome which he was building, part of which was already in use for civil airplanes.

At the end of a couple of days Cynthia felt as if she had been living there for months. From the moment when she had landed everything had been just as she had wanted it to be. Even the furniture, which was not of their choosing, was just what she would have liked for their temporary home. There had been a stream of callers. Everybody was very friendly, but nobody stayed long, for it was known that the Alloways were having a second honeymoon even if Michael had to be at work.

Michael had waxed indignant over the ridiculous mistake made by Scotland Yard. But for the rest, he had troubled her with no detailed questions as to why it had been impossible for her to come out before. His trust, even in small things, was so absolute that he never asked trifling questions.

Strangely in her heart there was no sense of having deceived him. She knew something of a man's ultimate values. If a woman does not lie to him when she says that she loves him he will forgive anything.

Perhaps she allowed her conscience to be lulled too easily by the security which the protection certificate gave her. In her mind that simple strip of paper had the effect of burying the nightmare of Honebyker and her tragic contact with Rory Clarke. She believed implicitly that Clarke himself could do her no further harm.

When Bessie's cable arrived she was alone in the bungalow, so that she had no need to disguise the trembling that seized her. "Remember I was at your wedding." It was most clearly a warning. Bessie's movements during that important fortnight were being followed up. Evidently by the police. At the idea her heart jumped sickeningly and she had to get out her protection certificate and reread it before she felt calm enough to face Michael over their pretty dinner table.

The cable had arrived on Saturday. By the following Tuesday she had almost succeeded in forgetting it. Michael had come home early and they were sitting on the veranda in weather like a day in early summer. Michael's contented eyes were on the setting sun.

The calm was broken by the distant hum of an airplane.

"Only the mails," he said. "I don't suppose there'll be any one else on board."

Books Written by Chicagoans Win Attention

The pens of Chicagoans have produced some interesting books recently, and one of the year's outstanding prize awards has just been made to one of our fellow citizens, Mrs. Sophie Belzer Engstrand of 4922½ Quincy street. She has won the $1,000 award offered by the Dial Press to the teacher who should write the best novel with a scholastic background. Her prize novel, "Miss Munday," is promised for publication on April 25. She is the wife of another well known Chicago novelist, Stuart David Engstrand, author of "They Sought for Paradise" [Harper, $2.50], published last year.

Story of Father Dearborn.

"Revolutionary War Journals of Henry Dearborn, 1775-1783," edited from the original manuscripts by Lloyd A. Brown and Howard H. Peckham, with a biographical essay by Hermon Dunlap Smith. [Caxton Club.]

Nothing could be more all-around Chicagoan than this book. It concerns that old Father Dearborn about whom everybody in Chicago talks so glibly and about whom practically nobody knows anything—even the ironic fact that he never set foot on the soil of the city which he symbolizes. The book grew out of the interest of a Chicagoan in that mythical gentleman, and is the result of a characteristically midwestern willingness to play hard at a hard job of research, for it started as a "paper" for the Caxton club, a group of bibliophiles. And the really beautifully designed and printed book was made in Chicago—by the Lakeside Press.

Readers of Kenneth Roberts' "Arundel" know Gen. Henry Dearborn. In the history books you meet him first as a valiant young doctor in 1775 who shouldered his squirrel rifle and went out to fight the English, and later as the stalwart secretary of war in the cabinet of Thomas Jefferson. It was when he occupied that position that he gave the orders for the building of the fort to protect the trading post of "Chikago" which bore his name. Father Dearborn kept a journal of "the proceedings and particular occurrences which happened within my knowledge to the troops" during the revolutionary war years, and those journals are published here for the first time in their entirety as the result of Mr. Smith's indefatigable sleuthing.

Sherlock Holmes Studies.

"221B: Studies in Sherlock Holmes," edited by Vincent Starrett. [Macmillan, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Also the result of enthusiastic and ingenious research for the fun of it are the contents of this volume, which will be a delight to any one who also is an enthusiast over Sherlock Holmes. For here are gathered together "papers" written by members of that famous group, "The Baker Street Irregulars," and by A. Conan Doyle himself, about the most amusing and esoteric Holmesian and Watsonian questions. Vincent Starrett, our fellow Chicagoan, who before this has written engagingly about Sherlock Holmes, contributes not only the editing of the volume but also an "explanation" in which he describes the birth of the "Irregulars" and their pleasant function, and pays a delightful tribute to Sherlock Holmes as a person more real and infinitely saner than many a flesh and blood man in today's headlines. The book is named "221B" because it was at that famous address, 221B Baker street, that Sherlock Holmes lived.

Nature Lover's Writings.

John W. Vandercook has written a most artistic little book on one of our own island possessions, called Discover Puerto Rico [Harpers, $1], which you'll enjoy just as a lovely bit of prose even if you never go there.

Another book on the same general locale is Daisy Reck's Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50]. The author has spent a good deal of time in St. Thomas, St. Croix, and St. John and tells both informatively and amusingly of these tropical havens where the days stand still, no one ever hurries, and life is at its simplest.

Larry Nixon, whose "Vagabond Voyaging" was seized upon eagerly by travelers who like out-of-the-way places and economical trips, has done another helpful book, American Vacations [Little-Brown, $2.25], which is especially apropos this winter. It discusses inexpensive vacations in every state and is definite on costs. E. W.

—of the beauty of native trees and bloom, of man's passion for living in beehives, of his need for gardens, of the distinctive personality of different parts of the country, of the impossibility of copying nature. All of the things which a keen, nature loving eye has seen he records in prose as beautifully balanced as his fine designs for the out-of-doors. One chapter is about his childhood in "ancient Jutland," and it is done with such charm that it makes the reader wish Mr. Jensen would write his autobiography. F. B.

Rare Literary Qualities Glow in a Memorable Story of Life in Welsh Coal Mining Valley

"How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn. [Macmillan, $2.75.]

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Hailed in England superlatively as "the greatest modern novel I have ever read" and conservatively as a book that "will arouse wide enthusiasm," "How Green Was My Valley" is offered to the American public by the publisher who presaged the popularity of "Gone With the Wind" which, incidentally, has been one of the few novels that haven't gone with the wind!

"How Green Was My Valley" is the story of a childhood and young manhood in a coal mining valley in Wales told by a man [fictitious] in his 60s, rich with memories. Those memories are beautifully consistent and consistently beautiful, for they are rosied over with time and sentiment, but not dulled by either. They stand clear and sharp behind that frankly warm veil, and are the more real and living for its presence.

There was no pile of gray slag to mark the town as the book opens. Men went down into the mines in their bodily might and came up to their daily scrubbing in the kitchen and to fill their own and their numerous children's stomachs well. Life was hard, but it was good when Huw, who tells the story, was a little boy.

It was his own oldest brother who started the agitation among the miners against their employers, and as the book ends during the Boer war revolution sweeps the valley. There is violence of humankind, of nature, and of emotion for the people in the valley during those twenty-some years. But Huw's family and neighbors are a stout race not only of body but of soul, and they bear the violence that is sent to them and make much violence of their own with fortitude as well as strength. There is misery here, but misery accepted and triumphed over.

As a matter of fact, the reader emerges from these 494 tensed pages strangely aglow with sharing the happiness of the characters in the book. Such honesty and understanding, such fierce loyalty, indeed such quiet humor, are rare in any novel. As Mr. Llewellyn records with frank sentiment [tho, one must insist, not sentimentality] those years, the record is one of tender nostalgia.

"How Green Was My Valley" is written with idiomatic twists of phrase which give the reader a sense of dialect without actually being written in dialect. The simplicity of the language and its delicately strange flavor give the book added charm.

"How Green Was My Valley" is no tale to skip thru in an evening. It was obviously written with a happily slow pen, and if it is read without haste its rewards to the reader will be as happy.

A Poignant First Novel

"River of Earth," by James Still. [Viking, $2.50.] Published Monday.

James Still.

James Still, true poet of the Kentucky mountains, has written his first novel in "River of Earth." It is the story of a miner's family "driv from one coal camp to another," where they have "lived hard as nails," illiterate, rarely shod, seldom well fed, often not fed at all, but somehow happy. Their happiness is the happiness of human beings adjusted to their lot and to one another.

The father has his kinfolk too often about him. The mother yearns for the permanence of one plot of earth, however scrabbly. The children are too young to know the bitterness of envy, altho their lives are rich not materially but in the calls of birds and the feel of warm earth beneath their bare feet. But together they are a happy family, secure in their unspoken affection for one another.

The story is told reminiscently by a small boy—almost seven as the book opens, only a year or so older as it closes. But little escapes his sharp young eyes. When his mother moves them all into the smokehouse and calmly sets fire to the big house which "draws kinfolks like a horse draws nitflies" he records: "Mother stood among the scattered furnishings, her face calm and triumphant."

There is, despite all of their hardness and grimness, something fundamentally gay in these pages. As the book closes, one of its major tragedies takes on an ironic comedy when the reader realizes that the lawbreaking for which Uncle Jolly has atoned in the penitentiary has been the sly work of old grandma. Uncle Jolly's tale of his escape from a prison term elicits a guffaw when he tells who started the fire which he fought with such heroism that the governor pardoned him.

"River of Earth" is written in the idiom of the Kentucky hills and in a primitive prose poetry as in: "It was never meant for a body to be full content on the face of the earth."

"Inside Europe"—1940

"Inside Europe, 1940 War Edition," by John Gunther. [Harper's, $3.50.] Published last Friday.

John Gunther's "Inside Europe" has just been brought up to the minute in the 1940 war edition. Originally published in January, 1936, it had two new prefaces in that year and in October, 1936, a completely revised and reset edition appeared. In February, 1937, a chapter was added dealing with the abdication of Edward VIII. In the autumn of 1937 a second complete revision was made. In 1938 various minor changes were made. The ironically mistitled "Peace" edition in the autumn of 1938 was made necessary by the Munich crisis.

This latest book is completely revised and reset, with 90,000 more words than the original edition, a new map, an introduction covering the period from the outbreak of the war in Poland to date, a chapter on events from Munich to the outbreak of the war in Poland, and new material on many people and events.

But he has slowly returned to creative writing as opposed to essays, and his latest, "Hamlet Had an Uncle" [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], is as embroidered by fancy as were his Manuel tales.

"Life with Father," the New York smash hit in the theater, as it was as a book, will be published Feb. 19, the day it opens a Chicago run. The play is by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse from the classic childhood memories of Clarence Day Jr. H. L. Mencken, whose "Happy Days" [Knopf, $2.75], hilariously celebrate a childhood contemporary with the late Clarence Day's, will be among the famous easterners coming to Chicago for the play's première.

Important New Books

Japanese Girl's Life Story.

"Restless Wave," by Haru Matsui. [Modern Age, $2.50.]

In the life of Haru Matsui two forces struggled for expression. Blessed with a sensitive mind and nature, this shy Japanese girl saw evidence of social injustice about her and felt a driving need to correct it. At the same time there was growing within her inner self a dissatisfaction with the traditional rôle of subservience for which the women of her country and caste had been destined for centuries.

These two forces, nurtured side by side, reached maturity simultaneously. This double break with tradition divided her life and her exquisite autobiography, "Restless Wave," into two parts, the old world of Japan, and the new world of America—the old ways of the sheltered maiden, and those of the "new woman."

"Restless Wave" is the haunting rhythm of a pulsing mind. Almost every line carries the cadence and thought of lyric poetry, and in her remembrance of an idyllic Japanese childhood with Elder Sister and Younger Brother, comparison with the prose of Katherine Mansfield is almost inevitable. J. H. T.

Novel of Sturdy Finland.

"Sun and Storm," by Unto Seppänen. [Bobbs Merrill, $2.50.]

Sturdy Finland of the green forests and fertile fields, of the snows and of the stolid, determined, deeply and quietly emotional people—the Finland that today tops the news as the object of Red Russian aggression, lives, breathes, and sings in a novel published in October.

"Sun and Storm" is almost a saga, for it follows Finland's progress from a Russian vassal state up to its fight for independence. That story is told in the history of a family, in the rugged determination of one man to realize his dream of power for himself and for his country. Not the finest writing to come out of Finland, this is nevertheless a beautiful testament to the spirit that has confounded Russia. W. D.

An Executioner's Own Story.

Robert G. Elliott, who died last Oct. 10, was in hearty disagreement with those who insisted he was a murderer because his was the hand that sent 387 men and women to their deaths in the electric chair. His idea was that society, as represented by the majority in the eastern states where he was the official executioner, insisted on an eye for an eye and that he was merely the instrument of society.

Mr. Elliott died with the hope that capital punishment will be outlawed. He proposed that citizens should be forced to witness electrocutions, as they now are forced to serve on juries that send men to their death in the chair. "Thus would the repugnant horror of, and his responsibility in, legal slaying be impressed upon the average person," he said. "I venture to predict that if this were done the abolishment of the death penalty would soon follow."

There is nothing with which to compare this book, because there was and is no one to compare with the author and his job. Mr. Elliott, thru Mr. Beatty, tells his story well, with neither over nor under emphasis of his experiences in the death chamber. W. D. O.

Sketches Done with Fine Skill by Dr. Cushing

"The Medical Career and Other Papers," by Harvey Cushing. [Little Brown, $2.50.] Published last Thursday.

BY DR. IRVING S. CUTTER.

There is more of the real Harvey Cushing packed into the 16 papers contained in this book than in all his other writings. Charm, humor, and informality permeate the whole. He utilized the opportunities presented by demands upon him for public addresses to express frankly his innermost thoughts. Much as we have admired his Pulitzer prize work, "Biography of Osler," his "Surgeon's Journal," and other works, this compilation, issued these few months after his death, constitutes a high-water mark of literary excellence.

In a sense, the publication may be compared with Oliver Wendell Holmes' "Currents and Counter-Currents." Holmes used medicine as a field for roaming, and his epoch-making contributions were no more startling than those that have come from the pen of Harvey Cushing. Using biography as a field for mental sharpening as well as relaxation, he has produced a group of delightful sketches. In addition, he has packed into these pages so much good sound sense—coupled with a fundamental philosophy of life—that no one can read them without a thrill.

In his Brookline home it was his greatest joy to go into a huddle with some other book lover over his treasures. The discovery of a unique bibliographic item excited him as much as the removal of a brain tumor.

Every entry in this collection is a gem. Attention may be called to one article in particular—that on James Ford Rhodes, the historian. Cushing was introduced to him by his Negro barber, George Myers, whose "Tonsorial Academy" had been established by Rhodes and some of his companions. In a footnote, Cushing records that on the final page of the last of Rhodes' historical volumes there appears this acknowledgment, "I am indebted to George A. Myers of Cleveland for useful suggestions."

When Cushing reminded his friend Rhodes that he was present when Yale conferred an LL.D. upon him, the barber remarked, "O, yes, I know about that. That was for writing those books. But Mr. Rhodes, he did the easy work on 'em and I did the heavy. Every morning when I went out to his house on Euclid avenue to shave him I had to stop at the Case library so's to tote a big bundle of things he wanted. I did the heavy work on those histories and should have shared the LL.D. with my partner."

Cushing's ideals of education are set forth with unusual clarity. He was forever admonishing his colleagues against the danger of overemphasizing science in the making of a doctor. In one of the essays, "Medicine at the Crosswords," he writes: "Three-fifths of the practice of medicine depends on common sense, a knowledge of people, and of human reactions. More than half of the remainder is technology and mechanics—the work of those medically trained artisans we call surgeons."

I know of no volume dealing alike with history, biography, and education that is so stimulating.

Writes Life Story

"Life's a Circus," by Lady Eleanor Smith. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75.] Published last Friday.

The author of "Red Wagon" and "Flamenco," vastly popular novels about the circus and gypsies, respectively, is the daughter of the late Earl of Birkenhead, lord chancellor of England in the post war years, and the great granddaughter of a gypsy.

In "Life's a Circus," her autobiography, she makes it plain that the gypsy greatgrandmother's blood still bubbles in the veins of this daughter of an earl. She also makes plain that it did a good deal of bubbling in her father's. The brief glimpses which the reader has of him here and there in the book and in the one chapter devoted entirely to him make him sound less like the popular conception of a lord chancellor than you ever met in the novels about the gay hearted private life of solemn public figures. They also make the reader wish this daughter would do a full sized portrait of her amusing father.

If this weren't labeled an autobiography you might well think you were reading a swiftly moving novel. For Lady Eleanor Smith has given it the sparkle and the immediacy of a novel by highlighting events with conversation. The conversation may not be entirely dictographic, since some of it deals with her remotest childhood from which exact phrases are not usually recalled, but it succeeds in giving an impression that mere narration never achieves. It brings events vividly alive.

"Life's a Circus" is twice as exciting as most novels, except for the fact that there is no framework plot. It ends abruptly. It seems, on viewing it from the perspective of the last page, to be, rather than the whole picture of a person, a series of amusing or hair-raising or rebellious events strung on the delicate silk thread of the author's real talent for making words vivify people and things and actions. But real zest is in these pages—and the thrill of a fascinating story.

THE ALL-NATIONS PRIZE NOVEL BY

FARRAR & RINEHART, N. Y.

History Gleaned for an Appraisal of Pontius Pilate

"And Pilate Said," by Frank Morison. [Scribners, $2.75.]

Pontius Pilate, governor of Judea and Samaria from 26 to 36 A. D., has been the subject of unending controversy. Frank Morison here separates history from legend, and appraises Pilate from three episodes in his career—a riot over the display of Roman ensigns in violation of the Mosaic law, the building of an aqueduct with temple funds, and the crucifixion of Jesus of Nazareth.

Mr. Morison shows what a difficult job Pilate had to keep Rome satisfied, to manipulate the politician-priests of Jerusalem, and to hold down the turbulent people. That the procurator was able to do it for ten years, Mr. Morison believes, is evidence of great executive ability.

Mr. Morison accepts the verdict of the early Christian church that the Jewish leaders were chiefly responsible for the death of Christ. He agrees with most modern students that the worst that can be said about Pilate is that he was a typical Roman of the period, capable of receiving a strong impression of the sublime but unable to act on such an impression.

The book is illustrated by 56 photographs of the Holy Land, some taken by the British royal air force. Mr. Morison also is the author of the widely praised "Who Moved the Stone?" C. J. W.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE DEMOCRATS PICK THE RIGHT CITY.

The Democratic party management has made one wise decision. It may not make another during the campaign year. Possibly for the good of the country it would be better that all subsequent decisions should be politically unwise, but the decision of the national committee to hold the convention in Chicago must be regarded as the best one which could be made. Conventions naturally gravitate to this city. They follow the pull of the natural advantages presented here to a degree unmatched in any other locality.

The Republican national committee will meet next week and probably will not permit itself to be outsmarted by the Democrats in the matter of choosing a convention city. Mr. Hamilton and his committee are engaged in an early preliminary matching of wits with Mr. Farley and his committee, and we know that Mr. Hamilton doesn't care to have Mr. Farley twitting him on the selection of the wrong place of meeting.

The Democrats refuse to be smoked out enough to say when they will meet here. The Republicans didn't care where they met; the Republicans wanted to know when. The Democrats dodged that issue by authorizing Mr. Farley to pick his own time. Mr. Farley may wait until the Republican committee has made its arrangements and then pick his own time. Mr. Hamilton rather indicates that the Republicans will not jockey around any longer. The party, he says, does not intend to run a one-man show and is not accustomed to delegating everything to one fellow and letting him be the boss.

It may be assumed that the Republicans will nominate without knowing whether the Democrats are to give Mr. Roosevelt a chance at the third term or, if not, what small candle they're going to light in his place. They will not know what targets will be set up for them when they choose their own standard bearer and plan their campaign. It probably won't make a great deal of difference. They know they have two terms of the New Deal to deal with no matter to whom the Democrats entrust the defense of that deal, if not the prolongation of it. If Mr. Roosevelt isn't nominated the other fellow on the ticket will have to carry the eight years.

Some of the New Dealers have been saying that a September date for the convention would be all right. They think they can do better with a six weeks' campaign than with a longer one, and that idea has Mr. Roosevelt's indorsement. However, Democrats who like the New Deal about as little as any of its other opponents are either candidates in their own right or are backing their own men, and they are unwilling to be walking about in a third term fog not knowing whether they have to beat the present chief or what chances anybody else will have.

Mr. Farley is among those who doesn't think himself at all unavailable or in any way ineligible for his party's highest gift. Whatever else he may be able to control, he at least is the man who will say when the nomination will be made.

Mr. Roosevelt himself says he is getting a bit tired of the efforts to find out what he wants and what his purposes are. As has been remarked, he has everything to gain by not revealing his purposes. He would lose prestige and influence by saying no and he would increase opposition by saying yes. The assumption, of course, is that he will figure it out that the New Deal is inseparably himself and that the third term is its life, that his continuity is its continuity, and that one stream can't be stopped and the other flow on.

KINDLY MR. HUGHES.

One month of 1940 has already passed and the 1939 license plates on the streets still seem to outnumber the plates for the current year. Understandably, the public has heard nothing of efforts by the state highway police to bring delinquent motorists to book. The police, as recent events have shown, probably have other, and to their political bosses more important, business to attend to.

But neither has Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, whose duty it is under the law to collect the license fees, taken any action that has come to public attention. Can Mr. Hughes' softness of heart be explained by the fact that he will be a candidate for renomination in a few months? If so, his consideration of those who neglect to pay for use of the highways will not rest well with the hundreds of thousands who dug down and paid on time.

Attempts to enforce prompt payment of automobile license fees by arresting drivers who fail to pay them have been conspicuously unsuccessful in this state, largely because political considerations have stifled proper law enforcement. An alternative method, worth consideration by the legislature, would be to follow the example of other states and many Illinois communities in collecting vehicle taxes and grant a substantial discount to those who pay before Jan. 1.

Laxness in enforcing vehicle tax collections has evil effects outside the field of revenue. The motorist sees that he can violate one vehicle law for months and suffer no ill consequences. The contempt thus bred is extended to other vehicle laws, and the massacre on the highways flourishes.

THEY MAY DO IT BETTER IN RUSSIA.

The fellow travelers and revolutionaries who can't quite bring themselves to part with the communists, even tho they do not see how they can put on a front for Brother Stalin, think that the conviction of Earl Browder and the four year jail sentence given him for passport fraud was an outrage on justice. They have thought it necessary for the sake of appearances to cut away from their old connection with the soviets, but it can't quite be done. They spent so many years in admiration of communist excesses, stupidities, and brutalities that they will sneak back to the old love every time they get a chance.

We do not know whether Browder as a communist was more severely looked upon by the jury which convicted him or by the judge who sentenced him than Browder would have been if he hadn't had these political connections and this revolutionary history. The fraud he committed, however, was not a technicality, altho by a technicality he avoided having to answer for the lawlessness of using other persons' names and traveling abroad as somebody he wasn't. When he had done so several times—a fraud he was willing to admit because he thought the offense was outlawed—he then, in taking a passport in his own name, swore that he had none before. That offense still remained actionable.

It is a communist practice—common to nearly all European intrigue and conspiracy—to adopt many aliases and use fraudulent and forged passports. American passports are in great demand for such purposes because of the general impression that an American is merely a harmless inhocent touring about and spending his money where other nations like to have him spend it. Mr. Browder in traveling under false names to go to Moscow was following the regular line. But he was violating the laws of the United States, and for that he has been convicted.

If we are to compare our own laws and their administration with the better laws and better administration of another country—to condemn our own and extol the other—we might recall an instance, and not an unusual one, of how the soviet brothers handle this thing. In Moscow an American passport fraud involving two persons known at times as Mr. and Mrs. Robinson resulted in one of them, Mr. Robinson, disappearing from the knowledge of men, and probably forever, while Mrs. Robinson remained in prison in such an obvious state of terror that she wouldn't talk to the representatives of the American embassy, who finally were allowed to speak to her in the presence of the secret police.

After many months Mrs. Robinson seemed to be acquitted, but she was still in a state of terror and when last heard of was uncertain what she was going to do. At that time she didn't know where her husband was and probably never will know. Nor will any one else except Mr. Stalin's policemen in what is still the land of promise to the fellow travelers.

OLD MEN OF THE "C."

Sinbad the Sailor, on his fifth voyage, encountered the Old Man of the Sea. Out of pity, Sinbad took him upon his shoulders, only to have the old man wind his legs about Sinbad's shoulders and clutch his throat so tightly that he could hardly breathe. The evil old faker thereafter never left his seat, not even at night. By a skilful artifice, however, Sinbad one day was able to catch his rider off guard and did away with him. Otherwise he would have suffered the fate of the many who died from the malicious embraces of the little old man of the sea.

As Carey Orr showed in his cartoon Monday, we now have many old men of the "C." There is the oldest of the old men, the ICC which, taking an even tighter hold upon the railroads, has so prevented them from meeting other forms of competition that many of the lines have failed. There is the SEC which, by pretending to be the investors' advocate, was able to get a tight hold on public financing and has used its position to starve business of new supplies of capital. And there are the FCC, which has a strangle hold on all forms of communication, and many other old men of the "C."

Business progress in the past has come from the free exercise of individual initiative. Business offered rewards to those who were successful, and let those take the losses who failed. Now, instead of freedom of enterprise, we have the restrictions by Old Men of the "C" who won't let business go ahead. Whether we have progress again will depend upon whether we are able to do what Sinbad did, to get off our backs these fellows who have a strangle hold upon us.

Editorial of the Day

"CEMENTED" BY BLOOD, BLOOD, BLOOD.

[Des Moines Register.]

STALIN: The friendship of the peoples of Germany and the soviet union, cemented by blood, has every reason to be lasting and firm.

MADARIAGA: . . . Most fitting: there is, as you say, the Polish blood, and also the Finnish; but there is above all the Spanish blood. For Hitler and Stalin to shake hands they have had to tread over a million Spanish dead.

But senor de Madariaga is a Spaniard.

In his sorrow over the fate of his own people, he left out two of the most "cementing" bloods—the blood of Russians, shed by Stalin, and the blood of Germans, shed by Hitler.

BAKER STREET GLEANINGS.

There are two Sherlock Holmes stories which are not included in "the legitimate canon," as the fanatics call the sixty stories, long and short, that may now be found in a single volume. They are "The Man with the Watches," which appears in "The Conan Doyle Stories" [London, John Murray, 1929] and "The Lost Special," first printed in "Round the Fire Stories," London, 1908. A footnote to Vincent Starrett's new book of Holmesiana, "221 B," says of them:

"Holmes appears in both these stories by obvious allusion, but Watson suppressed them, probably because Holmes was wrong in both cases."

There is another example of Holmes-Watson characterization, published in an Edinburgh university student periodical in 1896, which was written by Doyle as a contribution to the activities of his Alma Mater. It is called "The Field Bazaar"; its purpose was to aid a "drive" for an addition to the cricket field. It is reprinted in "221 B" and given the place of honor in the book's contents. Its only other reprinting was in 1934, when 100 copies were circulated at a dinner of the literary group called the Baker Street Irregulars.

"In the 60 cases of record in the Writings there are 37 definite felonies in which the criminal was known to Mr. Sherlock Holmes. In no less than 14 of these cases did the celebrated detective take the law into his own hands and free the guilty person. In 23 cases the offender was taken by the police. In seven cases justice was balked by suicide, by death at sea or by other acts of God. In 12 cases no crime was involved. And in four cases the criminal or criminals got away uncaught."

SUBURBAN SOLILOQUIES—II.

(The Streamliner Diner.)

Next to my window ere leaving the station,
Nightly I view it with awesome sensation—
Travel's most elegant, sleek demonstration,
The streamliner diner!

Napery neat in its spotless array,
Silver laid out in the most approved way,
Buds in their vases make smilingly gay

Homebound commuters all longingly stare
At scintillant chromium, rose-colored chair,
Envying those who in luxury share
The streamliner diner.

Slowly the five-twenty-five chugs away.
Neighbor turns wistful to neighbor to say,
"Boy! Would I like to ride that one some day—

In Praise of Printers' Row.

Printers' Row [Plymouth court from Polk to Van Buren] has more glamor per pica than all of Hollywood, with its studios, has per square yard of actor. Within those dilapidated buildings printers' ink has written more drama, more comedy than all the novelists from Maine to Honolulu; among those printers and supply men are more quaint characters than even "Bazooka" Burns could dream up in one of his wildest moments.

There's more life in a linotype or a press, even in a few slugs of type, than in a lot of dizzy columnists who've never thought to exploit this juicy-rich field of the man behind the press. Ho for the breadth and scope of a Tolstoy plus the flair for comedy of a Rabelais! Say, I'd tell you a story you'd never forget, and then Hollywood could really go to town. Landfield the Junior.

She kept a scrapbook of clippings from the Line, and was particularly fond of Mr. Pepys' gossip about his doings. Will O'Neil [News Room].

THE PERFECT LETTER WRITER.

[Mme. de Sévigné, 1626-'96.]

Thou airy priestess of the sprightly phrase,
Now in the forest, Les Rochers, and now
A-glitter in Versailles or Tuileries,
Forever mistress of the knowledge how
To glimpse the utmost in a passing scene,
And press it with epistolary grace
Upon a page enlivened yet serene
As beauty on an intellectual face;
How like a glint of diamond your flash
Comes shining thru the brilliance of that age,
(The wastrel brilliance, colorful and rash)
Like flawless gleam, inviolate and sage!
So grudge we not their luxury to those
Who were the impulse to bewitching prose.

The Mystery of Lafayette Mulligan.

Your favorite "mystery" writer may be Ngaio Marsh, but mine is one "Lafayette Mulligan," who broke into THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE drama page with a letter praising Clifton Webb for his performance in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and dealing somewhat cavalierly with Monty Woolley and Alexander Woollcott in the same part.

I am wondering whether this is the same "Lafayette Mulligan" who almost caused an international incident when the prince of Wales was visiting Canada. Boston, because of its strong Irish vote, ignored the prince's presence across the border. Its mayor, the Hon. James M. Curley, went on record against sending his highness an invitation.

Imagine Mr. Curley's amazement, therefore, to receive a note from Wales' equerry setting forth his highness' regrets at being unable to accept the kind and gracious invitation to visit Boston, an invitation signed by "Lafayette Mulligan, Social Secretary to the Mayor."

Is it possible that the same gentleman is now in Chicago and up to his old tricks?

John Montague.

INJECTION TREATMENT OF VARICOSE VEINS.

ENOUGH experience has now been accumulated and enough time has elapsed to warrant a review of the injection methods of handling varicose veins. No one relishes the surgical removal of these tortuous and overstretched channels—if it can be avoided. Hence—when the suggestion was offered that they could be obliterated by means of a hardening solution, thousands of patients submitted to the treatment. While different preparations have been employed, 5 per cent sodium morrhuate appears to be satisfactory.

The only objection to the plan lies in the fact that further work may be necessary. Small vessels that are scarcely noticed at the time the work is done may later enlarge, leading one to believe that the results have been ineffectual. On the whole, however, it may be said safely that the serpentlike pathways can be eradicated, ulcers prevented, and the sufferer rendered capable of normal activity. The wise physician will state frankly that should other undetected veins later become distended, the process may need to be repeated. Nature is so curious in her behavior that, in some instances, new routes will form thru tubes that have supposedly been plugged.

There is reason to believe that tying the large vein—high up in the thigh—is of real value in preventing recurrences. This is done to relieve the smaller conduits of the weight of the column of blood which this channel represents. It has become the practice to ligate this canal early so that the ballooned structures below will be eased of pressure. The sclerosing solution—introduced directly into the vein—will then be able to bring about its destruction for its entire length. Sometimes it is desirable to tie off tributaries, but much will depend upon the extent of the dilatation and the general health of the patient.

One of the most annoying accompaniments—and a fairly serious complication—is a varicose ulcer. These lesions form because the skin is so poorly nourished. In other words, some cells die of starvation. In consequence, a craterlike wound ensues. Healing is slow and every physician has observed the breaking down in the same location or in an adjacent region of apparently well repaired areas some time after full duties are resumed.

Many procedures are applicable to long standing ulcers. As we know, with complete bed rest and with the leg elevated—thus using the force of gravity—the sore will close without much trouble. But as soon as the victim is up and about swelling develops, the epidermis loses its resistance, and back comes the raw spot. If repair is accomplished without bed rest we are reasonably sure of a more permanent job. The injection of the neighboring veins may bring about a cure. Furthermore, the use of an elastic support [bandage or stocking] will so reduce the bulging that the blood supply will be sufficient.

Another device involves the employment of pressure over the affected surface. A small rubber sponge is adjusted snugly over the gauze dressing and the entire limb is then compressed with a spiral binder. Among supplementary aids may be included a mixture of powdered boric acid and hydrastis, crude cod liver oil, and ammonium bicarbonate. Each has its place.

Why do these ulcers form? Largely because of the stagnation of vital fluid within the capillaries. In many instances this leads to the filling of the tissue spaces with water. In addition, the skin has but little endurance and a trivial injury—one that would be withstood by the normal individual without the slightest effect—may usher in the manifestation. Again, the parts may become waterlogged because the circulation is inadequate to absorb excess liquid.

We may say then that the injection régime—plus ligation—is the most convenient measure. If skillfully performed—and if the patient is watched for at least two years—all should go well. The percentage of failures is not large and the relief that follows can scarcely be estimated. A bungling operator, however, is worse than none.

HORMONES.

K. S. writes: You mentioned in an article that estrogens are beneficial whenever there is a change in mucous surfaces. Would a catarrhal condition of the bladder fall into this category?

REPLY.

Possibly. Most infections and irritations result in injury to the mucous membranes of the regions involved. However, as the cause is relieved, symptoms disappear. Trouble within the nasal passages is aided by certain hormones. I am not aware that this plan has been applied to the bladder.

UNRULY FEET.

W. C. writes: What is the cause of fidgety feet? I cannot keep mine still—even after I go to bed.

REPLY.

A true jitterbug. Learn to "unlax." If the condition persists, consult your physician, as some circulatory difficulty may be responsible.

HIGH METABOLISM.

A. K. writes: After a thyroid operation—if the metabolism reading is still high—are X-ray treatments advisable?

REPLY.

Yes—frequently. However, be guided by the advice of your physician.

HOME OWNER'S EXPERIENCE.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—When abuses of the building trades are being investigated, one of the most harmful to the tradesmen themselves should also be aired.

When the time came for installation of electric fixtures in my new home I wanted to purchase my own fixtures, as I could get them for less than half the price the electrician wanted for them from the same house. If I got them he was going to charge me a dollar a fixture to hang them on top of the very good union wage he was then earning. Now if I had some one else install them I was told the city inspector would not approve them, as he was quite a good friend. The same thing came up with the plumbers. They have a monopoly pure and simple. More power to any investigating committee.

BELLICOSE BOY.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Listening to the President's Birthday ball celebration on Tuesday evening, Jan. 30, it suddenly dawned on me what a bellicose little boy the President really is.

I enjoyed the varied program very much, but could not help noticing that no matter what the occasion, and how he might insist that his talks will be nonpolitical, he nevertheless never misses a chance to take a stab at his opponents. Tuesday's jabs were wrapped in veiveteen to soften them a bit, but still they were present.

I wonder if any one else had the same reaction. To me the President is like a little boy who can't have his own way during the games and so picks up his marbles and runs home to mamma.

MERCEDES GEHRING.

HELP FOR FINLAND.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—There seems to be a great deal of discussion for and against the loan to Finland. As a simple solution may I suggest the following:

The United States treasury, state department, or any other agency should handle the details in preparing all the bonds and then offer them for public subscription. Those in favor of the loan can purchase these bonds, and those opposed to the loan need not purchase any of the bonds. And everybody will be happy. H. K.

SCOTCH-IRISH.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Contribution to the far too decorous wrangle about the Scotch-Irish now going on in your column:

ARE ROBBERIES INCREASING?

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Recent robberies, which daily are described in our papers and many that do not break into print but are nonetheless disturbing to the victims, require public attention.

An outstanding example was the robbing of Constance Bennett and Anita Louise in the heart of town the other night. An example of the thousands of unpublicized robberies is the entering of my home several times within the last year. Considerable loss resulted. Several of my neighbors had the same experience, including two drug stores, all within a block of a police station. Prior to these crimes I had considered myself a protected citizen living in a respectable neighborhood. Now I am not so sure.

I believe that if patrolmen on the beat were brought back much of this trouble could be eliminated. An officer on foot, who covers regular rounds including the alleys, is much more likely to catch a thief in the act than are two policemen riding in a squad car and staying chiefly on the the full lighted streets looking for traffic violators.

Chicago has done well in cleaning up her prohibition rackets, so why can't we, the citizenry and the police, coöperate to stamp out this epidemic that disturbs the peace of mind of all her people?

SUGGESTION TO LABOR.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—What have unions done to show employers that it is to their benefit to have their employés enrolled in union ranks?

It seems to me that if unions publicized firms with outstanding employé relations by advertising this fact it would be a constructive move on their part to prove their interest in the employer's welfare.

As a personal example of the psychological value of this suggestion, I recently switched brands of shoes after reading an article about the advanced social program of a certain well known manufacturer. E. F. H.

EXECUTOR'S DUTIES.

Chicago, Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. What authority, rights, duties, etc., are conferred on a duly appointed executor of a will?

2. Is he at liberty to distribute or release certain gifts of personal property not mentioned in the will but which he was requested by the deceased, by word and also in writing, to do in the event of her death?

3. Inasmuch as these gifts were not mentioned in the will does he have to obtain the permission of the court before giving them to the parties as requested by the deceased before her death, providing, of course, that the facts of request, etc., could be proved? T. C. J.

1. Depends on the wording of the will.
2. No.
3. We would not expect a court to give such permission. The oral requests would be legally ineffective. If there is no general wording in the will sufficient to cover the articles in question, then they would be controled by the statute of descent.

PROPERTY CONVEYANCE.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 24 [Legal Friend of the People].—An unmarried woman, whose heirs were a brother and the children of a deceased brother, deeded a house in the state of Indiana to the above mentioned brother in September, 1918. In October, 1919, she died. The brother held the property until September, 1930, when he died and left no will. His only daughter inherited the house and has held it ever since.

1. Would there be any chance now for the above mentioned children of the deceased brother to get half of this house?
2. If they could, how would they go about it?
3. If they could not, why couldn't they? R. F. K.

1. In order to set aside the conveyance to the brother it would be necessary to prove undue influence or lack of mental capacity at the time of the conveyance.
2. The first step would be to employ an attorney.
3. Because the owner gave it away in his lifetime. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

New Hampshire is called the Granite and White Mountain state, the Mother of Rivers, and the Switzerland of America. Several New England rivers have their origin in the state, and there are many granite quarries. The state's beautiful scenery includes the famous White mountains. New Hampshire has no state motto. AUTHOR MARRIED DESPITE OTHER WOMAN'S PLEAS

Mother and Son Confront Ludwig Lewisohn.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 6 (AP).—A woman dramatically entered Har Sinai temple here today, proclaimed herself the wife of Ludwig Lewisohn, Jewish author, and made a tearful plea that his wedding to Miss Edna Manley be stopped. The plea was ineffectual, however, and the couple was married by Rabbi Edward L. Israel.

Lewisohn and Miss Manley, who is dark eyed and tall, stood before Rabbi Israel, ready to take their nuptial vows, when the woman, Miss Thelma Spear, rushed into the temple. She was accompanied by her attorney, Bernard Sandler of New York, and her son, Jimmy, a blue eyed boy, 6 years old, whom she said she bore to Lewisohn.

Attorneys Hold Parley.

With artistry attesting her years as a concert soprano, Miss Spear, who is 36 and a blonde, asserted: "This wedding must not take place. I have been his wife, his muse, his soul! In all of his works I was his inspiration. He had the best of me and now he doesn't want to pay the bill."

The gray haired author, who is 56, and his fiancée, 31, formerly a Rochester, N. Y., newspaper woman, slipped out of the room to avoid the unexpected commotion.

Attorneys held a lengthy parley with Rabbi Israel, heard Miss Spear's tearful assertion that she had been Lewisohn's common law wife for 16 years and listened to the reading of an inscription from one of his books recognizing her as "my wife and mother of my son."

Departs for Hotel.

This, however, caused only a temporary halt in the ceremony. After making her plea Miss Spear went to a hotel with her son. Lewisohn and his fiancée stood before Rabbi Israel again, took the wedding vows, and then departed by train for New York.

From the hotel Jimmy telephoned Rabbi Israel and told him: "I never want to see my father again." [Last night in New York Lewisohn asserted he would regain custody of his son. He said that Jimmy was in his custody until eight weeks ago. At that time, he declared, the boy was taken from him by tricking his housekeeper.]

Miss Spear—registered at the hotel as Mrs. Lewisohn—told an interviewer she had traveled thruout Europe with the author and was married to him several years ago in Mexico.

Seeks Money for Mortgage.

"All I want now is for him to marry me for Jimmy's sake and pay off a $9,000 mortgage on my home in Burlington, Vt.," she asserted. "He can divorce me then. I won't stand in his way."

The Vermont home was mortgaged, she said, to get funds to finance Lewisohn's divorce from his first wife, Mary Arnold Childs, a playwright, who signed her works Bosworth Crocker.

Miss Spear and Sandler went later to the office of State's Attorney J. Bernard Wells. The state's attorney, who has no legal authority to issue warrants, said he would confer with Judge Eli Frank of Baltimore's Supreme bench to determine whether a bigamy charge is justified.

Lewisohn is a prolific novelist as well as lecturer, editor, literary and dramatic critic, and translator. He came to this country when 7 years old from his native Berlin. He was an instructor in German at the University of Wisconsin in 1910-'11 and professor of German language and literature at Ohio State university from 1911 to 1919, when he became associate editor of the Nation magazine. His best known books are "The Modern Drama," published in 1915; "Upstream," 1922; "The Creative Life," 1924, and "Mid-Channel," 1929.

EDISON DAY FETE TURNS BACK TIME TO EARLY 1860S

Home Town of His Boyhood Dons Civil War Garb.

Port Huron, Mich., Feb. 6 [Special].—Port Huron, boyhood home of Thomas A. Edison, once a news butcher on Grand Trunk trains between Port Huron and Detroit, has turned back the clock to the days of the early 1860s as it prepares to celebrate the 93d birthday anniversary of Edison on Feb. 10. The celebration will be marked by the world premiere of "Young Tom Edison," which depicts the youth of Edison and his first experiments.

For weeks Port Huron men have been letting their whiskers grow, stores are being decorated in the atmosphere of the old days, and men, women and children are wearing styles of clothes popular in the youthful days of their great-grandmothers, re-creating the Port Huron that existed in the days of young Edison.

Engine Will Burn Wood.

At 9 a. m. Saturday, Feb. 10, the old train on which Edison worked, brought from Henry Ford's Greenfield Village, will ride the rails again, bringing members of the movie cast and Edsel Ford, president of Ford Motor company; Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, and other notables from Detroit for the celebration.

"Sam Hill," woodburning locomotive of the 1860s, will pull the train to Port Huron. Stops will be made at Fraser, Mt. Clemens, New Haven, Richmond, and Smiths Creek. Chief executives of these communities will board the train and come to Port Huron.

It was at Fraser that Edison suffered an ear injury, which later was to cost him his hearing, when the train conductor pulled him aboard by the ears as Edison narrowly escaped being dragged under the wheels of a moving train.

Learns Key at Mt. Clemens.

He learned telegraphy at Mt. Clemens during train stops, thanks to the station agent, J. U. Mackenzie, whose child Edison had saved from being crushed by a rolling freight car.

Smiths Creek is best known as the village where Edison's career as a news butcher came to an end when some of his chemicals set the train afire. The conductor booted the lad and all his paraphernalia, including a tiny press on which Edison printed a paper, out on the station platform. Edison turned to a telegrapher's job and started down the road to fame.

Charles Edison, secretary of the navy and a son of Thomas A. Edison, will send greetings to Port Huron and the dignitaries over a special telegraphic hook-up from New York shortly after the old train reaches Port Huron.

Saturday's program will close with a colorful ball in the high school gymnasium where a nationally known orchestra will play in a garden setting. Port Huron churches will hold Edison day services on Sunday, Feb. 11.

FIGHTS TO KEEP SON WHO SAID SHE WAS SILLY

When Mrs. Marion Lipson Fogelson, 4759 Drexel boulevard, welcomed her son, John, 7 years old, with a cowboy yell, he gave her a cold stare. When she greeted him with the cry, "Kick 'em in the ears," he told her he thought she was silly.

That, Mrs. Fogelson told Judge Desort yesterday, was one of her reasons for feeling that her two sons, Dickie, 5, and John were unduly influenced by their father, Dr. Samuel J. Fogelson. Dr. Fogelson, a surgeon and member of the Northwestern university faculty, has asked the custody of the boys, charging they are not getting proper training. Under a divorce decree last July, the custody of the children was to be shared by their parents.

Miss Margaret Henderson, 4820 Kenwood avenue, a nurse employed by Dr. Fogelson, testified that since July when Mrs. Fogelson took the boys to a ranch in New Mexico, both have been ill. John developed nervousness, cries easily, and is afraid of the dark. Dickie has to be talked into eating, she said.

CHICAGO'S TOLL OF ACCIDENTAL DEATHS RISES

An increase from 1,640 to 1,662 in the number of accidental deaths in Chicago during 1939 as compared with 1938 was noted yesterday in the report of the Greater Chicago Safety council. George G. Traver, council manager, said increased industrial activity was responsible.

Deaths in accidents in the home last year were 502, three fewer than in 1938. Motor vehicle deaths numbered 669, three more than the previous year. Other public accidents took four fewer lives in 1939 than in 1938, but in the occupational field there were 171 deaths, 26 more than the 1938 figure.

FOR THE FUTURE: CALIFORNIA TRIP VIA MEXICO CITY!

Tourists Will Be Able to See Everything En Route.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

MEXICO CITY [By Mail].—It won't be the shortest distance between two points, but within a few years those midwesterners who like to do their touring leisurely, and to see everything en route, will be able to drive to California by way of this city.

They will enter Mexico at Laredo, Tex., and leave it at Nogales, Ariz. Their journey thru this country will cover more than 2,200 miles, and it will take them to ancient communities that so far have resisted the onslaught of the tourists.

Vast Highway Program.

Americans who haven't visited Mexico in the last two or three years have little idea of the vastness of the road building program down here. The program has been carried on to such an extent that there are now more than 5,200 miles of new trunk lines in the country's highway system.

Latest link in the system is the highway between Mexico City and Guadalajara. It stretches for 450 miles thru highlands whose towns and cities recall the architecture of colonial Spain in the 16th and 17th centuries. Massive walls, quaint cathedrals, stately palaces, and crumbling ruins are everywhere in evidence.

Road to be Extended.

It is the plan to continue this recently opened road thru Mazatlan and Guaymas, on the west coast, to Nogales, there to connect with the main route to southern California. When this is accomplished, Chicagoans will find a brand new thrill on their journeys to the southwest.

Guadalajara lies almost due west of the capital. It is Mexico's second largest city. It has a population of about 200,000 and an elevation of 5,000 feet. This altitude—about 2,400 lower than Mexico City's—gives it a delightful year round climate. Many travelers regard it as one of this country's finest stopping-off places. Its villas, estates, and private gardens are especially attractive.

Skirts Mexican Riviera.

Heretofore it has been feasible to reach Guadalajara only by train. The new motor route skirts Lake Chapala, known as the Mexican Riviera and frequented both by honeymooners and thousands of birds. It is a region of placid lakes, snow-crested mountains, and unspoiled villages. Rural Mexico is seen there at just about its best.

The completed project is merely a sample of what is being accomplished. Tens of thousands of square miles of splendid landscapes—a few years ago almost as inaccessible as the heart of Africa—have been, and are being, opened up to all those Americans who like to hit the trail for the lands of romance.

HAVANA OPENS GREAT EXHIBIT OF ART WORKS

The beautiful new Hall of Natural Sciences of the University of Havana, named after the Cuban savant, Felipe Poey, has been opened to the public with a loan exhibition of the magnificent collection of paintings and sculptures belonging to the national museum. Private galleries also have contributed to the show, which includes paintings by Tintoretto, Tiepolo, Andrea del Sarto, Guido Reni, Ribera, Veronese, Watteau, Corot, and Sorolla. Among the modern are Fernand Leger, Pascin, De Vlaminck, and Picasso. Winter visitors to Havana will have an opportunity to see this exhibit.

Market Day in Mexico

Weather in February Not So 'Unusual.'

BY HAL FOUST.

This is the month when, if you are hungry enough for spring, you can find traces of it by taking a trip south. After a winter as severe as this one has been such a hunger is even more prevalent than flu germs and their relatives.

This is our favorite season for going south. There isn't as much chance as there is in January of running into "unusual weather" in southern California and unadvertised frosts in Florida. Those who sought June in January this year suffered in inadequately heated tourist courts, rooming houses, and small hotels in the south. A quip circulated during the last couple of weeks reads, "He went to Florida for the winter, and found it there."

February Usually Different.

But February shouldn't be like January. There isn't much likelihood of it. The sun is getting hot down there and it shines more hours each day as the days are getting longer.

In a few weeks the southbound snow dodger will be able to see green on the southern side of hills as he approaches the gulf coast. In four weeks the first flowers will be blooming along this ocean front a little over 900 miles from Chicago.

In inland waters, those big Florida bass take to the deep holes and slumber when the surface becomes too cold. When the surface is warmed by a February sun they rise and feed. Fishing improves as the season advances.

Fashionable Season Ends.

The fashionable season in Florida ends traditionally on George Washington's birthday. To us Florida is at its best in the weeks thereafter.

We also favor this time of the year to enjoy the dude ranches of New Mexico and Arizona. Deserts turn green and thorny plants bloom. Even in the higher altitudes, where the nights are cold and remain cool thru the summer, the February sun is warm.

So now is the time to go south for ultraviolet rays if this winter in Chicago is getting you down.

MOST PASSPORTS ARE ISSUED IN NEW YORK CITY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 [Special].—More passports were issued during 1939 to residents of New York City than to the residents of the remainder of New York state, or to those of any other state, according to a report issued by the state department.

Passports issued to residents of New York City numbered 18,424, compared with 6,080 for the rest of New York state. California was the second highest among the states, with 10,525. For the entire country the total was 89,850.

Most of the passports were issued for western Europe. These numbered 65,163. Passports to Latin America came second, with a total of 13,951; and the Far East was third.

MOUNTAIN CLUB PLANS HIKES IN NORTH CAROLINA

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 6 [Special].—The Carolina Mountain club plans more than 50 expeditions into the mountains of western North Carolina during 1940. The hikes will be open to any visitors in Asheville. Most of the hikes are planned on weekends.

The mountains of western North Carolina are interlaced with several hundred miles of fine trails thru the Great Smoky Mountains National park and five areas of national forests located in this region. Many trails thru private lands are open to hikers.

Trails in the mountain sections are maintained by the National Forest and National Park service in the areas controled by these federal departments. Down along the crest of the Smoky mountains and along the state line between North Carolina and Tennessee extends the famous Appalachian trail, noted hiking route from Maine to Georgia.

A Dress Must Fit Life, Is Plan of Main Bocher

BY MARCIA WINN.

Main Bocher, the Chicago boy whose name, stitched inside women's clothes, encircles the world, yesterday told how he does it.

He spoke before the Fashion Group of Chicago, its attendance swelled for the occasion until every corner of the Arts club dining room was filled. He stressed one essential: That a dress should be as well bred as its wearer well mannered. In brief—simplicity.

"What you don't do with a dress," he observed, "is at least as important as what you do do.

"Design and color out of harmony are as bad as a coloratura soprano off key. Too many gadgets can spoil the dress, just as surely as too many cooks the broth. The simple dress is the most difficult to design and the easiest to wear."

To the possible amazement of his audience, he said flatly that the practical dress is the best buy. "A party dress that isn't beautiful when it dances is a flop," he added.

"I don't believe there are any fashion dictators," said this man who first dyed fox blue, first got women into tailored evening jackets, first designed bodices without straps, first confused them on their waistlines, from waltz to wasp to his latest conviction—"long torso."

"Fashions are not imposed. They are proposed. Women accept or reject them. Sometimes the acceptance is gradual.

"After all, good dresses are what counts, whether you have 1 or 100. A good dress is one that not only fits the body, but also fits into your life—a friendly dress.

"The reason there are so many fashions today is that figures are so different and lives so varied. No one is really happy with an unsuitable dress. Some people can afford to make mistakes in a dress. Others can't."

When he left Chicago in 1909—after having studied in Lewis institute and the University of Chicago [one year]—he set out to become an artist.

"With a very capital A," he told the women [and occasional men]. "Instead," he said, a little apologetically, "I became an artisan, for I do not think of dressmaking as an art but as a craft."

Tomorrow Main Bocher will speak to the students of John Marshall High school, his old alma mater. The prospect terrifies him.

Lovely Crochet Fan Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted fan doilies make a neat and lacey looking set for the summer luncheon tables. They may be crocheted in fine mercerized crochet cotton, string, or colored carpet warp. They are simple items to create and one may make one doily in a couple of hours and the finished doily measures approximately 10 by 17 inches.

For instructions in crocheting the fan doily, No. X-422, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Reveal Plans for Installation of Archbishop

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Plans for the enthronement of the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch as archbishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago on March 7 were made public yesterday. He will succeed the late Cardinal Mundelein, who died last October.

Archbishop Stritch, who is leaving the archdiocese of Milwaukee after a decade as its head, will arrive on the afternoon of March 6 to assume his duties here. Delegations of priests and laymen will escort the new Chicago archbishop on his 90 mile journey from Milwaukee.

On the morning of the installation Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani of Washington, D. C., papal delegate to the Catholic church in America, will preside at the colorful ceremonies in Holy Name cathedral. The solemn pontifical mass will be offered by Bishop James A. Griffin of Springfield.

The ceremonies enthroning an archbishop are as solemn and as stately as those used in the consecration of a bishop. The services, lasting about three hours, start with the papal delegate's installation of the new archbishop and conclude with the pontifical mass.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

A keen bridge psychologist can determine, in the great majority of cases, the precise influence the bid he is about to make will have on both his own partner and his opponents. This type of vision is essential in sacrifice bidding particularly. A player may feel sure that a sacrifice attempt, if successful, will save many points but, at the same time, may have reason to fear that he will push the opponents into a slam which will actually make. The correct decision in such cases depends on analysis of the previous bidding, plus accurate appraisal of opponents' psychology.

East-West vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ A 3 2 ♥ A Q J 10 ♦ Q J ♣ 10 8 6 3
WEST ♠ J 9 8 7 6 ♥ 9 5 4 ♦ K 2 ♣ A K Q		EAST ♠ K Q 10 5 4 ♥ None ♦ A 9 7 5 ♣ 7 5 4 2
	SOUTH ♠ None ♥ K 8 7 6 3 2 ♦ 10 8 6 4 3 ♣ J 9

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	5 hearts	Double
Pass	5 spades	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	6 hearts	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's pass over the one spade bid, holding six of his partner's suit to the king, probably was the best tactics under the circumstances. He, of course, had full intention of raising the hearts strongly on a later round, provided that by so doing he did not push the opponents into a lay down slam. His coming into the bidding for the first time at the level of five had just the effect that he hoped: it met with a prompt double by West. When East took out the double, going on to five spades, South decided to let well enough alone, hoping that the contract would rest at the five level.

North's double of five spades was one of those bad bids that occasionally have a good result. Certainly he should not have expected to make many heart tricks after his partner had shown tremendous heart support by his leap to five. But, as it happened, his double paved the way to a good sacrifice. When the bidding returned to South, he now had no hesitation in bidding six hearts. Two separate factors gave him assurance that East-West would not bid a slam: first, that West had already doubled hearts at the level of five and would, therefore, almost surely pounce upon a six bid; second, that since North had doubled five spades, East would certainly leave in partner's double of six hearts, preferring a sure thing to what must be in his mind a gamble.

The sacrifice turned out even better than South hoped. East opened the king of spades and one of South's clubs was discarded. Declarer then had to concede only one club and two diamond tricks, which, with his 100 honors, amounted to a penalty of only 200 points.

Obviously, there was no defense against a six spade contract by East-West, the ace of spades being the only trick they could possibly have lost. Of course, with the magnificent fit in the East-West hands, a slam should have been reached, but even at five spades their score would have been very much gerater than the 200 points they garnered.

Too Thin for Beauty? See Your Physician

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We don't know why it is, but some one invariably has to call our attention to the fact that there are thin girls who'd like to have a few nice curves to brag about.

The slight person who is healthy and has all the energy needed is in luck. She's the envy of all of us weight watchers. That's why we forget she may not always be healthy, or have the required energy. She may be undernourished and tire easily and complain of vague and poorly defined conditions of ill health. If she is in this latter category there's only one sound, sane, and right thing to do. It is to see a physician and do what he tells her, refusing to let others tell her what's wrong with her and what she should do about it. But if she is just curveless, all bone and angle, hasn't anything physically wrong with her, she might see if she is getting sufficient food.

Many think persons have shrunken stomachs due to a poor appetite and small food intake. Perhaps they have catered to a capricious appetite. Maybe they don't know the right kind of foods to take. Their diet may be lacking in truly nutritional foods.

So malnutrition may be theif problem. Appreciating that a little more padding on their bones would improve them, some underweights make the mistake of overconsuming sugars and starches and fats, it being understood that these are the items that put on weight. Fat added this way is bound to be flabby, unhealthy, and unattractive. Sweetness, starchiness, and fatiness often destroy the appetite for essential foods.

In a study of weight gaining reported by Dr. Leo K. Campbell, Rusn Medical college and Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, it was found that those on a high protein diet were showing the most satisfactory results. So meats should be included in liberal amounts, since they are a rich source of protein, in turn building good, healthy muscle tissues. Vitamins are required in a building up diet. Bulk is important, too, to keep the body properly regulated. Two vegetables and two fruits a day are deemed sufficient, and calories should be increased. Calcium and iron are additional requirements in a weight gaining program.

Many Lectures Announced for Season of Lent

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Chapel Guild of the Cenacle yesterday announced its 1940 Lenten lecture series. This series, which will begin next Monday, is but one of many that have been planned for the next six weeks, when gayer social activities are at an ebb.

The Lenten period will bring dozens of distinguished men and women to the city to lecture on a variety of subjects.

The Guild will provide an unusually interesting program for its members and their friends this year, concluding the series for the first time with a concert. The lectures will be given on Monday afternoons at the Woman's Athletic club, except for the first lecture, which will be held in the State parkway home of Edward I. Cudahy. The late Mrs. Cudahy was the first president of the Guild.

The Rev. George H. Dunne, S. J., will be the first speaker, with "Some of the Nonphysical Causes of the War Between China and Japan" as his subject. If Mrs. Henry C. Murphy, president of the Guild, has recovered from "flu," she will have Father Dunne for luncheon before the lecture. The lecture will start at 2:30 o'clock. Father Dunne is connected with the Nanking Institute in China.

Dr. Clarence Manion, professor of constitutional law at the University of Notre Dame, and the Rev. Martin D'Arcy, lecturer on philosophy at Oxford university in England, will be other speakers in the Guild series. The concert, to be given on March 25, will be a recital by Miss Virginia Haskins and Robert Ringling of the Chicago City Opera company.

Presbyterian Group Sponsors Lectures.

The Women's Federation of the Fourth Presbyterian church is sponsoring a series of five Lenten Bible class lectures by Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson. These lectures, dealing with "Ways of Spiritual Renewal" will be given at 11 o'clock on Thursday mornings in the chapel, 126 East Chestnut street. The first class will meet on Feb. 15.

Mrs. Edward W. Sims is chairman of the committee. Among those assisting her are her daughter, Mrs. Peter C. Krupp, Mrs. Ralph Otis, Mrs. Paul Moore, and Mrs. Alva Knight.

Eve Curie to Give Lecture in Winnetka.

Mlle. Eve Curie, daughter of the discoverer of radium, will speak on "Science and a Woman" on Friday night at the New Trier High school auditorium in Winnetka. The Bryn Mawr club of Chicago is sponsoring her lecture as a benefit for the Bryn Mawr Scholarship fund.

A series of book reviews is being held on Tuesdays during Lent in the Tower room at the Drake hotel. Mrs. Arthur Cutten, Miss Anita Smith, Mrs. Eugene Cary, Mrs. Fowler McCormick, and Mrs. Gilbert Fitz Patrick were among those who attended the first meeting yesterday. Florence Bourke Ellis reviewed "The Eagles Are Gathering."

Mr. and Mrs. Herschell Alexander Morrison of Winnetka will give a tea on Sunday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sommer Robinson. Mr. Robinson is the new president of Butler university in Indianapolis, from which Mrs. Morrison was graduated. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be in Chicago to attend the annual Hoosier Salon meeting of the Butler University alumnæ club. President Robinson will be the speaker at the meeting at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon in the English room at Marshall Field's.

Lincoln Addenda.

The first play to be written about Lincoln was by a confederate author. It was The Royal Ape and was published in Richmond in 1863. It was anti-Lincoln, naturally. The first real Lincoln play was written by a Chicagoan, the late Williab Bush, in 1872. It was The Young Republic, and was one of several by Mr. Bush gathered together in a book called The Evening Hours. The book is a recent acquisition by Joseph T. Ryerson for his shelves of Chicago authors in his famous Chicago room at the top of his Astor street house.

• • •

The atmosphere of Chicago currently is saturated with memories of Lincoln with the publishing of Sandburg's The War Years and Robert Sherwood's Abe Lincoln in Illinois, playing at the Grand. A Lincoln memento prized by its owner is the copy of the Butler portrait of Lincoln framed in wood that came from the oak flooring of Lincoln's first law office in Springfield that hangs in the law office of Junius S. Scofield on South Dearborn street.

Answer to Brain Teaser.

A sutler sat in his ulster gray,
Watching the moonbeams' luster play
On a bottle that deep in the bushes lay.
Thou rulest the weak, thou lurest the strong,
Let the battle's result to thee belong!
"John Barleycorn is king!"

• • •

Many readers have submitted correct solutions, but many were already familiar with the brain teaser. Gordon B. Wheeler writes that a quarter of a century ago it was given to him by a cousin, and Mrs. Morrow Krum remembers it in family lore. It would be interesting to know how old the bit of blank verse is. Perhaps a reader knows who really wrote it. We wonder, too, how many readers nowadays know what a sutler is. We had to look it up.

• • •

Mrs. Krum offers others from her family collection:

If you'll —— on that —— by the —— over there,
And the plants in those —— will examine with care,
You will find, if their —— should be trimmed pretty low,

Young Kozuch Wins Success in Piano Debut

BY CECIL SMITH.

Last spring Thaddeus Kozuch won first place in a contest for young Chicago pianists sponsored coöperatively by the Society of American Musicians and the Adult Education council. Last night in Orchestra hall, before an audience large enough to require extra chairs on the stage, he reaped the reward of his victory, appearing as the fourth artist in this season's Musical Arts piano series.

It did not take the youthful pianist—who, if I am not mistaken, will have to age a few more months before he is old enough to vote—more than a few minutes to win the respect and enthusiasm of his audience. He is already an assured performer, ready for the taxing demands of a professional career, and he has a persuasive way of making the musical content of his playing seem worth listening to.

A warm, luminous tone is perhaps the most distinctive of Mr. Kozuch's assets. Early in the program, in Weber's curious and dated "Les Adieux," he disclosed a lyric legato of great tonal beauty, along with considerable fastidiousness of phrasing. Later on, especially in Liszt's "Funerailles," he proved that he could enlarge his tone to a massive fortissimo without letting it become bangy or crude.

Just before the intermission Mr. Kozuch boldly tackled the Brahms "Variations on a Theme of Paganini," with all their fearsome leaps and angularities of technique. Here he overrode the many difficulties easily, maintaining a predominantly musical approach in spite of the purely mechanical challenge.

As yet, however, there are still marked qualities of immaturity in his playing. He often plays too fast, with noticeable sacrifices of accentuation and clarity of musical design; sometimes he tends nervously to hurry a tempo he has already initiated. And his two Chopin mazurkas, tho they were not fast, lacked rhythmic definition and animation. He is also prone to see lyric phrases in isolation, one from another. While he often plays individual phrases expressively, he has difficulty in relating phrases to each other, and in making each phrase a contributing element to a dynamically continuous melody.

Good Morning!

"Invisible Stripes"—stripes of memory, worn by the ex-convict, and, tho invisible, apparent sooner or later, to all with whom he comes in contact.

Or so this picture would have you believe.

Cliff Taylor has a good mother, a temperamental younger brother, engaged to a lovely girl and—he had thought—a fiancée. The last named cuts all binding ties on the night of his release and he doesn't feel too badly, for, after all, a man can't be rid too soon of a quitter woman.

Cliff starts out to get a job, idea being to take over the heavy end of the expense burden so that Tim and his Peggy can get married. Job after job he lands—and loses. Finally he gets one as stock boy—the department store where he works is robbed. . . . He, of course, is the suspect.

Thru the good offices of his parole officer, who believes in him and goes to bat for him, he's released—but the cards seem stacked against him. He decides to turn from the straight and narrow for just long enough to get the kid married nad established in his own garage. Then, back in line again. . . . He looks up a one time jail mate, Chuck Martin, living lawlessly on the fat of the land. . . .

Trouble simmers and suddenly boils over with a vengeance. . . .

This is a story forcefully acted and credible. All of the players give all that they have. The piece never goes soppy and it has a lot of human interest.

What I'd like to know is—ARE the breaks so against a chap so really regular as is the Cliff Taylor of this movie?

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 6.—Before David O. Selznick had completed "Gone with the Wind," he ran out of money and borrowed $1,200,000 from the bankers. They probably will get back the full loan this month. In six weeks "Gone with the Wind" has grossed about $3,000,000, of which $2,000,000 goes to Selznick and M. G. M. The world gross of the flicker now appears headed for a staggering total of 25 million dollars, because the picture is smashing box office records wherever it plays. Miami, Fla., for instance, will turn in about $300,000 before the picture ends its engagement there. It's the same all over the country.

Al Lichtman.

Individual who guessed closest to the astounding business that "Gone with the Wind" would do and who shaped the sales policy that made such grosses possible was Al Lichtman, at M. G. M. Mr. Lichtman has been selling shadows on screens for 30 years with conspicuous success, but his selling policy on "Gone with the Wind" hits an all time high water mark. . . . It was Lichtman who arrested the hecklers of Selznick with the prediction, carried at that time in this column, that the picture would gross $16,000,000 in this country.

The prediction was magnificent because at the time most of the world was at war, and nearly everybody in the industry believed covertly that Selznick had a $5,000,000 white elephant in his Culver City stables. Nearly everybody believed, too, that "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" had exhausted the box office "ceiling." Leichtman said no, "Gone with the Wind" would double Disney's pot of gold and also crack the all-time record established by "Birth of a Nation," which did about 14 millions of dollars over a span of years.

The selling of the Selznick picture was not so simple as it appears now that it is an accomplished fact. Lichtman had been promised and had predicated his sales policy on a picture that would run three hours. The element of a picture's running time is of vital importance because a theater's turnover, the filling and emptying and refilling of seats, is related obviously to the cash register. Instead of a three hour picture, Lichtman got a flicker that ran four hours. That was the only time that misgiving hit him. But he worked it out. He determined that the most expedient thing to do was to run three shows a day, two unreserved shows, and one reserved show at night.

Lichtman was born in Hungary, arrived here as a boy and one of his first jobs in showbusiness was at Tony Foster's. At Denver, Colo., between trains, he saw a Mary Pickford two reeler on the screen of a nickelcdeon. He decided then and there that the movies were the up and coming business for him. Returning to Chicago, he got his first job in the movies for C. C. Pyle, later to make headlines as "Cash and Carry" Pyle. He has been selling shadows ever since.

"Gone with the Wind," he believes, will be the bellwether of a flock of fine pictures that can demand preferential treatment at the box office, and he believes that the solution of the business is in the box office grading of pictures.

"Contrasted to Broadway shows, which sell for $3.50, this picture is worth $5," he points out. "Due to wide circulation, we can sell it for $1, which is a terrific buy. By the same token, movie audiences should not have to pay 65 cents to see a picture that should be sold for 15 cents."

Bespectacled Selznick, huger than most heavyweight champions, naturally is feeling rather chipper over the way things have turned out. When you have $5,000,000 riding on your judgment, even the stoutest nerves can be pardoned for growing taut. The picture was Selznick's thruout. He told me last night that the souvenir he prizes most is a telegram that was delivered to him at Atlanta, Ga. It was signed by George Cukor, the original director of the picture, who relieved himself of command when his ideas and those of Selznick didn't mesh. "The telegram from George was the most deeply thrilling thing that happened," says David Oliver. "He was rooting for the picture just as eagerly as if he were still with us. I'll never forget that."

A lot of fantastic reasons were advanced at the time for the Selznick-Cukor parting of the ways. As is generally the case, the actual reason was simple. They all had been laboring under a terrific mental strain. Tiny things were exaggerated out of all proportion. Straw that broke the camel's back was a difference in interpretation of one scene. Leslie Howard, walking down the stairs, was to meet Scarlett O'Hara. Selznick believed that Howard, at that precise moment, would be afraid to meet her, Cukor said he did not think so. That was what ended their association.

Fifty years from now the film historians will be discussing this 1940 super-super-super flicker. For their files, I have done this piece so that they will know something additional about what went on behind the scenes.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Valentines have resisted streamlining. They drip with old fashioned ardor, even those that are clever concealment for wicked red lipsticks or a naughty perfume.

One of our favorites is adopted from the old "Send a letter to your love" theme. Five crisp envelopes, sealed, stamped, and each containing fragrant sachets in one of the loveliest scents we have. Each one is inscribed with an extremely sentimental message written in old fashioned script. And when we say "extremely" we mean exactly that. "My own, you're adorable," which is written on one, will give you the idea. The five fragrant love letters come in a beribboned cellophane box with a tiny corsage of forget-me-nots. This is one of the most unusual of the valentine offerings and not terribly expensive.

The hearts and flowers and white lace touches are not lacking in another package just arrived in town, and that makes an elegant valentine for the woman who likes delightful bath accessories—and what one doesn't? The box is in the pale, very springlike shade of tender green, starred with pink and white apple blossoms and decorated with an old fashioned lace valentine motif. Inside are a pink topped bottle of that phenomenally popular cologne in apple blossom fragrance and a big round box of feathery dusting powder in the same scent. Women are delighted with this fragrance, and no wonder. This is an expensive and exciting valentine

With the beginning of Lent today, THE TRIBUNE again starts Lent, Day by Day, a department which announces noonday services in loop theaters and their speakers, together with excerpts from lenten sermons, and recalls for Catholic readers where convenient noonday masses are offered.

Episcopal noonday services, held this year at the Harris theater, are among the oldest of their kind in the city, with nearly a half century back of them. The initial preacher for the 1940 series is Bishop Henry Wise Hobson of Cincinnati, O., whose automobile trailer cathedral has attracted wide attention.

This year's Lutheran services at the Erlanger theater represent the broadest possible Lutheran coöperation with pastors from the three great Lutheran branches participating. These synods are the Synodical conference, the American Lutheran conference and the United Lutheran church.

The noon hour services at Grand Opera house are under the Christian Business Men's committee. These services run the full hour but are broken at 12:30 for the convenience of worshipers whose work prevents attendance thruout.

The women's department of the Chicago Church federation, representing more than 1,000 churches of a score of denominations, announces Friday as World day of prayer, with all day services at the Chicago Temple, 77 West Washington street, with Dr. Mark A. Dawber of New York, head of the Home Missions council, and Dr. Georgia Harkness of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, the principal speakers.

Medical Auxiliary.

Dr. Carroll Birch will speak on "The Disease of Kings" at a luncheon of the Woman's auxiliary to the Chicago Medical society at 12:30 o'clock today at 185 North Wabash avenue. Mrs. Charles Segal is president of the auxiliary.

Breaking Shell Around Self Wins Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Co., Inc.]

"Isn't it awful," writes Sonny, "not to be able to make friends, and to find yourself bitterly lonely when other young people your age are having a good time. It's a mess to be as I am, wanting to be of the group and shying away from it; wanting to talk and be taken in and fearing to open my mouth in case I'll put my foot in it. Can anything be done for a guy like me, not too bad to look at and of reasonable mental and cultural attainments? Where do I begin to reform? I've got to do something, and shall, if you'll tell me how."

Half your battle is over, Sonny, with your acknowledgment that yours is the fault and something has to be done about it. Many lonely folk think the others are out of step, that they should do something about it. But you, Sonny, know where the trouble lies, so you're off to a good start.

Why can't you make friends, Sonny? That's what you have to put up to yourself. The way you put that question to yourself is: "Well, what have I done or what am I doing to make myself liked?" Go over recent occasions of meeting people, say, Did you offer him, her, or them a pleasant smile? Tongue-tied as you admit your inelination, did you try to say something, or did you just stand there petrified inside, perhaps, but giving the person the impression that you didn't care to talk? Or were you waiting for him, her, or them to coax a remark out of you, thinking if they did they'd make a nice discovery?

That's what people who draw into a shell often do. They think other people are mind readers and should recognize the great depths behind the stolid mask. No one can help you over such barriers as can you, Sonny, yourself. Don't wait for some one else to extend the helping hand. Help yourself to friendships.

You wrapped yourself in that cottonwool. Now unravel yourself and extend the greeting. Don't wait for its coming from the other person. Never mind whether what you are going to say is interesting or bright. That's not important. Being interested is. Be friendly. Go out. Get around. Volunteer to do things. Get an interest, or interests, you can share.

Jumper Skirt and Jacket

WOMEN'S AND MISS' PATTERNS.

The popularity of the skirt and jacket idea already is well established, but we think we have a new version of the style, one the skirt of which is a jumper model. With the two patterns illustrated today you may make a complete ensemble or just one of the garments, as your wardrobe needs dictate.

The jacket, in tweed or some other woolen, is a single button style with long revers. The shoulders are squared for jauntiness. Shoulder straps that are wide and comfortable are a welcome feature in the jumper skirt, which may be made of woolen to harmonize with the jacket. There are no plaits to need pressing, since the skirt is cut for flare. With this tailored spring costume wear a simple blouse in washable silk or cotton.

Style No. 3332 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 1¼ yards of 54 inch material, with 1⅝ yards of 39 inch lining.

Style No. 2825 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for skirt. Blouse also included in pattern.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

I want to squeeze as many of tomorrow's recipes as possible into this column, so I'll dispense with preliminaries and begin with those slightly crisp and ever-so-good cornmeal pancakes which will start the day right in any woman's household.

Cornmeal Pancakes.

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup yellow cornmeal
3 teaspoons baking powder
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 cups milk
1 egg

Sift flour and combine with other dry ingredients. Beat egg and add the milk. Combine two mixtures and beat until smooth. Drop by the tablespoonful on a hot griddle and cook until the underside is well browned and the top bubbly. Turn the cakes and bake the other sides. Finely broken crisp bacon in the batter makes these cakes better than ever. Use maple sirup, maple flavored brown sugar sirup, or plain sugar sirup.

These chocolate drop cookies are delicious anyway, but if you can find black walnuts to put into them, they're better yet.

Chocolate Drop Cookies.

[4 Dozen.]

2 cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other fat
⅔ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, beaten
3 squares chocolate, melted
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup to 1 cup broken nuts

Sift flour, soda, and salt together. Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add chocolate. Alternately add dry ingredients and milk, beating until the dough is smooth. Add vanilla and nuts. Drop from a teaspoon onto a greased baking sheet and bake about 7 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

Creole pork steaks are just a bit different. Pork still is about the best buy in meats at the present time, so this dish is not at all expensive.

Creole Style Pork Steaks.

[Serves Four.]

4 pork shoulder steaks, cut 1 inch thick
Salt, pepper
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
6 stalks celery, diced

Brown the chops on both sides in a small amount of fat. Season with salt and pepper. If you like, brown a few onion slices with the steaks. Place them in a baking dish, cover with diced celery, and pour the tomatoes over all. Add salt and pepper to the tomatoes if they need it. Bake the dish covered in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for an hour.

This graham or whole wheat nut bread is the kind you can stir together in a hurry. It tastes just as good as it sounds.

Graham Nut Bread.

[2 Pound Loaf Pan.]

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ cup melted fat
⅔ cup light molasses
1 cup sour milk
1½ cups white flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups graham or whole wheat flour
1 cup chopped raisins or dates
1½ cups broken nutmeats

Beat eggs and sugar until thick. Add shortening and molasses. Beat well and add sour milk. Sift white flour with salt and soda and add. Add graham flour. Beat the batter until smooth and fold in fruit and nuts. Bake in greased 2-pound loaf pan 1 hour at 350 degrees. Let the bread cool in the pan.

Any kind of fruit nectar may be used to make this pudding. I have made it a peach pudding because peach probably is the most popular of the fruit nectars.

Peach Nectar Pudding.

[Serves Six.]

1½ cups peach nectar [canned]
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
3 dozen marshmallows, cut in halves
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ cup sliced maraschino cherries
1 cup cream, whipped

Heat nectar to boiling point, remove from heat and add the gelatin, which has been softened in cold water. Stir to dissolve. Add marshmallows and stir until melted. Add flavoring and cherries and blend. Chill until thick. Whip cream until thick, but not stiff, and fold into the gelatin mixture. Chill thoroly and serve in stemmed glasses.

PEP UP WITH

BY REA SEEGER.

Spring fashion shows are getting into parade lines, swinging smartly with plenty of eye appeal because of the fresh, clean cut silhouettes, flared skirts, neat waistlines, all kinds of good whiffs of white, the inevitable wave of navy blue, new play clothes and some of the most bewitching frocks and outfits for the youngsters ever appraised by a flock of surprised fashion sleuths.

Little sister, subdeb, kid brother and even the small toddlers have clothes especially designed for them. Children of this day no longer develop any inferiority complex because of hand-me-downs from older sister or brother.

Memories of nursery days will come back in a flood when you first see the 1940 copies of the pinafores—aprons no more or less, of sheer white organdy with bibs and shoulder frills that are tied in spanking big bows at the back. Little sister also gets the popular small frocks in "Gone with the Wind" fashions, ruffled models, some with bow trim, some with beading and some with lace ruffles. Teen age will vote for the clever butcher boy jackets in sturdy unbleached muslin with multi-colored block printing on the side and a scarlet lined hood attached at the back neckline. Play clothes are perfect copies of grownup models—tailored slacks, shirts, sun suits with circular cut skirts, suits of seersucker, simulated linens and all specially processed sunfast cottons.

Jackets are better and more popular than ever. Spring and summer frocks all come with short jauntily cut jacket tops—tops that are separable so that other outfits can be assembled with other skirts or frocks.

Children Need Materials for Creative Play

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today, because of a number of letters on the subject, we will discuss the aimless child and how, among other things, his or her mother must learn to fulfill the needs of her child. And these underlying needs are:

Roughly, your child needs, in order to play creatively, and to generally express himself in self-activity:

[2] Bigger playthings and apparatus for vigorous activity such as kiddie cars, balls, skates, velocipede, express wagons, and so forth.

[3] Books.

[5] Possibly dancing or playing or singing.

[6] The use of various things about the house which appeal to him and cannot be harmed; "helping" you and taking some share in home activities.

The point is that a child who is happy and alert mentally and physically needs materials with which to express himself. Today we shall make it our business to suggest what those materials consist of, in a fundamental way.

We can't begin to make full lists, but perhaps we can approach the subject from an angle that would be more helpful in a constructive way than actual lists, a way that would serve as a sort of working basis over a period of years for supplying your child with play and work materials.

The vital clew in supplying materials is to watch your child attentively. What are the natural interests of his age? And how does he respond to what he sees and hears? Of the experiences he has, which ones hold and appeal to him, and tend to appear again and again in his talk and play?

Discovering things in this way as you go along with your child from month to month, you can supply materials with which he can express or play out the things which capture his imagination. And be sure, in buying play or work materials for him, that you suit them to his years, remembering that the small child first learns the use of his big muscles and—vice versa—the older child gradually develops coördination with his finer muscles.

And remember, too, that sometimes the freedom of the house provides a whole world of profit and amusement for a small, or even a larger, boy or girl.

Address by Hoover to Open Chicago's Jewish Fund Drive

Former President Herbert Hoover will address a meeting of the Jewish Welfare fund of Chicago at 6 p. m. Sunday in the Standard club. More than 1,000 of the city's Jewish leaders will attend the gathering, which will launch the fund's 1940 campaign to raise $2,250,000 for war relief work in Europe.

The Jewish Welfare fund last year raised $1,870,000 for refugee work in Chicago. This year the national quota of the organization has been set at $23,000,000, owing to the dislocation and dispersal of Jewish populations as a consequence of the European war and the German territorial acquisitions that preceded it.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 6 (AP).—The Boston Bruins broke the spell the New York Rangers cast on them this season by overwhelming the National Hockey league pace setters, 6 to 2, tonight before a crowd of 16,314 in the Boston Garden.

Cowley Starts It.

The Bruins had a 4 to 0 lead, thanks to other goals supplied by Red Hamill and Herb Cain, before the Rangers managed to break Frankie Brimsek, with only seven minutes left in the final period. Mac Colville fed his brother Neil a long forward which the latter caged, and fourteen second before the bell Alf Pike counted the Rangers' second goal.

The Bruins' famous kraut line, centered by Milt Schmidt, the league's highest scorer, was kept under control until it went on for its final turn. Then it went to work, for Woody Dumart and Schmidt each drove pucks thru Goalie Dave Kerr within the short space of 16 seconds.

It's a Rough Night.

Twice during the thrilling conflict, billed as a preview of the coming playoffs, Dit Clapper and Art Coulter came to blows and each drew major penalties for the second bout. Cowley also went off for a five minute sentence for charging into Kerr, who had aggravated the Bruins by his constant interference with little Bobby Bauer.

WINGS, 3; AMERICANS, 1

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings tonight defeated the New York Americans, 3 to 1, for their seventh straight National Hockey league game without defeat.

A pair of third period goals, by Ebbie Goodfellow and Sid Howe, broke the deadlock resulting from an early Detroit goal by Mud Bruneteau, who scored after eight seconds of play, and the Americans' lone score—by Eddie Shore. It was Shore's first goal and the Americans' first defeat since he joined the club last Tuesday.

Goalie Tiny Thompson had one of his best nights in the Wing nets, robbing the American sharpshooters time and again and beating Nels Stewart twice when the veteran was in alone.

N. L. ASKS START OF WORK ON CODE WITH THE MINORS

Agreement May Include Landis Proposals.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Taking cognizance of the many proposals, including one from Commissioner K. M. Landis for reconstructing the framework of organized baseball, the National league today called for an early start on a new major-minor agreement.

President Ford Frick was authorized to appoint a committee of four to meet with similar committees from the American league and the National association [minor leagues] to draft a code to replace the one that expires Jan. 12, 1942.

"Many proposals have been made to change or clarify the present rules and regulations in baseball.

Early Meeting Sought.

"Inasmuch as the major-minor league agreement expires in 1942, customarily necessitating the appointment of committees by both the Major leagues and the National association, the National league hereby authorizes and directs the president of the National league to appoint on or before March 1, 1940, a committee of four, including himself, to consider the various proposals above referred to.

"The National league respectfully requests the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues to appoint in due course a committee of like number and purpose to coöperate with the committees of the two major leagues. The first joint meeting of such committees to be held at the earliest feasible date."

Frick said the American league already had expressed a desire for such a joint consideration and that he hoped the minor leagues would be able to name their representatives within a few weeks so that all parties could start on the task quickly.

Farm Ban Tightened.

At the annual winter meeting in Cincinnati last December the National league and the minors voted for amendments to the present agreement which would have forced Commissioner Landis to relax his rigid restrictions on farm system. The American league rejected them and in the joint major league meeting Landis cast the deciding vote that tossed out the proposed amendments. Since then he has tightened the bans on farm holdings and suggested that they be done away with entirely.

Cubs Get First Look at Where Lombardi Fell

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[SCHEDULE ON NEXT PAGE.]

On April 16 next an honor will be bestowed upon the Cubs. According to the National league schedule released yesterday Gabby Hartnett's Chicagoans will be permitted to enter Crosley field, Cincinnati, that afternoon. That's the opening date of the 1940 campaign, but for the Cubs it will be doubly important.

They'll have the first chance to view the spot on which Ernie Lombardi, Reds' catcher, struck his fallen gladiator pose while a flock of Yankee runners were on the loose in the fourth and final world series game last October.

Open in Chicago April 19.

The Cubs will have three days in Cincinnati, after which they'll return to Chicago for their own Wrigley field opening April 19. The St. Louis Gas House gang, sure 1940 pennant winners, according to the winter book, will be the visiting half of the local inaugural.

Other National league openings April 16 will be Brooklyn at Boston, Philadelphia at New York, and Pittsburgh at St. Louis. The Pirates' home opener will be with the Reds, Brooklyn's at home kickoff with the Giants, and Philadelphia's with the Bees.

It will be the Cubs' turn this year to do the bigger portion of their holiday business on the road. They'll be at home Memorial day, May 30, for a twin tussle with the Reds, but at St. Louis July 4 and at Pittsburgh on Labor day.

Lights Complicate Schedule.

Night baseball showed such amazing growth this winter that the schedule makers couldn't keep up with the innovation. So in drawing up the 154 game schedule they listed electric light dates for only four parks—Cincinnati, Philadelphia, and Brooklyn, where the after dinner dates are old stuff, and at New York, where a lighting plant will be installed.

The four night games listed thus far for the Cubs are at Philadelphia May 22, at New York June 18, at Brooklyn June 25, and at Cincinnati June 28.

It was tough enough when Arch was in town
Yep, the Wake was beaucoup tough to make
When A. W. was in the city.

The Wake wasn't hard enough run by one guy,
Now we've got to get by a committee!

The Brothers Bausone See Bambino KO'd

Frank and Anthony Bausone, who will compete in the city open division of the Golden Gloves tourney in the Coliseum Feb. 20, were on hand last night to lend moral support to their 16 year old brother, Salvatore, making his debut in tournament competition in the west section bouts at the Madison Athletic club. Salvatore who is a freshman at St. Mel's High school, was knocked out by Edward Miller of 1048 North Wood street in the third round of a flyweight encounter.

William Preston, 124th Field Artillery armory lightweight, and Walter Janus, Clique Social A. C. middleweight, showed so much skill in winning their opening matches on Monday that they withdrew from the novice sectional meet. Officials transferred both to the Coliseum meet. Joe Preston, 20 years old, and twin brother of William, also will compete in the Wabash avenue arena, but as a welterweight.

Harry Sparrow, lightweight semi-finalist in last year's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, who will return to action as a welterweight Feb. 20, served as a second for last night's Catholic Youth organization representatives on the west side.

Eddie Krawczyk, Union League Boxing club featherweight, who wears size No. 6 shoe, can blame his defeat in the west section bouts last night to the fact that he wore a pair of borrowed shoes five sizes too large for him. Krawczyk repeatedly stumbled and fell to the canvas in the first round of his contest with Louis Jones of 5534 South Hamilton avenue. In the second round Eddie no longer could lift his feet because of the excess baggage and Referee Tommy Thomas stopped it and awarded the decision to Jones on a technical knockout.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 6 [Special].—Marquette university's record of not having lost a basketball game on its home floor in more than three years will be in peril tomorrow night when the University of Chicago quintet comes here. Marquette made it 15 in a row at home recently when it defeated Northwestern.

Tomorrow night's game will be the last of the season against a Western conference foe for Marquette, which has won three out of four against Big Ten opponents. Its all time record against conference teams, since Coach Bill Chandler assumed command here a decade ago, is 31 victories and 22 defeats. In that time the Hilltoppers won 12 out of 15 games with Chicago.

The Maroons, who broke a long losing streak with a decision over Loyola last week-end, shape up as the tallest team to invade Milwaukee this season. Three Maroon starters are 6 feet 4 inches in height. Lineup:

N. U. MEETS BUTLER

After a two weeks' layoff during midyear examinations, Northwestern university's basketball team will resume play tomorrow night against Butler in Indianapolis. The game will serve as a tuneup for the Wildcats' next conference start against Michigan in Patten gymnasium Saturday night.

The long period of idleness may have further dulled the effectiveness of the Wildcats, who will seek to end a three game losing streak. Ohio State, Marquette, and Notre Dame set the Purple down in order. This lapse came as a surprise, since the team had compiled a record of seven victories out of eight games.

Butler will prove a strong test for the Wildcats following Monday night's 50 to 46 victory over Wisconsin. The Bulldogs have a rangy team which has rolled up victories over Pittsburgh, Iowa, and Loyola this season.

Coach Dutch Lonborg may make several changes in the Northwestern lineup. Lack of speed and drive were major factors in the recent losses to Marquette and Notre Dame, and the defense went into almost total eclipse against the Irish.

Dick Klein, high scoring center, is about the only player certain to start. Altho held to two field goals and a pair of free throws in the Notre Dame game, Klein is the most consistent scorer on the team.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

South side novice boxers joined in the Golden Gloves tournament last night in White City, putting on 60 bouts which were sustained with courage and spiced with comedy. One of the largest opening night crowds in the history of this sectional event was regaled with a program of unremitting action, two rings being used thru most of the evening.

Meanwhile the west side boxers were continuing their program of eliminations in the Madison Athletic club. Action in this sector will be completed tonight, when the original field of 139 novices will be cut to 16—two in each weight division—who will be eligible for the all-Chicago tournament in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. They'll have to face open division fighters in that event, however.

South Side Finals Tomorrow.

The south siders also will continue fighting tonight. They'll conclude their eliminations tomorrow, after which only 16 of an original 194 will survive. The north sectional tournament will be held in Loyola university gymnasium Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Those who emerge from the Coliseum bouts with Chicago titles will join the survivors of similar eliminations from 45 out of town centers in the Tournament of Champions, which will be held in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

The crowd which gathered in White City last night didn't expect a great deal in the way of boxing skill. The fans came looking for impetuous action—and they found it. In many cases the referees had their hands full restraining the youngsters, many of whom were not up on the fine points of the rules.

Referee's Job Precarious.

They'd come there to fight and that was all they cared about. In one of the bouts a boy floored his opponent and then hung an extra one on his chin for good measure while he was sitting on the floor. Referee Joe McNamara nearly had his ears knocked off trying to handle another pair who insisted on swinging while they were both wallowing about on the canvas.

The smartest strategic move of the evening was made by a second whose fighter decided that he wanted to go home during the rest period after the first round. The second persuaded him to stick around for a few more moments and during that time the other fellow decided that he was the one who preferred to go home rather than answer the bell for the next round.

A large crowd cheered Albert Bellafiore, Catholic Youth Organization lightweight, when he survived a

Leo and St. Philip won last night to continue to lead the south and north senior sections, respectively, of the Catholic league.

Leo scored its seventh straight victory in turning back De La Salle, 31 to 25, at Leo. St. Philip, playing on its own floor, won from Fenwick, 30 to 25, for its sixth victory in seven starts.

In the junior race, St. Patrick shaded Loyola, 30 to 28, for victory No. 7 to hold the north section leadership, and Leo remained in the running for the south division title by whipping De La Salle, 33 to 23.

knockdown in the second round to win a decision in three rounds over Louis Bartemio of Melrose Park in last night's second session of fighting in the Madison A. C. Bellafiore had to retaliate with five knockdowns, however, before he was declared the winner.

Wins in 27 Seconds.

Clarence Menke, 327 Burkhardt court, flyweight with the punching power of a middleweight, won the honor of scoring the fastest knockout in the West Side trials when he sent Cisco Harley of the C. Y. O. spinning to the canvas for the count after only 27 seconds had elapsed in the first round. Menke landed two blows, the first setting up his Negro foe for a right to the point of the chin which ended the bout.

There were eight defaults later in the evening which reduced the program to 19 bouts. The boys on whom Lady Luck smiled included Carmen Finotti, Armour Square lightweight; Mike Romano, 210 West 26th street, featherweight; Edward Ryden, North Riverside; Edward Diano, Madison A. C.; Danny Kouch, C. Y. O.; Vincent Calzaretto, 124th Field Artillery Armory, all middleweights, and Od Thomas, C. Y. O. lightweight.

While Chicago boxers are going thru the preliminary stages of the campaign, other fighters are moving steadily toward sectional championships thruout the wide area in which 45 newspapers are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the presentation of Golden Gloves events.

Troubles at Home.

To seek relief from war news tense
I turned to scan an ad,
And there, to my dismay, I found
A situation sad.

His best friends would not tell him that
He had the dread B. O.

A darling debutante became
Her stockings always had a run
Upon her choicest dates.

Romance was likewise ruined for
A bride that was to be;
The scourge of halitosis doomed
This maiden fair to see.

And then I paused to shed a tear,
Though not o'er war torn lands,
But for the housewife with the red
—B. L. Bruce.

So What?

I never owned a 10 grand diamond ring;
I never danced the rhumba in La Conga;

I never flew to Paris in a day;
I never charmed an Indian maharajah;
I never made the first night at a play.

My heart never took a tumble for Clark Gable,
And DARNED if I'm not happy just the same!

Garnseys vs. Tomiseks; It's a Casting Feud

The Tribune casting tournament, being held this week on Navy pier in conjunction with the Chicago National Boat and Sports show, may develop a feud between two families before the winner is determined.

Three members of the Garnsey family, 7112 Merrill avenue, competed in the club event held early in the week and brothers Earl and Chester Garnsey went home with first and second place trophies.

It's a Family Monopoly.

Last night three members of the Adolph Tomisek family, Berwyn, entered the fishermen's event, and when the scores were compiled Mr. Tomisek had placed first, Mrs. Tomisek third, and Adolph Jr. fifth. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tomisek will compete in the finals Saturday night against the Garnsey brothers and other qualifiers.

Tomisek's winning score was a 73, four points better than the total of Ronald Giese Jr., second high scorer, and 10 points ahead of Mrs. Tomisek. R. F. Lanuna was fourth with 59 and Tomisek Jr. had 53. Fishermen casters will compete again tonight, tomorrow night, and Friday. The three high scorers of each evening qualify for Saturday's final event.

Ah! What a Contest.

A number of Chicago's most attractive girls have been entered in the contest to select the Lady of the Lakes, the judging of which will be held Saturday. Miss Ruth Jacobs, Melrose Park, is one of the entrants. The girl winning the title will represent Great Lakes yacht clubs at a yachting event to be held in Florida later in the season.

Michigan Gives Scholarship Aid to 17, Loans to 41

Seventeen University of Michigan athletes were assisted by scholarship money last year, the Western conference revealed yesterday in the seventh release of its series on student aid in Big Ten schools.

Fourteen of those seventeen were holders of undergraduate scholarships, of which there are 75.

Three other athletes held cash scholarships extended on the basis of academic standing from particular funds and administered by a committee headed by the dean of the applicant's college.

Michigan lists as athletes 347 out of a male enrollment in the undergraduate and professional schools of 6,908. Athletes include those on varsity squads and freshman numeral winners.

No tuition remissions are given at Michigan, but 41 athletes were among the students receiving loans thru a committee headed by Joseph Bursley, dean of men.

Federal aid has been an important means of support for a number of Michigan athletes.

Pounds Four Spar Mates; Floors Scholz.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP).—Joe Louis, who defends his world's heavyweight boxing championship against Arturo Godoy of Chile in Madison Square Garden Friday night, indicated in his workouts today that he is not taking the South American boxer lightly. He gave four sparring partners a thorogoing lambasting, flooring one of them—Emil Scholz of Boston—with a terrific short right hand punch.

Joe's preparations for the fight showed that he has no intention of permitting the bout to go its scheduled 15 rounds. Today's training session revealed a concentration on a punch which he has used before, tho only infrequently. It is a short left uppercut, designed not to floor a man, but to straighten him up prior to leveling with a potential knockout punch. Joe has showed against boxers with a crouching style that he has a hard time tagging his opponent, and Godoy belongs to the crouching school. Today Joe used it especially in his workout against Scholz, and the reaction was immediate. Emil straightening up instantly each time.

Galento Greets Louis.

Among the guests at today's drill for Joe's ninth defense of the title was a squat round gent who exchanged greetings with the champion to the extent of a "Hello, Joe" and a "Howdayafeel?" He was Tony Galento, the Jersey bartender who exchanged—or tried to exchange—punches with Louis last summer before Joe ended it with a technical knockout victory in the fourth round. Galento, who has met Godoy twice, averred that Joe should win, and "might do it by a knockout if he gets a good shot at Godoy."

GODOY ENDS TRAINING.

He weighed 203 pounds after the workout and Dr. William Walker, who examined him for the New York Athletic commission, said he was "in great shape."

BRUINS BATTLE AKRON; BID FOR PRO LEAGUE LEAD

The Chicago Bruins, who for weeks have been a party to a three-way battle for first place in the western division of the National Basketball league, tonight will fight to regain that position when they meet the Akron Firestones in the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets. The contest is expected to be so close that it was said last night that George Halas, co-owner of the Bruins, will come down to the sidelines from his regular grandstand seat five minutes before the end of the game. Heretofore George has not donned his best shouting uniform until the final three minutes.

Gerald Bush.

The Sheboygan Redskins, whose court the Bruins will invade tomorrow night, now are in charge of the western lead with a percentage advantage of 16 points over the Chicagoans. Not far behind the two are the Oshkosh All-Stars, still very much in the struggle for the right to meet the eastern division winners for the league title next month. The Bruins can take first place by winning tonight and thus set the stage for another first place bout at Sheboygan tomorrow.

Tonight's preliminary game, starting at 8 o'clock, brings together Armour Institute and George Williams college. Lineups:

Mura to Play with Old Mates Against Yale

Like the Yale alumni themselves, the 124th Field Artillery Polo team will hold a reunion for the game Saturday night with the collegians in the 124th armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

For the artillerymen, it will be Lieut. Don Rice, Capt. Romeo E. Mura, and Lieut. W. D. [Wild Bill] Fergus, riding in that order.

Lieuts. Fergus and Rice have teamed together for three years, and Capt. Mura rounded out the combination until this season, when he organized and headed the Chicago Ramblers.

The Rice-Mura-Fergus combination won the league, national, and international Horse Show titles in 1938, and these players also rode with Leon Mandel on the 124th team that defeated the Cuban Army four in their series at Oak Brook.

Last year brought the second Metropolitan league senior title to the Rice-Mura-Fergus team, after which it broke up for the nationals in New York when Lieut. Fergus lined up with Bobby Nichoalds and Jay Secor to land the senior title.

Dan Peacock has drawn the assignment for Oak Brook to halt the Nichoalds of Evanston when these teams clash in the first game of Saturday's double header. Peacock will oppose Nichoalds at the No. 2 position.

De Paul Sees a Victory Over Loyola at Last

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

De Paul university's Blue Demons, who meet Loyola university's Ramblers in the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization game Friday night in the Chicago Stadium, will enter the contest in a variety of moods. Uppermost of these, of course, will be the business of licking the Ramblers, who have won the first three games of their feud, now become the city's No. 1 basketball rivalry.

Aside from the victory idea, however, the Demons, according to Tom Haggerty, De Paul's athletic director and head coach, will approach the battle from other angles. Until last Saturday night, when they met Indiana's Hoosiers in the Coliseum, the Demons were riding high and fancy on a streak of 14 triumphs in 15 games, the only defeat being an overtime loss to Southern California in the sixth game of the season. Came the Hoosiers Saturday, and the De Paul lads went into the game with the feeling that they might be a bit too good for Indiana. The Hoosiers soon adjusted that by taking a 34 to 11 halftime lead before De Paul cut down the ultimate margin to 51 to 30.

Defeat May Be a Tonic.

Haggerty feels that the sound drubbing administered by Indiana may have been just the tonic his boys needed. They demonstrated its value Monday with an easy 53 to 28 decision over Louisiana State. What they will do against Loyola remains to be seen, but the series being what it is, Haggerty is forgetting completely the fact that the Ramblers lost their twelfth straight game Monday night. The De Paul forces realize that victory for the Loyolans will more than make up for the unhappy string of defeats. Even without that span of losses, and overlooking their own excellent record, the Demons admit to a hearty respect for their foes of Friday.

The Demons' attitude toward the game has undergone a number of crimps since the game against Toledo a week ago last Monday. In that battle Lou Possner, their high scoring sophomore star, suffered a badly injured left knee. He returned to the game and played part of the Indiana battle, but was not in uniform Monday against L. S. U. Yesterday afternoon Haggerty and Trainer Frank Stevens ordered him to a hospital for rest. Whether he will remain there until De Paul goes on an eastern trip or whether he will be able to play at all against Loyola rests on the condition of his knee on Friday afternoon.

To replace Possner at forward Haggerty is using Sophomore Bob Wozny, a Schurz High graduate, who made his debut against Louisiana State a good one by making six field goals, four of them on hook shots.

Gainer, Szukala Slightly Hurt.

Stevens was given plenty of other work yesterday as the Demons worked out in their home gym. There was Center Elmer Gainer's right hand, sprained in the first play of the Indiana game, and just to make it sort of general Capt. Stan Szukala came up with a pulled neck muscle in the Louisiana State game which was still bothering him yesterday.

Farr Accepts Rematch with Louis Next June

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP).—Tommy Farr, British heavyweight, said today he had accepted terms for a return fight with Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, in the United States.

"I do not know what date, but I expect it will be some time in June," Farr said in announcing he had telegraphed his acceptance to Mike Jacobs, New York promoter.

DAHLSTROM LOST TO BLACKHAWKS FOR THREE GAMES

Just when Manager Paul Thompson was congratulating himself on having only one Chicago Blackhawk on the casualty list, he was informed yesterday that Cully Dahlstrom, the team's leading scorer, will be lost for the next three games, beginning with tomorrow night's important argument with the New York Americans in the Chicago Stadium.

Dr. H. F. Meacham, the team's physician, conveyed the sad news to Thompson that Dahlstrom is suffering from a blood clot in a vein in his right foot. He also added that the condition, apparently following an injury in Sunday night's game against Detroit, was an unusual one, and the first Dr. Meacham knows of in the history of the National Hockey league.

Dahlstrom joins speedy little Doug Bentley on the injury roll. Bentley suffered torn ligaments in his right shoulder in last Saturday's victory over Toronto. The absence of Bentley and Dahlstrom called for another adjustment in the Hawk forward setup, so Ab de Marco was recalled from the Providence Reds to act as a utility forward. De Marco had been returned to the Reds with Joff Desilets in the deal which brought Bobby Carse and Johnny Chad, 20 year old Wings, to the Hawks.

The Hawks, who rested Monday and yesterday after the eleven day stretch in which they played seven games, will conduct a 90 minute workout beginning at noon today in the Stadium. This, Thompson figures, will suffice in view of the two injuries and the fact that after tomorrow night's game against the Americans, they must meet the Wings Friday in Detroit and then come back to the Stadium to meet the league leading Rangers Sunday night.

YEAR'S BUSINESS OF MONTGOMERY WARD SETS PEAK

Sales Pass Half Billion in Fiscal Period.

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday reported sales during the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 passed the half billion dollar mark for the first time in the company's history. January sales also established a new record for that month.

Sales of the company, large Chicago mail order and retail store enterprise, aggregated $501,819,199 in the year. They exceeded the preceding year's volume by $69,005,698, or 15.94 per cent. A total of $432,813,501 for the year ended in January, 1939, was the previous record.

January sales totaled $29,984,030, a gain of $5,215,485, or 21.06 per cent, over sales of $24,768,545 during January, 1939.

THREAT OF BIG PROFIT TAXES IRKS BUSINESS

Revenue Rule Cause of Much Concern.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—Section 102 of the internal revenue code, which penalizes retained corporation earnings, remains a sore spot with business, altho treasury officials promise to be reasonable in its application.

Fears of the stiff taxing provisions arise principally from a set of orders issued last July 26 to internal revenue men instructing them to examine carefully all corporate income tax returns with particular attention to possible application of rule 102.

Previously, this taxing provision had been regarded as applying only to personal holding companies. The treasury regulations, issued without specific congressional approval, in a sense nullified the corrective action of congress last year in allowing the 2½ per cent vestige of the New Deal's undistributed profits tax to die a natural death on Dec. 31.

Effects Are Disastrous.

The tax had been enacted in 1936 at the insistence of President Roosevelt, who found it one of his pet measures for redistribution of wealth. Effects of the measure were so disastrous, by forcing distribution of earnings and milking the corporations of necessary reserves, that congress was forced in 1938 to cut the surtax of 7 to 27 per cent above the normal income tax rate to a mere 2½ per cent on net incomes of more than $25,000.

The treasury regulations, however, issued after congress voted for expiration of the undistributed profits tax, subjected these same corporations to even stiffer penalties. Under rule 102, a corporation "improperly accumulating surpluses" is subject to a surtax of 25 per cent of the first $100,000 of undistributed net income and 35 per cent on the remainder. The treasury has been urged to repeal or at least modify the instructions sent its agents, but is reported adamant in its refusal.

Instructions of Treasury.

The instructions issued by the treasury ruled that the following classes of corporations should be given close attention to determine application of 102:

1. Those which have not distributed at least 70 per cent of their earnings as taxable dividends.

2. Have invested earnings in securities or other properties unrelated to normal business activities.

3. Have advanced sums to officers or shareholders in the form of loans out of undistributed profits or surplus from which taxable dividends might have been declared.

4. A majority of whose stock is held by a family group or other small group of individuals, or by a trust or trusts for the benefit of such groups.

5. Corporations in which distribution of more than 70 per cent of earnings is still considered inadequate because of nature of business, or unreasonable accumulations of cash or other quick assets.

Toolmakers Protest.

Latest objections to wholesale application of rule 102 have come from machine tool manufacturers whose cooperation Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has asked in filling orders in the national defense program. The machine tool industry holds an important place in providing adequate facilities for the American armament program as well as the war orders of the British and French, who have the active support of the administration.

Machine tool manufacturers, including many in the Chicago area, are anxious to cooperate and get government contracts, but they also hesitate to expand their plant facilities unless the government makes some adequate adjustment. They say that section 102 does not permit them to retain earnings which will provide a reserve for bad times following a war boom.

Treasury Men's Answer.

Treasury officials responded to this objection at recent conferences with the manufacturers, it is understood, by telling them that if they establish reasonable reserves for a specific purpose they will have nothing to fear from the treasury application of 102. These officials said that they subscribe to the policy on 102 contained in a letter from former Undersecretary John W. Hanes to a congressman. This letter promised fair and reasonable application of the section.

"I am assured by the commissioner of internal revenue that it is the purpose of his bureau to be most careful, both in the field and in Washington, so that there will be no abuse of section 102, and on the other hand to be equally alert to assure that the intent of congress as expressed in that section is accomplished," Hanes had written. There is no cause for concern over the instructions to field agents, he added.

Report Few Cases Applicable.

Since Hanes left office there has been some belief that these promises may be tossed out the window. But it is understood John L. Sullivan, new assistant secretary and former deputy commissioner of internal revenue who took over Hanes' tax duties, is following the Hanes policy.

The tool manufacturers were told that of 32,690 corporation tax returns examined between July 26, when the instructions were issued, and last Dec. 1, only 1,677 cases were reported for possible application of 102. Of this number application of the penalties was finally recommended in 13 cases with final determination still pending.

Imports from Java Hurt Farmer

The graph indicates tapioca and sago imports 1925 to 1939. Since trade treaty was signed in 1935, imports have risen sharply.

Corn Refiners Hurt by Cheap Java Imports

country applies to all others, whether or not they hold treaties with this country—so long as they do not discriminate against American goods. Thus, it is charged, this government lowers its tariff rate to many nations that are not bound to reciprocate with duty reductions on American goods.

Treaty Made in 1935.

The injury of which the American corn raiser and the corn refining industry complains, however, came about thru the terms of a specific treaty, that with the Netherlands, which was negotiated in 1935 and required the United States to guarantee that there would be no tariff placed upon tapioca and sago starches so long as the treaty might endure.

In that year, with the treaty in force, production of the two starches in the jungle islands of the east was practically doubled, the records show. Department of commerce records disclose that exports to the United States soared from the 1935 average of 181,502,166 pounds a year to an all time high of 466,327,683 in 1937. The 1939 figure was estimated at 380 million pounds.

The American corn refining industry, which is chiefly affected, is the largest cash customer of the farmers who raise corn for sale, taking a third of all that goes to the primary corn belt markets.

Could Use More Corn.

In recent years it has processed between 58 and 87 million bushels annually. This is approximately half of the 125 to 175 million bushels used industrially each year. Its absorption of American corn could be much higher, leading refiners declare, were it not for the inroads of tropical starches. Another factor, according to John B. Newman, vice president of the research foundation, is that the trade treaties have failed to better the refiners' export position.

Seven of the 22 Hull treaties have obtained so-called concessions from other nations on starch. But five of the nations merely bound the commodity at its present rate, guaranteeing there would be no increase. One of these, Belgium, slightly increased its quota for American starch. The other two lowered their duty slightly, but not enough to permit trade, Newman declared.

Meanwhile, he continued, the Netherlands and other starch producing countries use the United States as a dumping ground. The government encouraged industry of Java was sending only 44 per cent of its starch here in 1928. In 1935—the treaty year—it sent 84 per cent, in 1936 it shipped 82 per cent, and in 1937, 81 per cent.

Holland Collects Tax.

Authorities consider it significant that during this time Holland was—and still is—collecting an excise tax on starch shipped into it from Java—its own possession!

Lack of a tariff barrier and cheap jungle labor are not the only elements that put American cornstarch at a disadvantage, according to A. E. Staley Jr., president of the Staley Manufacturing company of Decatur, Ill. Tapioca yields from 1,500 to 1,750 pounds per acre of raw material, while only about 1,050 pounds of starch can be obtained from an acre of corn, he said. And jungle acreage is cheap, while corn land is expensive.

Tapioca, unlike corn, grows beneath the ground. It is taken from the tuberous roots of the cassava plant, which are as large as a man's leg and are many feet in length. These are dug by the Javanese natives, then ground to separate the tapioca from the fiber. The white starchy mass that results is moistened and kneaded upon iron plates until the heat of the sun breaks up the starch granules, causing them to form into hard, irregular pellets.

Sago Comes from Palm.

Sago comes from the sago palm and is found deposited behind the tree's trunk as a pithy center. After grating and washing the almost pure starch that results is ready for export. The corn refining, or wet milling process, however, is a long and expensive one.

The starch in the corn kernel lies behind a fibrous hull and a layer of mixed gluten and starch. To remove it the miller must be prepared to steep the grain, grind it, shake and sift it, and dry it in kilns.

"This doesn't seem to be a great difference," Newman declared. "But when it is understood that this creates a difference of $425 a car and that millers will shift to tapioca starch for a difference of $25 a car, it can be seen that American cornstarch is placed at a tremendous disadvantage."

In another article to be published soon the total loss to American industry thru importation of tropical starches will be explained, as well as an instance of treaty wording that helps these starches escape the tariff.]

NEW PLANT TO MAKE FLOOR WAXES, HOME CHEMICALS IN CHICAGO

A new industrial operation for Chicago—the manufacture of floor waxes and household chemicals—was announced yesterday by William H. Spuhler, president of the Ultra Chemical Works, Paterson, N. J. The Chicago activities will be carried on by the Ultra Chemical Company, Inc., in a factory at 4432 South State street.

Remodeling of the two story building at the State street address is in progress. A loading platform, truck garage and chemical housing will occupy a 25 foot service yard adjoining the building to the south. Installation of equipment will be started about March 1 and it is planned to have the factory in operation by April 1.

Dr. Henry Ruegg, vice president of the eastern company, who accompanied Spuhler here, said that the establishment was made necessary because of the company's mail order, department store and chain store business. Donald J. Whalen, Chicagoan long associated in the chemical field, will be in charge of the Chicago plant. Henry W. Geering, assistant to Dr. Ruegg at the Paterson plant, will move to Chicago to take permanent charge of plant operations.

TREASURY ASKS SEC REORGANIZE ASSOCIATED GAS

New York, Feb. 6 [Special].—Appointment of the Securities and Exchange commission as trustee in the reorganization of the Associated Gas and Electric company was recommended today to Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell by a representative of the treasury department. Such an appointment could be made under the public utility holding company act, but it was said that the SEC had not yet decided whether it should accept the assignment in this case.

Hugh A. Fulton, special assistant to the attorney general, formally opened his grand jury investigation of the affairs of the billion dollar company and sent out subpenas calling for the production of records of various concerns.

The company, parent member of a vast utilities system, recently settled tax claims with an undertaking to pay $5,000,000 to the treasury. Thus, it will be under the scrutiny of the treasury, the SEC, and Fulton, whose interest lies in possible criminal prosecution.

NEW YORK AUTO SHOW WILL BE HELD OCT. 12-19

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 6 (AP).—The national automobile show of 1940 will be held Oct. 12 to 19 at the Grand Central palace, New York, the Automobile Manufacturers' association announced today.

"The outstanding success of last year's October exhibition that furnished a longer fall selling season," said the announcement, "resulted in the selection of a similar period for 1940."

FINANCE FIRM'S NET PROFIT CUT BY AUTO STRIKE

Commercial Credit Earns $7,913,653.

The Commercial Credit company yesterday reported net income in 1939 was $7,913,653, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $4.01 a common share. In 1938 the financing company had net income of $8,997,363, or $4.60 a share.

The annual report attributed the 1939 decline in profits to the 60 day strike last fall in the Chrysler corporation's plants. A substantial part of Commercial Credit's wholesale and retail motor car financing is derived from Chrysler dealers.

Plans to Expand Field.

The statement also indicated that the company will devote more of its efforts to the expansion of its business in other types of small loans, such as loans to individuals on machinery, refrigerator., and radios, as well as character loans to individuals. It added that on Dec. 31 the company and its subsidiaries had more than $100,000,000 of available unused credit lines established with their depository banks, and that the companies "are well prepared for a large increase in volume" if it can be obtained.

Net income of the Westinghouse Air Brake company in 1939 increased to $2,763,629, or 89 cents a capital share, from $993,816, or 32 cents a share, in 1938. George T. Ladd and J. T. Tierney were elected directors of the company to fill vacancies.

National Biscuit Earns Less.

National Biscuit company reported its 1939 net income was $10,597,689, or $1.68 a common share, against $11,063,455, or $1.76 a share, in 1938.

Shawinigan Water & Power company reported net profit of $2,304,826 last year, equal to $1.06 a share. In 1938 the company, which operates directly and thru subsidiaries one of the largest hydro-electric systems in the world in Quebec, Canada, had a net income of $2,261,130, or $1.04 a share. The company reported that the outbreak of war increased the business of Shawinigan Chemicals, Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary.

Chicago Railway Equipment company reported a net profit of $243,680 for 1939, equal to $1.17 a common share after one year's preferred dividend requirements. In 1938 the company had a net loss of $61,758.

Noblitt-Sparks Earns More.

Noblitt-Sparks Industries, Inc., manufacturer of automobile parts and accessories, reported increases in sales and profits last year. Net income was $1,003,744, or $4.22 a share, compared with $393,889, or $2.06 a share, in 1938.

Q. G. Noblitt, president, said sales increased from 13 million units in 1938 to 17 million last year, bringing the dollar volume up to $6,834,676 from $5,123,724.

NEEDY WILL GET COTTON GOODS ON STAMP PLAN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—The agricultural department's long heralded stamp plan of distributing cotton products to the needy will be inaugurated experimentally in five to ten cities within six weeks.

Secretary Wallace outlined details today and expressed the opinion that the plan might be extended to a nation-wide basis later, particularly should the European war curtail exports of coton and cause surpluses to increase again.

Like the food stamp system, the cotton program will utilize regular trade channels. Eligible families will receive purchasing power, in the form of stamps, good for the purchase of cotton products at regular stores.

They will be given an opportunity to buy cotton stamps in an amount approximately equal to their present expenditures for cotton goods. For each dollar's worth of stamps bought, they will receive a dollar's worth free. Relief agencies and the agriculture department will redeem the stamps from stores.

Avery Firm to Supply Ford with Tractor Equipment

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 6 (AP).—Charles T. Ray, president of the B. F. Avery company, said today the concern had contracted to supply the Ford Motor company with farming implements and special equipment for all Ford tractors.

Illinois Sales Tax Collection Sets Record

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP).—Illinois' monthly collections of retailers' occupational taxes reached a new high of $8,832,014 in January, State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis reported today.

The figure was $607,000 higher than the previous record of $8,225,036 in January, 1939, and reflected a business turnover last December in Illinois of more than 7 per cent above that of December, 1938. The January sales tax receipts are on December retail transactions.

State treasury receipts last month were $25,359,168, compared with disbursements of $21,999,422. The favorable appearance of the comparison, however, Lewis said, was due in a large measure to seasonal income items not consistently reflected in monthly reports thruout the year.

Auto License Fees Included.

The January auto license fee collections, for instance, amounted to $4,137,410. This item will be considerably less in succeeding months. A quarterly payment by the federal government of $2,650,000 to the unemployment compensation trust fund added to the January income total.

The state's general revenue fund balance showed a decrease of $264,442 from the preceding month. The general fund balance on Jan. 31 was $6,631,268, compared with $6,895,711 on Dec. 31.

However, a slackening in the speed with which the general fund has been decreasing was indicated by comparison with the Nov. 30 balance of $8,430,924. Treasury department attachés predicted a more noticeable reduction of the general fund would occur this month.

Make Up Relief Deficiencies.

The general fund has been used to supply deficiencies in relief funds since the legislature at its last session authorized expenditure of money for relief at a rate of $4,000,000 a month. Previously the rate had been $3,000,000 monthly. The one-third of the sales tax which has been diverted directly to relief has been insufficient to supply relief needs.

Major disbursement items last month included $4,000,000 to the unemployment compensation account, $3,980,955 for emergency relief, $2,857,683 for old age assistance, and $1,249,017 for common schools of the state.

TEXAS WILL CUT OIL OUTPUT TO FIVE DAY WEEK

Austin, Tex., Feb. 6 [Special].—The Texas railroad commission will rescind its February proration order, which restored seven day production in all fields except East Texas, and will resume Saturday-Sunday shutdowns in all fields, as soon as the signature of Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, now in Washington, can be placed on the order, Chairman Lon A. Smith announced Tuesday.

The East Texas field was left under the shutdown order for 13 days of shutdown in January and proportionately this month, due to pendency of a federal court attack on the Texas allowable. All fields will be restored to the same shutdown basis in a new February order, Chairman Smith said.

One Member Disagrees.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—Jerry Sadler, member of the Texas railroad commission, said today he would not join the two other members in rescinding the February oil proration scheduled for Texas. Ernest O. Thompson, a second member, said it was necessary to revert to the January schedule of operation because of the "confusion, delay, and law suits" which resulted when the February order was put into effect.

GOVERNORS OF 7 STATES PROTEST OIL CONTROL BILL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 (AP).—Seven governors from oil producing states protested to President Roosevelt today against the Cole bill for federal regulation of petroleum production. They previously had assailed the measure before a congressional committee.

Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, said the President asked questions and "we told him why we are against the bill."

"I don't know as he is backing it," Phillips said. "I doubt it."

Phillips said the state executives did not ask Mr. Roosevelt to pass on the bill and that he had not done so.

The governors had told a house subcommittee the legislation was "subversive," invaded state's rights, and gave the federal government powers the states could better exercise themselves.

$102,000,000 BOND ISSUE PLANNED BY STEEL FIRM

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Dow Jones & Co., financial news agency, said today one of the largest corporate bond issues ever attempted is expected early in March with the sale of about $102,000,000 Bethlehem Steel corporation bonds. A syndicate headed by Kuhn Loeb & Co. and Smith Barney & Co. is expected to market the loan.

Proceeds from the issue, which would be filed with the Securities commission before Feb. 15, the agency said, would be applied to redemption of the company's 4¼s due 1960 and the 3¾s due 1966. Three per cent was mentioned as the possible coupon rate.

Mott Sets Up Big Trust for Wife, Children

Many major changes in equity holdings of company officials and principal stockholders of the nation's big business enterprises took place during December, the Securities and Exchange commission reported yesterday in its monthly summary.

Charles S. Mott.

By far the largest shift made by an individual was reported by Charles Stewart Mott, vice president and the largest single stockholder of the General Motors corporation. He has given 100,000 shares of General Motors company, according to the report, to a trust established for his wife and two children.

Altho sales exceeded purchases in the December report, securities experts called attention to the fact that December is usually the month when large sales are made for tax purposes.

Acquire Stock Thru Options.

Substantial blocks of securities, the report disclosed, were acquired by officials of a number of companies thru the exercise of options and thru company purchase plans.

Mott's gift, valued at more than $5,000,000, was regarded as the largest in recent years. It left his holdings of General Motors at 423,087 shares, as of Dec. 31. The motor executive's stock is valued at more than $23,000,000.

The gift shares were placed in an irrevocable trust for Mrs. Ruth Rawlings Mott and their children, Susan E. and Stewart Rawlings Mott. Mott will be the trustee under an agreement dated Dec. 5.

Mott, who is 64 years old, began accumulating his General Motors holdings when the corporation took over his Weston-Mott company, manufacturers of automobile wheels and axles, more than 25 years ago.

Starts Mott Foundation.

The Associated Press reported that treasury officials estimated that the minimum federal gift tax on the transfer would be more than $1,500,000. The amount, the agency reported, will depend on what other gifts Mott may have made since 1932, as the gift tax takes all gifts made since that year into account so that on donations over a period of years the tax is substantially the same as if it were given away all at once.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, New York, reported the sale during the month of 10,000 shares of New York Central railroad stock, leaving his holdings at the end of December at 90,648 shares. He also disposed of 9,200 shares of North Western railroad common, trimming his holdings of the issue to 6,000 shares. He is a director of both roads. Philip J. Roosevelt also of New York, a director of the Milwaukee road, reduced his holdings of the company's preferred stock by 3,000 shares.

Studebaker Heads Acquire Stock.

Harold S. Vance, chairman, and Paul G. Hoffman, president, each acquired 25,000 shares of Studebaker corporation common stock thru the exercise of options. Both live in South Bend., Ind. Charles B. Nolte, Chicago, president of the Crane company, acquired 5,000 shares of the company's common thru a similiar procedure. Louis Ware, New York, a director of United Electric Coal, acquired 3,000 shares thru the employe purchasing plan.

OIL PRODUCTION IN ILLINOIS SETS NEW DAILY PEAK

Rise Is Attributed to Devonian Pool.

Production of oil by Illinois wells in the week ended Feb. 3 established a new daily record, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday. The average daily output was 373,300 barrels, exceeding by more than 6,000 barrels the previous record of 366,931 barrels daily established during the week ended Jan. 20.

Pool's Output Soars.

Last week the state's two largest wells were completed in that area, and the pool's production soared to a new record mark of 229,300 barrels daily, from the old mark of 211,988 barrels.

An average daily production in 1940 of 350,000 barrels, or 23,300 barrels less than the amount produced each day in the latest week, would give Illinois a total 1940 output of 127,750,000 barrels. The 1939 production was 93,000,000 barrels.

Against General Trend.

The upturn in Illinois countered the nation's oil output trend. Production thruout the United States declined 129,355 barrels daily to 3,511,953, the trade journal said. In Texas output dropped 128,397 barrels to 1,238,487 daily.

Illinois' output rose 16,183 from the preceding week, and Kansas production gained 13,850 barrels daily to 181,600. Output declined in Louisiana, the eastern fields, Michigan, and the Rocky mountain area.

COAL OPERATOR SUED ON FEDERAL ACT ASSESSMENT

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP).—The federal government took steps today to compel a bituminous coal operator to pay assessments levied under the Guffey bituminous coal act of 1937.

Acting at the request of Collector of Internal Revenue Joseph T. McDonald, Assistant United States Attorney Joseph P. Brennan obtained from Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson a ruling that John W. Stark, Philipsburg, Pa., bituminous operator, must show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for alleged refusal to file a tax return as provided by the act.

Stark, described by Brennan as one of the largest central Pennsylvania bituminous operators, has repeatedly refused to file a return or to allow deputy revenue collectors to examine his records for the purpose of filing a return, the government charged. Judge Johnson gave Stark until Feb. 20 to file an answer.

GOLD IMPORTS FOR WEEK CLOSE TO 50 MILLIONS

Gold imports in the week ended Jan. 31 amounted to $49,555,496, the commerce department reported yesterday. The largest shipment, $12,729,395, came from the Netherlands. Sweden was second with shipments totaling $7,011,867.

The combined shipments of various portions of the British empire accounted for the largest part of total gold imports. The United Kingdom shipped $4,872,948; Canada, $6,631,291; India, $2,334,860; Australia, $6,154,605, and South Africa, $2,600,360.

Gold exports amounted to $2,826. Foreign governments and central banks withdrew $2,275,915 during the week from their deposits of earmarked gold at federal reserve banks, reducing the total to about $1,125,541,000.

The treasury statement showed that the gold stock on Feb. 3 amounted to $17,947,590,900, compared with $14,697,896,011 a year earlier.

FEDERAL POWER PROJECT HINTS MIDWEST LOSS

Fix Low Rates as Lure to Industries.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 6 [Special].—Development of new industries in the Pacific northwest as customers for federal electric power at lowest wholesale rates in the country is a leading promotional activity in connection with the $75,000,000 Bonneville dam, 41 miles east of here.

In the midwest it has raised the question of whether established industries may be lost by populous regions which pay part of the cost of the Columbia river projects. Low water transportation costs and the position of the Bonneville area in relation to the markets of the orient are part of the sales talk. Questions have been raised whether it may increase the disadvantage in which the Panama canal has placed the midwest.

Aluminum Firm First Beneficiary.

First beneficiary of cheap federal power at Bonneville is the Aluminum company of America which has assets of 253 million dollars. Last year it was the largest customer of the Tennessee Valley authority, buying about 35 per cent of the energy sold by TVA. The contract the Aluminum company has made with Bonneville was said to mark "the beginning of industrial expansion based on Bonneville power," in the annual report issued a few days ago of Paul J. Raver, Bonneville power administrator.

The report said more than 50 inquiries have been received from concerns interested in using Bonneville power in manufacturing, and that negotiations are being conducted with industries which may buy about 100,000 kilowatts a year.

Scouts are said to be looking over the area for either Bethlehem Steel or United States Steel. The Bonneville authorities said in one report there was need of a steel plant in the northwest. Iron ore is available near here—not high grade—and the report said such a plant might have an annual production capacity of 260,000 tons of basic steel ingots or 180,000 tons of finished steel products. Such a plant might require more than 10 per cent of the power at Bonneville when all units are completed.

Capacity to Be Large.

With two units operating, Bonneville at present has a capacity of 86,400 kilowatts. After July 1, 1944, when all 10 units are in, its capacity will be 518,480 kilowatts. A kilowatt—1,000 watts—is the rate of power generation or delivery. A kilowatt is equivalent to 1.341 horse power and is the force that will lift 14,253 pounds one foot in one minute.

The Grand Coulee project, 75 miles west of Spokane, is to cost $393,000,000. When finished it will have a generating capacity of 1,890,000 kilowatts.

Backbone of the federal system in the Pacific Northwest will be the interconnection of the Bonneville and Grand Coulee power projects. Two generators at Grand Coulee having a rated capacity of 25,000 kilowatts will be available Aug. 1, 1940, when the first Bonneville-Coulee line is scheduled for completion. By July 1, 1944, Grand Coulee will have 315,000 kilowatts on the line giving a combined capacity for the two dams at that time of 833,000 kilowatts.

Wonder About Market.

Where the government will find a market when all the kilowatts are turned loose is a question here. In California, Los Angeles last year urged a 39 per cent reduction in the rates for power at Boulder dam. The Los Angeles region, which is largest customer of the $76,500,000 Boulder dam on the Colorado river, expressed a fear that when great blocks of hydro-electric power from Bonneville and Coulee seek customers, new industries will be attracted to Portland.

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Buying in steels was extended to other parts of today's stock market and leading issues rallied fractions to around 2 points.

The upward reversal came after midday. During the forenoon prices shuffled about without getting anywhere. Volume was inconsequential until the turnabout, when dealings broadened for a time. There was another slowdown in the final hour and prices in many cases ended under the day's tops. Transfers totaled 543,070 shares, against 413,045 the day before.

Brokers could find nothing outstanding in news developments to account for the forward tilt and the majority gave the principal credit to "technical" factors.

Altho the business recession of the moment was still a handicap, the opinion was voiced by several analysts that perhaps stocks had pretty well discounted the letdown.

In the matter of steels, further declines in mill operations and orders were looked for by financial quarters, but before the end of the quarter guesses were that there would be a pickup.

National politics continued to take precedence over the European war as a topic of Wall street discussion and it was believed this influence might gain added importance marketwise as opposing parties line up for the presidential combat.

Prominent shares on the upward tilt included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Wheeling Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, New York Central, Pullman, du Pont, United States Rubber, Western Union, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—A broadened inquiry by investors and institutions for low yield bonds brought a general but moderate advance in today's market. Gains ranged from small fractions to a point in the general list with scattered runups of 2 points or more.

United States government issues were tardy in joining the movement, but closed with gains of 2-32 to 6-32 in the majority. Norway 4s and 4½s, and Belgium 6s paced a fairly steady foreign dollar division.

The New York Stock exchange today reported bonds listed on the exchange with a par value of $53,987,705,347 had a market value of $49,678,805,641 as of Jan. 31. This compared with issues with a par value of $54,066,782,942 and a market value of $49,919,813,386 on Dec. 30. On Jan 31 there were 1,391 issues listed and the average price was 92.02 per $100 bond, against 1,395 issues and an average of 92.33 a month earlier.

Chicago Stocks.

Most volume leaders closed fractionally higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Five issues set new highs. Volume continued light. Of 100 issues traded 46 advanced, 25 declined, and 29 finished unchanged.

Middle West, most active issue, added ¼ point at 9¼ on a turnover of 1,950 shares. Borg-Warner, Asbestos Manufacturing, Goldblatt, Elgin Watch, Montgomery Ward, and Swift gained ⅛ to ¾ point.

Gains ranging up to 2 points sent Allied Laboratories, Katz Drug, Mountain States Power, National Battery preferred, and St. Louis National Stockyards shares into new high ground.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares declined 2 points in quiet bank stock trading yesterday, closing at 241 bid. Continental Illinois shares sold ½ point lower, with the closing bid at 88½. Other issues were unchanged.

SPRING MARKET EVENTS INDICATE BIG SALES TOTAL

Order Volume Estimated at 18 Millions.

Success of the many events held yesterday in connection with the semiannual meeting of the Interstate Merchants' council and 20 trade shows confirms estimates that Chicago business will be the gainer by about $18,000,000 worth of orders, Paul W. Kunning of the Association of Commerce staff declared. The council and the shows are being held as a part of the spring market week sponsored by the association.

Paul Kunning.

Kunning said that attendance is running more than 10 per cent ahead of the 1939 spring market week when 16,000 out of town merchants and buyers came to Chicago. This year the total should exceed 18,000 he said.

Special Events Successful.

"That Chicago manufacturers and distributors will profit materially from this seasonal visit of department store owners and their buyers from all parts of the country was shown in the success of the many special events staged for their entertainment," Kunning declared.

"The invitation breakfast served by the Merchandise Mart as a lure for its infants' and children's wear clinic brought out 750 early morning guests. At noon, Carson Pirie Scott & Co. wholesale department and Butler Brothers each served luncheon to 700 visiting merchants."

1,200 Attend Banquet.

More than 1,200 buyers representing 24 states attended the annual banquet at the Hotel Sherman. Speakers included Dr. Preston Bradley and Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce. While the banquet was in progress 2,200 other visiting buyers were present at the style creators' show at the Stevens hotel.

January business in the Chicago wholesale district ranged up to 10 per cent ahead of the volume for the corresponding month last year, the Chicago Wholesale Market council reported. According to Irving Parsons, managing director, activity centered in men's shirts and haberdashery lines, women's dresses, lingerie and early spring merchandise. Inventories, he said, were not excessive.

COTTON

Free buying attributed to mills disclosed a lack of pressure on American cotton markets yesterday and prices advanced quickly and closed about the top. Net gains were .08 to .14 cent a pound. Southern hedging sales checked the advance.

New Orleans was closed for the Mardi gras. The Bombay, India, market was closed as the result of a strike by brokers against the imposition of a government excess profit tax.

Spot cotton closed .09 to .13 cent higher with New York 10.86 cents; Houston, 10.58 cents and Galveston at 10.55 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Braniff Airways Continues Round Trip Excursion Fare

Braniff Airways will continue its reduced round trip excursion fare between Chicago and Kansas City because of the large number of passengers using the service, Charles E. Beard, vice president of the line, announced yesterday. The excursion fare, amounting to approximately a 30 per cent reduction, was introduced more than a year ago. A new fleet of planes put into service last month has enabled the air line to handle more passengers, Beard said.

ELECTRIC GROUP IS FINED $54,150 IN FRAUD CASE

Union Dictator Draws Largest Penalty.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP).—Fines aggregating $54,150 were imposed today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on 57 electrical contractors, union leaders, and corporations who had pleaded no defense to charges that they conspired to defraud the government on WPA electrical costs. Attorneys alleged the government lost $500,000 in five years due to bid-rigging and collusion.

The stiffest fine, $7,000, was given to Michael P. Gordan, business agent of local 5 of the American Federation of Labor's International Brotherhood of Electrical workers. He was described by Assistant United States attorney General M. Neil Andrews as the "complete dictator" of the electrical contracting industry here.

Association Fined $2,000.

The Electrical Contractors association, described as the "clearing house" for the collusive bids, was fined $2,000, and William F. Hess, president of the association, was fined $5,000. Hess' firm, Hess & Barton, also was fined $2,000.

Robert Carmack, manager of the contractors association, received a fine of $5,000, and William G. Shord, secretary of the A. F. L. Electrical Workers union, was fined $3,000.

Fifty-eight persons and corporations were indicted last November by a federal grand jury, but the charges against the 58th defendant, another union official, were later dropped.

Another Jury Called.

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—A second special federal grand jury was called today to convene on Feb. 27 in the government's drive against abuses in the building trades industry.

More than 100 subpenas have been served in connection with the inquiry into alleged illegal practices in the manufacture, supply, and installation of electrical equipment for building construction projects in New York City. Similar investigations are under way in other parts of the country.
